WARNEKE DEFEATED IN PITCHERS' BATTLE

Chapman and Dickey Drive in 2 Runs Each; Gehrig Gets 3 Singles.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Yankee Stadium, New York, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The world series baptismal of Lon Warneke, youthful hero of the Chicago Cubs' pitching staff, was a ritual of Yankee base hits this afternoon as New York's American League champions pounded their way to a 5-to-2 victory and staked themselves to a two-game lead in the current postseason play-off.

The second game of the 1932 world series was another personal triumph for Larrupin' Lou Gehrig, the great busybody of the Yankee offensive, who with three blazing singles figured in the scoring of every Yankee run and struck the first telling blow to show his willing teammates that the National League's aura of invincibil-

50,709 Pay $155,919 To See Second Game

Yankee Stadium, New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—An increase of nearly 10,000 over the opening game crowd, the total paid attendance today for the second Cub-Yankee baseball battle was 50,709. The total receipts were $155,919.

The players' share was $79,518.69 while $53,012.46 was split four ways, among the two contending teams and the two big leagues, and $23,387.85 went to the advisory council.

The permission to sell single game reserved seats resulted in a substantial boost of the grand stand tickets. A total of 17,538 reserved seats were sold as compared with less than 10,000 yesterday.

ity that had been erected about the person of Warneke was either a myth or quite exaggerated.

It was the world series baptismal, too, of young Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, ace of the Yankee staff, and the very much left-handed New York pitcher acquitted himself with great credit, holding the vaunted attack of the Cubs to ten judiciously scattered hits, striking out eight, and making Horatius at the Bridge look like a piker in the matter of defense as he protected his slender lead in the late innings.

Crowd Larger Than at Opener.

Little Old New York rallied in better fashion around the world series scene today, with a kindly sun turning out the fans to the number of 50,000, with the gaping bare spots that marked the stadium yesterday blotted out by their presence. There were occupants in every section today and the bleachers were sold out long before game time.

The gallery sat in on a record-breaking performance by the Yankees as they registered their tenth consecutive triumph in a world-series game, shattering the mark they first set yesterday. Not since that fateful day in 1926, when Grover Cleveland Alexander won for the Cardinals by fanning Tony Lazzeri with the bases full, have the Yankees lost a world-series battle and the prospect of another triumph in four straight games loomed highly prob-

Insull List Names Melvin A. Traylor

Mayor Cermak Also Down for 25,000 Shares of Utility Stock.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Reverberations in the $2,000,000,000 Samuel Insull utility collapse tonight revealed a new "favored friend" list which included Mayor Anton J. Cermak, and Banker Melvin A. Traylor as having bought stock at bargain prices. Each purchaser, however, lost heavily.

The list, as made public in Federal Court at the behest of creditors, mentioned 226 persons and corporations as members of a syndicate which entered into an involved transaction to take off the market 115,000 shares of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., stock.

Traylor, who sought the Democratic presidential nomination at the party's convention here this summer, was down for 25,000 shares. So was Mayor Cermak.

TAX CUT URGED BY ROOSEVELT

Iowa Crowd Hears Him Advocate Paring of Tariff Schedules.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 29 (A.P.). Before a crowd that filled the infield of the stock yards baseball park, most of the grand stand and spread far out into the outfield, Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight proposed that the tariff be put as low as the prosperity of industry will permit.

While fox hunting whoops went up from the outfield, the Democratic presidential candidate assailed the Republican tariff policy and proposed that the changes in the rate structures be made through the Tariff Commission and by international agreements.

Before swinging into his tariff proposals, Mr. Roosevelt accused "the present administration of being the greatest spending administration in peace times in all our history—one which has piled bureau on bureau, commission on commission and has failed to anticipate the dire needs or reduced earning power of the people."

Change In Government.

He called for a change in local, State and Federal governmental machineries to lop off unnecessary offices and officials so that the expenses of government might be reduced. Of the farm problem, he said it could be met successfully only if there was a sympathetic administration in Washington that had the support and cooperation of agriculture. He said the farmer had been attacked on the one hand by rising taxes and on the other by a depreciating farm dollar and that each of these should be dealt with.

He spoke again on the farm mortgage plan he outlined in Topeka and said:

"Today I read in the papers that for the first time the administration

Salonika Rocked By Five Shocks

200 Dead in Greece After Series of Quakes; Lake Dries Up.

Athens, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The series of earthquakes that have caused death and destruction in many parts of Greece the last few days continued today when five violent shocks caused considerable damage at Salonika.

Dispatches from the Chalcidice Peninsula in Macedonia said conditions there constituted a "hell on earth," with roads almost impassable because of wide cracks in many places and with such strange phenomena as the drying up of Lake Arania.

The number of casualties throughout Greece was placed at 200 dead and 400 injured. Terrified refugees streaming into Salonika said the quakes were preceded by sharp lightning.

END OF CHILD LABOR URGED BY PRESIDENT

Plan Is Recommended as Method of Fighting Unemployment.

WELFARE BENEFIT ALSO EMPHASIZED

School Budget Curtailment Attacked in Radio Address.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Urging the steady elimination of child labor in American industry, President Hoover told a national radio audience last night that such a program would be at once an effective weapon against technological unemployment and a distinct contribution to the advancement of child welfare.

Coupled with the plea for "the permanent elimination of young children from industry," was an admonition against panicky curtailment of State and county educational budgets under the financial stress of the depression. Maintenance of the schools was described by the President as "a first charge upon all of our resources in these times of emergency."

The address was delivered from the Lincoln study in the White House over a Nation-wide radio hook-up. It was addressed primarily to a gathering of some 3,000 leaders in child welfare assembled in New York for a biennial conference on organization and program. Some 1,800 local welfare groups from 26 States were represented in the meeting, which was presided over by Owen D. Young.

Progress Is Stressed.

"In this depression as never before," the President said, "the American people have responded with a high sense of responsibility to safeguard and protect the children, not only as the humane necessity of the day but that there may be no danger for the future."

As evidence of the generous response of local organizations to the extraordinary needs of the day, Mr. Hoover cited reports from the United States Public Health Service showing a steady decline in both infant mortality and infant disease during the three depression years.

"The continuous reports of the Public Health Service showing a less infant mortality, less infant disease than in prosperous times, can mark only one thing and that is the most extraordinary devotion to those who would be normally the most hard pressed."

Urges Spread Work Plan.

In approaching the problem of child labor, the President linked his recommendations with the broader national program for spreading work through staggered employment and shorter working hours.

"It is obvious that the discoveries of science and invention, of labor-saving devices, have outrun the ra-

France-German Arms Accord Reported Near (United Press.)

Reports were current in diplomatic circles last night that the French and Germans were near an agreement on their armament controversy which has troubled European politics for a decade.

Franco-German conversations are understood to be proceeding along the line of closer armament equality to be achieved over a term of ten years. Meanwhile, it is understood, the French would deny themselves tanks, heavy mobile artillery and other war equipment denied to the Germans.

Throngs Hear Bishop Freeman At Cathedral Stone Celebration

Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, was honored yesterday at a luncheon in Beauvoir, mansion house of the National Cathedral, upon his ninth anniversary as bishop and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the cathedral. The photo shows guest clergy and cathedral members who attended the exercises. In the front, left to right, are Mr. and Mrs. Roland Taylor, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Trowbridge, Bishop and Mrs. Freeman, and Mrs. G. C. F. Bratenahl. HOOVER'S ELECTION URGED BY COOLIDGE Calls on Massachusetts to Conduct Fight for G. O. P. Ticket.

Boston, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Calvin Coolidge tonight called upon Republicans of Massachusetts to conduct a "fighting campaign" for the reelection of President Herbert Hoover and the Massachusetts State ticket.

The Coolidge call to arms was contained in a letter to President Judson Hannigan of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, which was read at the "night before" dinner of Republicans here for tomorrow's State convention. Hannigan had invited Coolidge to be present.

"This campaign can be won by work and organization," said Coolidge. "The Republican party has an honorable record, it is pursuing a sound policy, and if what it has done in the past and what it is doing in the present is impressed upon the voters by a campaign of candid education it can not fail to meet with their approval.

"It is a time when the people ought to stand firm. There is nothing that could be more reassuring to the business interests of the country at this time than a knowledge that the people propose to support sound Republican principles. When that has been demonstrated many of our ills will disappear.

"We must put on a fighting cam-

4 Trainmen Killed In Alabama Wreck

Three Others Are Hurt as Crescent Limited and Freight Collide.

Wald, Ala., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Four trainmen were killed, three were injured seriously, and several passengers were shaken and bruised here today when the Crescent Limited, bound from New Orleans to New York, collided head on with a freight train emerging from a siding, while traveling 50 miles an hour.

Tom Cowell, of Montgomery, engineer of the limited; the Negro brakeman of the freight, and two mail clerks were killed.

Engineer Phillips, of the freight train, is critically injured and was taken to a Greenville hospital. He said he was on the main line when he saw the limited bearing down on him, and jumped from the cab. A flying bit of wreckage struck his lower jaw, almost severing it. The injured were taken to Greenville and passengers were transferred to a relief train and taken to Montgomery.

Former Revenue Agent Asked for Office Books

Winchester, Va., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Isaiah C. Roe, a former revenue commissioner, is instructed by order entered in Frederick County Circuit Court by Judge Philip Williams to appear October 3 and show cause, if any, why he has failed to turn over to his successor, Lee N. Whitacre, certain property assessment books.

Whitacre was elected to the office in 1931, having defeated Roe for the Democratic nomination. He took office January 1.

Mark 25th Anniversary of Foundation Laying.

A Te Deum of thanksgiving soaring through the Gothic arches and recesses of the newly completed Great Choir and Sanctuary of Washington Cathedral yesterday climaxed the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the laying of the foundation stone of the cathedral on September 29, 1907. The same Te Deum sung at the actual laying of the foundation stone a quarter of a century ago was part of a festival service of commemoration held yesterday afternoon.

A congregation which completely filled the Great Choir and Sanctuary and included many notables and distinguished men and women from other cities, members of the cathedral committees and friends of Washington Cathedral heard Bishop James E. Freeman, likewise celebrating his ninth anniversary as Bishop of this Diocese, pay stirring tributes to his predecessors in that office, the Rt. Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee, and the Rt. Rev. Alfred Harding, first and second Bishops of Washington, in his commemoration address.

Bishop Freeman quoted from the address made by the late President Theodore Roosevelt who had spoken at the foundation stone laying, in stressing the need for real Christian fellowship among men of different creeds.

Chile State Makes Threat to Secede

Antofagasta Forms Junta and Demands President's Resignation.

Antofagasta, Chile, Sept. 29 (A.P.). The authorities of the northern State of Antofagasta today began forming a civil junta and announced their determination to separate from the Santiago regime unless Acting President Bartolome Blance resigned in favor of a civilian government.

The authorities requisitioned food supplies in various ways and distributed them among the unemployed. Meanwhile Gen. Armando Marin, who arrived by airplane from Santiago yesterday with orders displacing Gen. Pedro Vignola as commander of the northern garrison, was started for Valparaiso in custody of civilians.

Gen. Marin was arrested on his arrival last night, and detained in a private home, so he could not take over the duties of Gen. Vignola. Subsequently he was compelled to resign. It was reported here that the national air force was neutral.

Red 'Sub' Feared Sunk By Hitting Danish Ship

Copenhagen, Denmark, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A dispatch from Helsingfors to a newspaper here today said a Soviet Russian submarine was believed to have been sunk with its crew of 35 in a collision with the Danish steamer Peder Maersk last Friday.

Both vessels were bound in for Leningrad. The steamer was only slightly damaged. It was quickly repaired, but its departure from Leningrad has been delayed pending an investigation of the accident.

PARAGUAYANS SEIZE FORT IN GRAN CHACO

Winners State Victory Has Virtually Brought End to Fighting.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 29 (A.P.). After a 20-day battle, the longest and bloodiest in the history of the 50-year dispute over the Gran Chaco territory, the Paraguayan government announced today that its assault troops had occupied Fort Boqueron.

Although this fort is no more important than a score of other wilderness outposts, even going unrecognized by most map makers until Bolivia captured it from Paraguay last August, its reoccupation has been one of the great goals of the Paraguayan forces.

The carnage was heavy because both sides constructed concrete trenches and machine gun nests in the vicinity and fought it out for all they were worth. Casualties among the defenders of the fort were increased by the lack of pure water.

Announcement of the capture set Asuncion wild. Society women and laborers got out flags and, locking arms, followed bands to the presidential palace. There the minister of finance announced that the president already had gone to the military hospitals to congratulate the wounded for their part in the victory.

"Our victory confirms Paraguay's titles to the Gran Chaco, which our

Sao Paulo Combatants Confer on Peace Terms

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 29 (U.P.).—Government and rebel representatives are conferring on terms which may end the three-month-old revolt of Sao Paulo State, according to an official announcement tonight.

The conference is being held in the Lorena sector, 130 miles northeast of the City of Sao Paulo, the rebel headquarters. Fighting in the sector has ceased during the conference between Gen. Daltro and three marine officials representing the government and Col. Villa Bella, representing the Sao Paulo insurgents.

Government Does Not Get Direct Rent for Cafeterias

Welfare and Recreational Association Largest Operator of Restaurants, All Operated for Profit, on Federal Property, Survey by Post Shows.

By ROBERT F. WHITNEY.

More than 100,000 square feet of floor space in Federal buildings in Washington is devoted to restaurants which feed Government workers. For this space the Government receives no direct rent payment from the operators of the eating places.

These cafeterias and restaurants, which have been made the target of an investigation by the Shannon committee of the House of Representatives, concerned with the competition of the Government by private business, are administered in four essentially distinct manners, it has been learned through a survey made by The Post.

These divergent methods of operation, by committees of Congress, by a corporation, by groups of employes and by concessionaires, show a widely variant interest of the Federal Government.

The most direct interest of Uncle Sam is in the operation of the eating places of the Senate and the House of Representatives at the Capitol. There the restaurants are directly subsidized through congressional appropriations to meet annual deficits which have been as high as $50,000. The House restaurants are under the direction of the committee on accounts while the Senate

Pope Will Charge Mexico With New Persecution Acts

Encyclical to Be Published Today Declares Modus Vivendi of 1929 Has Been Violated and Rights of Church Infringed.

Vatican City, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XI tomorrow will publish an encyclical denouncing what will be described as new acts of persecution against the Catholic Church by the Mexican government.

The pontiff was represented as feeling that a new crisis had been reached between the church and the government in Mexico, and that the modus vivendi of 1929 has been violated.

The encyclical will say that the rights of the church have been infringed, and the acts of the Mexican government have interfered with the people's religious habits and practices.

The bishops and priests of Mexico, to whom the encyclical will be addressed especially, will be instructed on the conduct they should follow toward the Mexican authorities during difficult times.

The encyclical will refer to a previous one issued by Pope Pius in 1926 and entitled "ini qui afflectisque." In that document was discussed the then existing church and state difficulty.

The nature of the Pope's instructions to churchmen in Mexico was not learned, but it was known that he would reaffirm the principles of the church, although the tone will be conciliatory.

The encyclical tomorrow probably will be one of the Pope's shortest

Disease Leads to Curb On Parrot Shipments

(Associated Press.)

The Public Health Service yesterday advised all persons to avoid contact with any recently shipped or acquired birds of the parrot family, and announced an interstate curb on the shipment of the birds.

This action was based on a psittacosis outbreak in Minneapolis, where five cases and one death were reported, and the Boise, Idaho, case of Mrs. William E. Borah, who has the disease.

The Health Service, in a formal statement, said that upon its recommendation the Secretary of the Treasury had ordered that interstate shipment of birds of the parrot family be limited to those certified by health authorities as coming from aviaries free from infection.

3 OF 35 SAVED IN SHIP WRECK

Dollar Line Boat Makes Rescue on Isle in North Pacific.

San Francisco, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Only three men of the 35 aboard the freighter Nevada, wrecked on a lonely North Pacific island, survived, said a radio message received here tonight by the Dollar Steamship Co.

The three survivors, aboard the Dollar liner, President Madison, of the American Mail Line, were being brought to Seattle from rock-ribbed Amatignak Island in the Middle Aleutian group on which the Nevada was caught and pounded to pieces.

All other officers and members of the Nevada's crew drowned as their vessel broke up, the message said. The survivors were rescued from the island late today.

The three men rescued are:

James Phorsen, cadet, who asked that Mrs. E. Sturgeon, of Portland, Oreg., be notified.

Fritz Dewall, ablebodied seaman, no address.

Lucena N. De Canay, ordinary seaman, Manila, Philippine Islands.

The three were taken off the island late today by boats from the President Madison. The message confirming the belief they were the only survivors was sent at 8:07 p. m. (P. S. T.) by Capt. R. J. Healy, master of the President Madison.

It said:

"Sailed from Amatignak," gave the names of the three men saved, and Struck by Trolley, Woman Near Death

Allowed to Lie 15 Minutes in Street, Calls for Ambulances Futile.

Struck by a street car as she attempted to cross the street near Connecticut avenue and M street northwest, Mrs. Frances O'Brien, 55, of 2335 Tracy place northwest, was taken last night to Emergency Hospital, where little hope is held for her recovery.

Witnesses said Mrs. O'Brien stepped from behind a southbound bus directly in the path of a street car traveling north. She was dragged several feet before motorman Henry A. Abell, 23, could stop his car.

A number of witnesses expressed indignation at the length of time it took to take the injured woman to the hospital. She was allowed to lie unconscious in the street for almost fifteen minutes while police called four different ambulances, according to one witness.

Mrs. O'Brien was finally placed in a passing taxicab and taken to the hospital. It was found she suffered a fractured skull, fractures to both arms and severe internal injuries. Her condition is critical.

FATHER IS SHOT BY GUNMAN AS GIRL WATCHES

Badly Wounded Employe of Navy Yard Tells Assailant's Name.

HIT BY FOUR BULLETS AS HE LEAVES HOME

Attacked on Entering Car on Way to Meeting of Union Lodge.

As his horror-stricken daughter watched in helpless terror, James F. Morgan, 51-year-old machinist at the navy yard was shot four times and critically wounded last night, as he left his home at 3629 Jocelyn street northwest, to attend a lodge meeting in Southeast Washington.

Muttering only one sentence—"If I die it is Kaiser's fault"—the injured man was found lying across the street curbing in front of his home. His young daughter, Eleanor, who saw her father shot down as he attempted to start his automobile, rushed to his side to hear him charge "Kaiser" with the assault.

The family had just finished dinner, police were told, and Morgan prepared to leave the house to attend the weekly meeting of Columbia Lodge, No. 174, Machinists Union, of which he is financial secretary.

Daughter Hears Shots.

His wife, Mrs. Eleanor N. Morgan, and another daughter, Alice, were in an upstairs room. Eleanor remained downstairs to say good-by to her father.

Bidding his daughter good-by, Morgan walked from the front porch to his machine parked in the street a few doors below. Eleanor returned to a front room of the house.

Within a few minutes, Eleanor related to police, two shots suddenly rang out. They were followed immediately by a cry for help, the girl said, and she rushed to the front door.

As she stepped to the porch, Eleanor declared, another shot was heard. This time she saw a flash in the darkness and caught a glimpse of her father running from a man on the opposite sidewalk.

The man, she told police, ran for a patch of nearby woods, and as he disappeared in a thick clump of bushes a bright flash lit up his figure and another report was heard.

Collapses in Street.

Eleanor said she ran to the front sidewalk and as she did so saw her father stagger to the middle of the street and collapse. Before she could reach his side, she said, he had dragged himself to the curb, where he lay in a semiconscious stupor.

Mrs. Morgan and Alice, aroused by the shots, aided Eleanor in helping Morgan into the house. He repeatedly muttered the name of "Kaiser."

Rushed to Emergency Hospital, the man was found to have been shot four times. He was hit twice in the abdomen, once in the right side and once in the neck.

Shortly before midnight last night police sent out the following broadcast:

"Look out for and arrest Harrison Kaiser, white, 42 years old, 5 feet 2

ROOSEVELT URGES CUT IN BURDEN ON FARMER

GOVERNOR RENEWS ATTACK ON TARIFF

Says Grower's Income Has Dropped While Debts Have Increased.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 29 (A.P.). Following is the text of Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech at Sioux City:

Two weeks ago I presented before an audience in the City of Topeka what I conceived to be the problem of agriculture in this country, with particular reference to the Middle West and West, and what the Government of the Nation can do to meet that problem.

I have been highly gratified to receive from all parts of the country, and particularly from farm leaders, assurances of their hearty support and promises of cooperation, in the efforts that I proposed, to improve the deplorable condition into which agriculture has fallen. These assurances of cooperation mean a great deal to the program which I submitted, because to get practical results we who have the farm problem at heart can not afford to let the stand-pat politicians and certain narrow minded industrialists and bankers use dissension and discord among farmers as an excuse for denying to us the legislation and the results we seek.

The meeting of the farm problem is going to be successful only if two factors are present.

The first is a sympathetic administration in Washington and the second the hearty support and patient cooperation of agriculture itself and its leaders.

The proposals I made in Topeka were set forth in this spirit. I have stated principles in which nearly all farm interests can unite. They embrace the common purpose of practically all farm leaders to inaugurate a broad construction policy and I am confident that sympathetic leadership in Washington can bring about substantial agreement in the actual details and wording of the legislation necessary to put the principles into practical effect.

I have set up these proposals as a definite standard to which men and women of all parties will repair, to the end that the desperate plight of agriculture may be remedied.

Says Returns of Farmer Steadily Diminishing.

I come today to the same great Middle West to meet farmers whose problems and needs are similar to those of the Kansans and whose suffering has been no less.

I can not avoid a word concerning what this plight of agriculture means to you all. It means that product of your labor brings half of what it brought before the war. It means that no matter how hard you work and how long and how carefully you save, and how much efficiency you apply to your business, you face a steadily diminishing return. As a farm leader said to me, you have been caught like a man in a deep pit, helpless in the grip of forces beyond your control. It has meant, my friends, that in spite of the maxims that we learned when we were in school that we ought to work and save, and be prudent and temperate—in spite of all of the rest of the homely virtues, the return on these virtues has belied the hopes and the promises on which we were raised.

That is one of the tragic consequences of this depression. The things we were taught have not come true. We were taught to save, and in many parts of this country the savings of prudent people have been dissipated by careless and conscienceless financial manipulation. We were taught to increase the products of our labor and we have found that while the products increased the return has decreased. We were taught to bring forth the fruits of the earth and we have found that the fruits of the earth have found no market.

The results of our labor have been lost in the smash of an economic system unable to fulfill its purposes.

It is a moral as well as an economic question which we face. Moral because we want to reestablish the standards that in times past were our goal. We want the opportunity to live in comfort, reasonable comfort, so that we may build out of this comfort spiritual values. The consequences of poverty bring a loss of spiritual and moral values, and even more important is the loss of the opportunity that we had hoped to give to the younger generation. We want our children to have a chance for an education, for the sound development of American standards to be applied in their daily lives at play and work. These opportunities can come only if the condition of agriculture is made more prosperous.

This high purpose can not be met by cynical disregard of plain necessity. It can not be met by the appeal that Washington has made so often to so-called immutable and unchangeable economic laws. As I have said, men and women and children may starve while we wait. It can not come through saying that nothing but the slow growth of prosperity will improve the condition of the farmer by the return of that prosperity depends upon the condition of the farmer.

The farmer—and when I speak of the farmer I mean not only those who live in the corn belt, but also those in the East or the Northwest who are in the dairy business and those in the South who are raising cotton and those on the plains who are raising cattle and sheep and those in the many sections of the country who are raising fruits of all kinds—the farmer in the broad sense has been attacked simultaneously from two sides.

Says Expenses Increase And Dollar Depreciates.

On the one side, his expenses, chiefly in the form of increased taxes, have been going up steadily during the past generation. On the other side, he has been attacked by a constantly depreciating farm dollar during the past twelve years.

Therefore, it seems to me to be nothing less than old-fashioned horse sense to seek means to circumvent both of these attacks at the same time. That means, first, to seek relief for him from the burden of his expense account, and second, to try to restore the purchasing power of his dollar by getting for him higher prices for the products of the soil.

These two great purposes are the basis of my farm policy. I have definitely connected both of them with the broadest aspects of a new national economy, and I shall continue during the ensuing weeks to argue that prosperity in its broadest sense—covering every part of the Nation, and covering industry and business as well as farming—springs first of all from the soil itself, and second, from our ability as a Nation to restore our trade with the other nations of the world.

First of all I want to discuss with you one of the angles of the mounting expenses of agriculture in practically every community and in every State—the problem of the taxes which we have to pay.

Let us examine the proportion of our expenditures that goes to the various divisions of government. Half of what is paid for the support of Government in this country goes to local government—cities, townships, counties and other small units. The other half goes to the State and Nation.

This points, therefore, to the necessity for attention to local government. As a broad proposition you and I know we are not using our present agencies of local government with real economy and efficiency.

That means we must require our public servants to give a fuller measure of service for what they are paid. That means we must eliminate useless officeholders. That means every public official, and every employe of local governments, must determine that they owe it to the country to cooperate in the great purpose of saving the taxpayers' money.

But it means more than this, my friends. I am going to speak very frankly to you. There are offices provided for in the Constitution and laws of some of the States that have an honorable history, but are no longer necessary for the conduct of government. We have too many taxing districts. The taxpayers literally groan under layer upon layer of tax units. Relief can come only through resolute courageous cutting.

It means still more than this. In many States we must, through the legislature and even through constitutional changes, reorganize our local government for the purpose of eliminating unnecessary machinery and unnecessary positions, and for the purpose of consolidating functions, and concentrating responsibility in fewer hands.

President Has Right Of Moral Leadership.

Some of you will ask why I, a candidate for President of the United States, am talking to you about changes in local government. It is perfectly clear that the President has no legal or constitutional control over the local government under which you live. The President has, nevertheless, the right and even the duty of taking a moral leadership in this national task—it is a national problem because in its scope it covers every State, and any problem that is national in this broader sense creates a national moral responsibility in the President himself.

I conceive the Presidency not merely as an agency in which routine executive powers are exercised, but as a position of leadership in which may be wielded an influence for the general good of our American system of government. No other official, except the Vice President is elected by all the people of the country. No other official owes such a direct responsibility to all the people of the country. He is the responsible spokesman of the Nation's policies and the Nation's ideals.

I shall use this position of high responsibilility to discuss up and down the country, in all seasons, at all times the duty of reducing taxes, of increasing the efficiency of Government, of cutting out the underbrush around our governmental structure, of getting the most public service for every dollar paid by taxation. This I pledge you, and nothing I have said in the campaign transcends in importance this covenant with the taxpayers of this country.

It is true that less than 15 per cent of the taxes we pay goes to the support of State governments. This does not seem to be a large figure, but actually, as you and I know, the cost of State government has increased twofold and even threefold in the past ten or fifteen years. In this field also, I believe that substantial reductions can be made. While the President rightly has no authority over State budgets, he has the same moral responsibility of national leadership for generally lowered expenses, and therefore for generally lowered taxes.

It is in the field of the Federal Government that the office of President can, of course, make itself most directly and definitely felt. Over 30 per cent of your tax dollar goes to Washington, and in this field, also, immediate reforms can be accomplished. There are, of ourse, items, such as the interest on the public debt, which must be paid each year, and which can be reduced only through a reduction in the debt itself, by the creation of a surplus in the place of the present deficit in the National Treasury. It is perhaps worth while that I should tell you that I spent nearly eight years in Washington during the Wilson Administration; that during those eight years I had a fair understanding of the problem of the national expenses, and that I knew at first hand of many of the details of actual administration of the different departments.

Says Adequate Returns Are Not Forthcoming.

Later in this campaign I propose to analyze the enormous increase in the growth of bureaucracy. We are not getting an adequate return for the money we are spending in Washington, or to put it another way round, we are spending altogether too much money for Government services which are neither practical nor necessary. In addition to this we are attempting too many functions and we need a simplification of what the Federal Government is giving to the people.

I accuse the present administration of being the greatest spending administration in peace times in all our history—one which has piled bureau on bureau, commission on commission, and has failed to anticipate the dire needs or reduced earning power of the people. Bureaus and bureaucrats have been retained at the expense of the taxpayer.

I read that the President is at work on a plan to consolidate and simplify the Federal bureaucracy. Four long years ago, in the campaign of 1928, he as a candidate proposed to do this. Today, once more a candidate, he is still proposing. I leave you to draw your own inferences.

On my part, I ask you to assign to me the task of reducing the annual operating expenses of the National Government.

Now I come to the other half of the farmer's problem, the increase of the purchasing power of the farm dollar. I have already gone at length into the emergency proposals relating to our major crops, and now I want to discuss in more detail the tariff and our economic relationship to the rest of the world.

From the beginning of our Government, one of the most difficult questions in our economic life has been with the tariff. But it is a fact that it is now so interwoven with our whole economic structure, and that structure is such an intricate and delicate pattern of causes and effects, that tariff revision must be undertaken with scrupulous care, and only on the basis of established facts.

Yet there is scarcely a major problem in our national life, agriculture, industry and labor, merchant marine, international debt and even disarmament, that does not involve the question of the tariff. I must confine myself, however, at this time to the subject as it is more or less directly related to agriculture, reserving for some later date the consideration of the tariff in its more general aspects.

Step to Reverse Policies Of Hoover Is Urged.

In the course of his 1928 campaign the present Republican candidate for President, with great boldness laid down the propositions that high tariffs interfere only slightly if at all, with our export trade, that they are necessary to the success of agriculture and afford essential farm relief, that they do not interfere with the payments of debts to us, and that they are absolutely necessary to the economic formula which he proposed as the road to the abolition of poverty. I must pause here to observe that the experience of the last four years has unhappily demonstrated the error of every single one of the propositions; that every one of them has been one of the effective causes of the present depression, and finally that no substantial progress toward recovery from the depression here or abroad can be had without forthright recognition of the errors.

I asked effective action to reverse the disastrous policies which were based upon them. As I have elsewhere remarked, the 1928 Republican prosperity promise was based on the assertion that although our agriculture was producing a surplus far in excess of our power to consume, and that due to the mass and automatic machine production today, our industrial production has also passed far beyond the point of domestic consumption, nevertheless we should press forward to increase industrial production as the only means of maintaining prosperity and employment. The candidate insisted that, although we could not consume these things at home, there was an unlimited market for our rapidly increasing surplus in export trade, and boldly asserted that on this theory we were on the verge of the greatest commercial expansion in history.

In his Boston speech in 1928, the distinguished gentleman to whom reference had been made, said: "To insure continuous employment and maintain our wages, we must find a profitable market for our surplus. The great war brought into bold relief the utter dependence of nations upon our foreign trade—our total volume of exports translates itself into employment for 2,400,000 families, while its increase in the last seven years has interpreted itself into livelihood for 500,000 additional families in the United States."

Confronted by the difficult question as to how foreign nations would pay their debts to us and pay also for the increasing surplus he proposed to sell to them, when by almost prohibitive tariffs he would interfere with world commerce in goods, he ventured the astounding suggestion that we should finance our exports by loans to "backward and crippled counties" and coupled with that the statement that high tariffs would not interfere with the repayment of such loans.

Ostensibly for the purpose of enacting legislation for the relief of agriculture, Congress was, pursuant to the insistence of Senator Borah, called in special session. The disastrous fruit of that session was the notorious and indefensible Grundy-Smoot-Hawley tariff. The net result was a barbed wire entanglement against our economic contact with the world at large.

Higher Tariffs Called Harmful to Farmers.

As to the much-heralded purpose of that special session for the relief of agriculture the result was a ghastly jest. The principal cash crops of our farms are produced much in excess of our domestic requirements. We know, of course, that no tariff on a surplus crop, no matter how high the wall, has the slightest effect to raise the domestic price of that crop. The producers of all these crops are as effectively thrust outside the protection of our tariff walls as if there were no tariff at all. But we still know that the tariff does protect the price of industrial products and raises them above world prices, as the farmer with increasing bitterness has come to realize that he sells on a free trade basis; he buys in a protected market. The higher industrial tariffs go the greater is the farmer's burden.

The first effect of the Grundy tariff was to increase or sustain the cost of all that agriculture buys, but the harm to our whole farm population did not stop there.

Under recent world conditions, the Grundy tariff, by gradually impairing the export markets for our farm surplus, has resulted in a tremendous decrease in the price of all the farmer sells. The results of both of these forces has practically cut in half the prewar purchasing power of American agriculture. The things the farmer buys, as I pointed out in my Topeka speech, now cost 9 per cent above prewar prices. The things that the farmer sells 43 per cent below prewar prices. The fact is that the farmer is hit both ways in consequence of the tariff. It increases the price of what he buys, and by restricting his foreign market that controls the price of his products, reduces his returns from what he sells.

The destructive effect of the Grundy tariff on export markets has not been confined to agriculture. It has ruined our export trade in industrial products as well. Industry with its foreign trade cut off, naturally began to look to the home market—a market supplied for the greater part by farm families. But for reasons I have just explained, when industry turned its eye to the American market, it found that the Grundy tariff had reduced the buying power of the farmer.

Deprived of any American market, the other industrial nations in order to support their own industries, and take care of their own employment problem, had to find new outlets. In this quest they took to trade agreements with other countries than ourselves and also to the preservation of their own domestic markets against importations by trade restrictions of all kinds. An almost frantic movement toward self contained nationalism began. The direct result was a series of retaliatory and defensive measures in the shape of tariffs, embargoes, import quotas and international arrangements. Almost immediately international commerce began to languish, and especially the export markets for our industrial and agricultural surpluses began to disappear. The Grundy bill was passed in June, 1930. In that month our exports were $294,000,000 and our imports $250,000,000. In an almost uninterrupted decline this foreign trade has dropped away, so that, two years later in June of this year, our exports were $115,000,000 and our imports $78,000,000. These facts speak for themselves.

Retaliation of Nations Abroad Is Pointed Out.

In the year 1929, a year before the enactment of the Grundy tariff, we exported 54.8 per cent of all the cotton produced in the United States—more than one-half. This means, Mr. Cotton Grower, that in 1929 every other row of cotton you grew was sold abroad. And you, the grower of wheat, you exported 17.9 per cent of your wheat, but your great foreign market was largely sacrificed; and so with the grower of rye, who was able to dispose of 20.9 per cent of his crop to foreign markets; the grower of leaf tobacco had a stake of 41.2 per cent of his income overseas. One-third of the lard production in this country was exported in that year. This concerns the corn grower. You know, if others do not, that corn is exported in the form of lard.

How were your interests taken care of? Oh, they gave you a tariff on corn—chicken feed—literally and figuratively. These figures show how vitally you are interested in the preservation of our export trade.

The ink on the Hawley-Smoot-Grundy bill was not dry before foreign nations commenced their program of retaliation. Brick for brick they built their walls against us. They learned the lesson from us. "The villainy you teach me I shall practice."

The administration had reason to know that this would happen. It was warned. While the Hawley-Smoot bill was before Congress, our State Department received 160 protests from 33 nations, many of whom after the passage of the bill erected their own tariff walls to the detriment or destruction of much of our export trade.

What is the result? In two years from 1930 to May, 1932, American manufacturers have established in foreign countries, to escape the penalty on the introduction of American-made goods, 258 factories; 48 in Europe, 12 in Latin America, 28 in the Far East and 71 in Canada. Every week of 1932 has seen four American factories moving to Canada. Premier Bennett is reported to have said in a recent speech that a factory is moving every day of the year from the United States into Canada, and he assured those at the recent conferences at Ottawa that by the arrangements made there Great Britain and her colonies would take from Canada $250,000,000 of trade which would otherwise go to the United States. This, you see, put more men on the streets here, who had been employed in the factories that had moved to Canada.

There was a secondary and perhaps even more disastrous effect of Grundyism. Billions of dollars of debts are due to this country from abroad. If the debtor nations can not export goods and services they must try to pay in gold. We started such a drain on the gold reserves of the principal commercial countries as to force practically all of them off the gold standard. What happened? The value of the money of each of these countries relative to the value of the dollar declined alarmingly. It took more Argentine pesos to buy an American plow. It took more English shillings to buy an American bushel of wheat, or bale of cotton.

They just couldn't buy our foods with their money. These goods were thrown back upon our markets and prices fell still more.

Avers Relief Hope Lost Unless Change Comes.

Summing up, the Grundy tariff has largely extinguished the export markets for our industrial and our farm surplus; it has prevented the payment of public and private debts to us and the interest thereon; increasing taxation to meet the expense of our Government, and finally it has driven our factories abroad.

The process still continues. Indeed, it may be only in its inception. The Grundy tariff still retains its grip on the throat of international commerce.

There is no relief in sight, and certainly there can be no relief if the authors of this disaster continue in power. Like the Bourbons, they have learned nothing and they have forgotten nothing. They still cling to this deadly fetich. And I say to you, in all earnestness and sincerity, that unless and until this process is reversed throughout the world, there is no hope for full economic recovery, or for true prosperity in the United States.

The essential trouble is that the Republican leaders thought they had a good patent on the doctrine of unscaleable tariff walls and that no other nation could use the idea. Well, either the patent has expired or it never was any good anyway; or else all other nations have infringed and there is no court of appeal. It was a stupid, blundering idea and it brought disaster.

Do not expect our adroit Republicans to admit this. They do not. On the contrary, they have adopted the boldest alibi in the history of politics. Having brought this trouble on the world, they now seek to avoid all responsibility for the mismanagement of the affairs of this Nation by blaming the foreign victims for their own economic blundering. They say that all of our troubles come from abroad—that the administration is not in the least to be held to answer. This excuse is a classic of impertinence If ever a condition was more clearly traceable to two specific American-made causes, it is the depression of this country and the world. Those two causes are interrotated.

The second one, in point of time, is the Grundy tariff. The first one is the fact that by improvident loans to "backward and crippled countries," the policy of which was specifically recommended by the President, we financed practically our entire export trade and the payment of interest and principal to us by our debtors and even (in part), the payment of German reparations.

When we began to diminish that financing in 1929 the economic structure of the world began to totter. When, in 1930, we imposed the Grundy tariff, the tottering structures tumbled.

What does the Democratic party propose to do in the premises?

Tariff of Equality Promised by Democrats.

The platform declares in favor of a competitive tariff which means one which will put the American producers on a market equality with their foreign competitors—one that equalizes the difference in the cost of production—not a prohibitory tariff back of which domestic producers may combine to practice extortion of the American public.

I appreciate that the doctrine thus announced is not widely different from that preached by Republican statesmen and politicians. I know that the theory professed by them is that the tariff should equalize the difference in the cost of production (which for all practical purposes does not exceed labor cost) as between this country and competitive countries and I know that in practice the theory is utterly disregarded. The rates are imposed far in excess of any such difference, looking to the total exclusion of imports — prohibitory rates.

Instances without number to show the difference between the pious professions of those who control the destinies of the Republicon party, and the actual performances of that party under their leadership, could be cited from the debates on the Grundy tariff bill.

Of course the excessive, outrageously excessive rates in that bill as it became law, must come down. But we should not lower them beyond the point indicated. Such revision of the tariff will injure no legitimate interest. Labor need have no apprehensions concerning such a course—for labor knows by long and bitter experience that the highly protected industries pay not one penny higher wages than the nonprotected industries, such as the automobile industry.

But how is reduction to be accomplished? By international negotiation as the first and most desirable method, in view of present world conditions—by consenting to reduce to some extent some of our duties in order to secure a lowering of foreign walls, that a larger measure of our surplus may be admitted abroad. It is worth remembering that President William McKinley, in his Buffalo speech—the last public address he ever made—said "the period of exclusion is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the present problem. Reciprocal treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the time; measures of retaliation are not." If expansion of our trade and commerce was, as McKinley declared in 1901, 30 years ago, a prime necessity in the then state of our economic life, how much more is it indispensable to our material and, I may add, our spiritual welfare, in these distressing times.

I haven't the fear that possess some timorous minds that we should get the worst of it in such reciprocal arrangements. I ask if you have no faith in our Yankee tradition of good old-fashioned trading? Do you believe that our early instincts for successful barter have degenerated or atrophied? I do not think so. I have confidence that the spirit of the stalwart traders still permeates our people, that the red blood of the men who sailed our Yankee clippers around the Horn in the China trade, still courses in our veins. I can not picture Uncle Sam as a supine, white-livered, flabby muscled old man cooling his heels in the shade of our tariff walls. We may not have the astuteness in some forms of international diplomacy that our more experienced European friends have, but when it comes to good old-fashioned barter and trade—whether it be goods or tariff—my money is on the American. There can not and shall not be any foreign dictation of our tariff policies.

Next the Democrats propose to accomplish the necessary reduction through the agency of the Tariff Commission.

Declares Indefensible Rates Are Introduced.

I need not say to you that one of the most deplorable features of tariff legislation is the log-rolling process by which it has been effected by Republican Congresses. Perfectly indefensible rates are introduced through an understanding usually implied rather than expressed among members, each of whom is interested in one or more such. It is a case of you scratch my back and I will scratch yours. The evil must be recognized by even the most ardent supporter of the theory protection. To avoid this, as well as other evils in tariff making, a Democratic Congress in 1916 passed and a Democratic President approved a bill creating the bipartisan tariff commission charged with the duty of supplying the Congress with accurate and full information upon which to base tariff rates. It functioned as a scientific body until 1922 when by the incorporation of the so-called flexible provisions of the act that year it was transformed into a political body. Under these provisions—reenacted in the Grundy tariff of 1930—the commission reports not to a Congress but to the President, who is empowered upon its recommendation to raise or lower the tariff rates by as much as 50 per cent. How perfectly ineffective this method of removing from the tariff some of its inequities—a wag said its iniquities—I do not delay to detail.

At the last session of Congress by the practically unanimous action of the Democrats of both Houses, aided by liberal-minded Republicans led by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, a bill was passed by the Congress but vetoed by the President, which, for the purpose of preventing log-rolling, provided that a report having been made on a particular item with a recommendation as to the rate of duty it ought to bear, a bill to make effective such rate would not be subject to amendment so as to include any other item not directly affected by the change proposed by the bill. In that way each particular tariff rate proposed would be judged upon its merits and upon its merits alone.

I am confident in the belief that under such a system rates would be adopted generally so reasonable that there would be very little opportunity for criticism or even caviling as to them. I am sure that it is not that any duties are imposed that complaint is made, for despite the effort, repeated in every campaign, to stigmatize the Democratic party as a free trade party, there never has been a tariff act passed since the Government came into existence, in which the duties were not levied with a view to giving the American producer an advantage over his foreign competitor. And I think that you will agree with me that the difference in our day between the two major parties on the subject of the tariff is that the Republican party, whatever may be its professions, would put duties so high as to make them practically prohibitive. The Democratic party would put them as low as the preservation of the prosperity of American industry would permit.

Appointment of Counsel On Tariff Is Approved.

Another feature of the bill to which reference has been made, designed to obviate tariff log-rolling, contemplated the appointment of a public counsel who should be heard on all applications for changes in rates before the commission on the one hand for increases sought by producers, often greedy, or for decreases asked by importers, equally often actuated by purely selfish motives, or by others seeking such reductions. I hope some such change may speedily be enacted. It will have my cordial approval.

One other factor enters into the dangerous emergency in which you farmers find yourselves at this moment. For more than a year I have spoken of the actual calamity that impends on account of farm mortgages. Ever since my nomination on July 1 I have advocated immediate attention and immediate action looking to the preservation of the American home to the American farmer. I am not at the head of the national administration nor can I be until March 4 next. Today I read in the papers that for the first time the administration of President Hoover has discovered the fact that there is such a thing as a farm mortgage. At least we can take a crumb of hope from his proposal for another conference of some kind to discuss the situation. All I can tell you is that with you I deplore the inexcusable and reprehensible delay of Washington, not for months alone, but for years. I have already been specific on this subject in my Topeka speech. All I can promise you is that I will continue to preach the plight of the farmer who is losing his home and that when the authority of administration of recommendations is placed in my hands I will do everything in my power to bring the relief which is so long overdue. I shall not wait until the end of a campaign, or until I have spent four years in the White House.

I believe in taking care of a very sick patient, and that if the doctor does nothing I recommend getting a new doctor—and I hope you agree with that, too.

of President Hoover has discovered the fact that there is such a thing as a farm mortgage. At least we can take a crumb of hope from his proposal for another conference of some kind to discuss the situation."

Crowd Willing to Stand.

Before him the crowd spread far back toward the powerful lights that lighted up the park. Sections of the grandstand across the field from the temporary speakers' stand where he stood were filled, but for the most part the crowd was willing to stand.

Behind the several acres of faces dimly bulked the buildings that house packing plants. Behind the speaker on the other side of the park huge sheds housed bales of hay. At the conclusion of his speech, which came at the end of a well-filled day that had taken him to three large crowds in Omaha, Mr. Roosevelt boarded his train again to continue the trip to Milwaukee and Chicago.

Garner Confers With Party Heads

Rainey, Pat Harrison and Byrns Are Optimistic in Reports.

(Associated Press.)

Speaker John N. Garner yesterday discussed the presidential campaign with party leaders at his Capitol office. Representative Rainey, of Illinois, House Democratic leader, told the Democratic vice presidential nominee that Illinois was rallying to the Democratic standard.

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, reported that indications were the Democrats would obtain a substantial majority in the Senate at the November elections.

Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, chairman of the Democratic national congressional committee, reported to Garner that the Democrats probably would have about a two-thirds majority in the next House.

Edge Back in America To Discuss Trade Pact

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Walter E. Edge, United States Ambassador to France, came home today to "straighten out the kinks" in the French counter-proposals to a prospective commercial treaty.

Arriving on the United States liner Manhattan, Ambassador Edge said his return to America in this preelection period had no political significance. He added, however, he would "do as the spirit moves me" when he gets to New Jersey.

G. O. P. IN MICHIGAN BACKS WET PLANK

Action Follows Talk by Mills Praising Leadership of Hoover.

Detroit, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—After hearing an optimistic speech by Secretary Ogden L. Mills, the Michigan Republican State convention today adopted a platform which indorsed the party's national plank on prohibition and "President Hoover's interpretation of it." A proposal to favor repeal of the State constitutional prohibition clause was tabled.

The presence of Secretary Mills brought to the convention Senator James Couzens, who takes no part in State politics, and who said it was the first State convention he has attended in a decade.

"Ogden Mills is one of my good friends, with whom I never agree," Senator Couzens remarked.

Lauds Hoover's Leadership.

In his speech, Mills reviewed the economic situation, praised the leadership of President Hoover and discussed the administration's efforts to cope with the depression. He presented a hopeful view of the future, declaring "our resources have been so mobilized as to bring us through safely, though with much suffering and damage."

Ascribing to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt a statement that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation benefits only the great city banks and other large institutions, Mills said that, "on August 31, 70 per cent of the banks to which loans had been authorized were in towns of less than 25,000 and 90 per cent were in towns of less than 50,000."

Soldier Bonus Avoided.

The convention resolutions avoided the soldier bonus, advocated old-age pensions, the elimination of injunctions in labor disputes and praised the administration of Gov. Wilbur M. Bruckner. The five-day working week of not more than 40 hours and stabilization of the banking laws also were advocated.

The State Democratic convention last Tuesday adopted a platform favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the prohibition amendment to the State Constitution. The latter proposal will be voted on at the general election.

SEEKING VOTES FOR HOOVER

Text of Hoover's Speech On Children's Protection

Following is the text of President Hoover's radio address last night on the development of a national program for child welfare and protection.

Your meeting is for the purpose of forming programs of work in local advancement during the next year. I have been asked to speak for a few moments on the question of housing and of children. I could have taken part of my time to speak to you about such problems as world disarmament, American policies in advancement of world peace, the importance of the forthcoming economic conference in Europe, the problems of reconstruction from the present depression, the tremendous problems of reorganization we must face as a result of our experiences in the last three years.

All of these are vital questions in which the women of America are interested and in which you can contribute enormously to advancement. But in the larger sense none of the problems before us is greater than the problems of the home and the children.

Second only in importance to the direct problems of childhood are the collateral problems of home surroundings and home ownership. The conference in Washington on housing and home ownership in which many of those present with you this evening participated has established a basis for national thought and progress in the great social and economic problems involved. The work of that conference has already flowered in the creation of a new system of home loan banks which I recommended to the Congress for both emergency purposes and for the permanent advancement of home ownership. The authority in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to make loans for slum clearance in the cities is another evidence of the advance of public thought. To you who are planning ahead programs of work for earnest groups of organized women I strongly commend study of the new data, new ideas and methods and plans envisaged by this most exhaustive conference on housing and homes.

Our most immediate question is the strain of the depression upon the children. In this depression as never before the American people have responded with a high sense of responsibility to safeguard and protect the children not only as the humane necessity of the day, but that there may be no danger for the future. The devotion of voluntary effort, the solicitude being given throughout the Nation to the welfare of children through this trying distress is a stimulant to the spirit of every one of us. The continuous reports of the Public Health Service showing a less infant mortality, less infant disease than in prosperous times, can mark only one thing and that is the most extraordinary devotion to those who would be normally the most hard pressed. I know of no greater service than constant watchfulness of your groups that they shall continue to be safeguarded.

There is another opportunity growing out of these times to advance the cause of children. It is obvious that the discoveries of science and invention, of labor-saving devices, have outrun the rapidity with which we normally balance our economy with employment in production of new commodities and new services. The result is a large increase in what we popularly call "technological unemployment." One answer to it lies in shortening the hours of labor that all may ultimately participate in the productive work of the Nation. But there is also another contribution which can be made—that is the steady elimination of child labor. A great deal has been accomplished in this direction in past years. But it would not only help childhood, but would aid in the better distribution of work amongst adult breadwinners if more children were eliminated from those few industries where they are still employed. It would be a step toward the permanent elimination of young children from industry.

We should not forget that idleness is no more helpful to children than it is to adults, and that a rigorous enforcement and support of school attendance is of vital accompaniment of all reduction of child employment—which in turn brings us to the necessity of maintaining and supporting our schools as a first charge upon all of our resources in these times of emergency. Not alone should we maintain and support and expand them for the purpose of absorbing the comparatively small percentage of children who otherwise might be engaged in industry. We can not afford to slacken one moment in the preparation of the new day of a generation of Americans stronger and better, not only physically and intellectually, but above all morally.

We can do much to help the Nation and the children over the present emergencies. But the greatest service in the long view is the endowment we can give to the next generation in health and character. In that field lies the progress of the Nation in stamina, health and character. So much have I felt this to be an imperative responsibility, that I have given every weight of this office and much time in association with these efforts.

Latterly I have been much interested in the systematic formulation of the conclusions of the White House conference on problems of children. Out of this conference came the Children's Charter, containing a definite program—a program near to your heart and mine, a program so comprehensive, so varied as to provide a foothold for every kind of organized interest, a program so definite that you can make it a personal and specific undertaking. That it struck a responsive chord in the Nation is evidenced by the millions of copies of it which have been reproduced.

To refresh your memory of it and to reexpress my own interest in it, I shall repeat to you an abbreviated condensation of it. This, then, should be our creed and our program for childhood:

"For every child spiritual and moral training to help him to stand firm under the pressure of life.

"For every child understanding and the guarding of his personality as his most precious right.

"For every child a home and that love and security which a home provides; a dwelling place safe, sanitary and wholesome; a home environment harmonious and enriching.

"For every child full preparation for his birth, his mother receiving prenatal, natal and postnatal care.

"For every child health protection from birth, promotion of health, health instruction and physical and mental recreation.

"For every child a school which is safe from hazards, sanitary, properly equipped, lighted and ventilated; an education which prepares him for life and prepares him for a living.

"For every child a community which recognizes and plans for his needs, protects him against physical dangers, moral hazards and disease; provides him with safe and wholesome places for play and recreation and education for safety and protection against accidents.

"For every child who is blind, deaf, crippled or otherwise handicapped, care and treatment, and such training that he may become an asset to society.

"For every child who is in conflict with society the right to be dealt with intelligently as society's charge, not society's outcast.

"For every child the right to grow up in a family with an adequate standard of living and the security of a stable income.

"For every child protection against labor that stunts growth, that limits education, that deprives children of the right of comradeship, of play, and of joy.

"For every rural child as satisfactory schooling and health services as for the city child.

"Every stimulation and encouragement to the voluntary youth organizations.

"Everywhere a district, county, or community organization for health, education and welfare, with full-time officials, coordinating with a Statewide program, which will be responsive to a Nation-wide service of general information, statistics, and scientific research.

"For every child these rights, regardless of race, or color, or situation, wherever he may live under the protection of the American flag."

This is my answer to your request for a specific program for your organizations. Our problem is to bring these ideals into reality.

I have worked with you for many years in the development of this vision and in the perfecting of the practical means by which it may be realized. I pledge to you my support in your endeavors.

PRIEST INJECTS WIT IN DEFENSE OF DAVIS

Organizer in Britain Cites Agreement With Senator for Initiation Fees.

New York, Sept. 29 A.P.).—Testimony about a secret sale of Senator James J. Davis' organization contract with the Moose Lodge entered the Davis lottery trial today in a Federal courtroom which had been kept in high humor for half an hour by a Catholic priest.

Joseph A. Jenkins, former Moose organizer in Great Britain, said that when he and Fred W. Jones agreed to pay $600,000 for the contract which brought the Pennsylvania senator revenue from lodge initiation fees, he told field organization supervisors to say nothing about it.

This was because they wished to hold the prestige of Davis' name in the work of launching new lodges and garnering members, it was brought out.

Point Previously Mentioned.

The point previously had been touched on by the defense to show a legitimate reason for lack of any formal record of the transaction which established, they said, Davis had severed his connection with Moose work before the alleged Moose lotteries were held. Davis is charged with conspiracy and aiding transportation of lottery tickets across State lines.

Judge and jury joined the laughter once, and the senator on trial smiled, when Father John J. Laffey, of Mooseheart, Ill., voluble and effervescent, was fairly sputtering his protest against the ponderous legal manner of ushering in character testimony.

Like United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, and William L. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who preceded him, Father Laffey was asked the usual preliminary question whether he had heard the character and reputation of the defendant discussed. He was directed to "answer yes or no, first."

Parries in Answer.

"How can I say—but—well, I'd rather answer that question another way," he said.

Judge Frank J. Coleman, smiling, said he was afraid he would have to answer as asked.

Father Laffey pressed his lips, looked helplessly at the bench and lawyers, opened his arms in a sort of beseeching gesture, and then smiled an engaging smile.

"Well, suppose I say yes," he said.

There was a burst of laughter, and the witness joined in, finally breaking through the stringent court procedure to make clear he didn't like the question because it seemed to infer there was some occasion for discussion of the Davis reputation.

"How can you say a man's reputation is good or bad when it never has even been questioned?" he asked, with another broad gesture.

This answer was taken as sufficient.

Activity at Mooseheart.

Through Father Laffey and the Rev. Coral D. Payne, Protestant minister at the Mooseheart, Ill., orphanage, jurors got a vivid picture of the humming activity in the community January 3, 1931, when cash prizes were drawn, followed by a gala luncheon and presentation of a check for $150,000 to the orphanage, as part profit of Moose charity balls and alleged lotteries held in conjunction.

The prosecution contends that Senator Davis was the leading spirit in the money-raising scheme, and that he profited personally—though this was not charged in the indictment—to the extent of $172,300 from receipts of some $3,000,000 from the 1930 and 1931 ball and lottery projects.

The defense claims Davis knew nothing of the lottery, and has introduced many Moose witnesses who said he did not attend the prize drawing in the Mooseheart Printing Building, though he was present at the luncheon which followed, and made the presentation speech which accompanied the $150,000 check to Mooseheart.

"This," he said, "is my answer to your request for a specific program for your organizations. Our problem is to bring these ideals into reality.

"I have worked with you for many years in the development of this vision and in the perfecting of the practical means by which it may be realized. I pledge you my support in your endeavors."

3 Boys Who Fled School Here Held

Arrested in Memphis as Suspects in Robbery of Oil Station.

Three boys who escaped from the National Training School for Boys here last Sunday night were arrested in Memphis, Tenn., yesterday, as suspects in a filling station robbery, it was learned last night.

The boys are Bobby Ware, 19, of Shreveport, La.; Orville Hartung, of Kansas City, and Matthew Homer, of Birmingham. Police in Memphis charge that the boys stole an automobile and drove it to Louisville, where it broke down.

The runaways then entered an automobile agency and drove a new car through a plate glass window, police charge.

Theft of a radio from a filling station at Paducah, Ky., is said to have been admitted by the boys.

Woman Candidate Seeks Right to Maiden Name

(Associated Press.)

The right of a married woman to use her maiden name in running for public office now is being agitated by the National Woman's Party.

Toward Connecticut the campaign is directed, in behalf of Miss Elsie Hill, of Norfolk, eleven years married to Prof. Albert Levitt.

Feministic Miss Hill, running for Congress on the Independent Republican ticket, wants the seat of her father, the late Ebenezer Hill, held for 21 years. The name of Hill therefore might logically be expected to be of some help at the polls.

Portests have been made that Miss Hill can not legally run for, nor hold office, in her maiden name. They are being answered with voluminous legal citations, by Burnita Shelton Matthews, National Woman's Party attorney, who has gone deeply into the legality of following the tenets of Lucy Stone.

NEW YORK MAYOR'S ELECTION ORDERED

Appellate Division Reverses Supreme Court; Vote in November Called.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The appellate division today reversed the Supreme court and ordered the election of a mayor this November.

By a vote of four to one, the higher court overruled the decision of Justice John E. McGeehan holding that Mayor Joseph V. McKee should serve out the unexpired term of James J. Walker.

Attorneys in the case have declared they would seek a ruling from the Court of Appeals at Albany next week.

Under Justice McGeehan's ruling, which counsel for Mayor McKee will seek to have reinstated in the highest court, the present mayor would remain in office until January 1, 1934.

"Public policy, generally speaking," said the appellate division, "requires that a vacancy in an elective office be filled as soon as possible by the electorate."

In the prevailing opinion Justice John V. McAvoy said: "It appears to have been the State's policy all along that a vacancy in an elective office must be promptly filled in an election and that an appointment or other succession is to be held only until an election may be held."

The prevailing opinion was subscribed to by Justices Edward R. Finch, presiding; James O'Malley and Alfred H. Townley. Justice Francis Martin dissented in a separate opinion.

In effect, the decision granted a petition by David H. Knott, chairman of the executive committee of Tammany Hall, for an order compelling the election of a mayor this November.

A petition by David MacAdams, friend of Mayor McKee, for an order restraining the board of elections from holding a mayoralty election this year was dismissed.

HOOVER'S ELECTION URGED BY COOLIDGE

paign for the election of President Hoover and our Massachusetts State ticket."

The former President said in his letter, which was sent from his summer home in Plymouth, Vt.: "If I thought I could be of any particular benefit to the cause I should try to be present at the dinner. I believe, however, the attention of your gathering ought to be centered on our candidates for office on the Republican ticket."

Through a change in plans, former Representative Philip P. Campbell, of Kansas, supplanted Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware, as the principal speaker at the dinner. A feature of the gathering was receipt of an address by President Hoover, who spoke by radio from Washington.

"Dear Maj. Hannigan:

"Your invitation to the dinner to be held the night before the Republican convention has been received. If I thought I could be of any particular benefit to the cause I should try to be present, I think, however, that the attention of your gathering ought be centered on our candidates for office on the Republican ticket. Nevertheless, I appreciate very much your invitation and would be grateful if you would extend my greetings to your guests.

"This campaign can be won by work and organization. The Republican party has an honorable record, it is pursuing a sound policy, and if what it has done in the past and what it is doing in the present is impressed upon the voters by a campaign of candid education it can not fail to meet with their approval. It is a time when the people ought to stand firm. There is nothing that could be more reassuring to the business interests of the country at this time than a knowledge that the people propose to support sound Republican principles. When that has been demonstrated many of our ills will disappear. We must put on a fighting campaign for the election of President Hoover and our Massachusetts State ticket.

"With kindest regards, I am,

"Very truly yours,

"CALVIN COOLIDGE."

One Time Policeman Here Killed by Gas

Charles F. Ehlers, 51 years old, former Washington policeman, ended his life by inhaling monoxide gas at his home in Los Angeles, Calif., late yesterday, according to an Associated Press report.

Ehlers was found unconscious in his automobile with a hose running from the exhaust pipe to the seat beside him, it was reported. His widow said he had been in ill health. Ehlers formerly served in the old Fifth Precinct. He was retired from the force some time ago.

PUERTO RICO STORM TOLL PLACED AT 212

2,000 Injured and 245,000 Made Homeless; Oldest Bank Closes Doors.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Gov. James R. Beverley tonight announced that Tuesday's hurricane killed 212 persons, injured 2,000 and left 245,000 homeless.

This estimate was based on additional reports that reached the capital from the stricken areas tonight and it was added that half of the homeless were only temporarily so, but that the other half had nothing whatever to start on.

The Banco Territorial y Agricola de Puerto Rico, one of the oldest financial institutions of the island, closed its doors this afternoon with the explanation that exceptional demands as a result of the hurricane made the step necessary.

Meanwhile civil, military and Red Cross officials did their utmost to provide storm sufferers with food, shelter and medical supplies. The latest check of casualties, with many sections still unreported or only part reported, showed 197 dead and more than 1,800 injured.

C. S. Graham, managing director of the closed bank, announced the action was taken to protect depositors and that insular authorities had been fully informed and had given their consent.

Territorial stockholders voted recently to merge with the newly formed Banco de Puerto Rico, which has not yet commenced operations.

The territorial has its main office in San Juan, with five branches at other points. It is the depository for insular and municipal funds.

The Sixty-fifth U. S. Infantry, garrisoned here, delivered 3,000 tins of milk and other supplies to the Red Cross for distribution to storm sufferers. The regiment also furnished equipment for medical units.

United States District Judge Ira K. Wells, chairman of the price control committee appointed by Gov. James R. Beverley, announced to merchants through the Chamber of Commerce that the approval of his committee must be obtained before there is any increase in the price of any essential commodity.

Judge Wells said the Federal grand jury would meet tomorrow to begin an investigation into the increase in price of zinc roofing which before the storm sold at $4 a hundredweight and since has been boosted to $12.

Bakers will be asked by the committee to reduce bread from 12 to 6 cents a pound. Gasoline companies have been asked to lower their price 5 cents from the prevailing 25 cents.

Vessels on Ocean Warned Storm Moving Westward

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory, 9:30 p. m.—In absence reports vicinity tropical disturbance it is apparently central about midway between Jamaica and Swan Island, moving westward about 15 miles an hour. Caution advised vessels in path."

Two Men Cleared In Hijacking Case

Martin Boland Released as Suspect; W. Commodore Also Exonerated.

Two men were cleared of suspicion yesterday as Federal officials announced a fruitless day in their hunt for the fourteen men who took a load of whisky from four dry agents and then kidnaped the agents last Sunday in Calvert County, Md.

Martin Boland, son of a former local policeman, was released yesterday from the First Precinct station after the kidnaped agents had failed to identify him. He had been held since Tuesday, when he was arrested with Edwin Allen Mumper. Mumper, a former policeman here, has been formally charged with the hijacking.

Mumper was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Needham C. Turnage yesterday and held in bond of $30,000. He was unable to furnish bail and was sent to the District Jail to await a formal hearing this morning.

The other man cleared of the crime is Woodley Commodore, who was viewed by the captured agents yesterday in the Marlboro Jail. Lowell R. Smith, deputy prohibition administrator, said the agents had failed to see any resemblance between Commodore and any of the hijackers. Commodore is still being held in jail, however, on a liquor warrant issued several months ago.

Boy Scouts to Gather Nuts.

Washington Boy Scouts will go on the first nutting expedition of the season tomorrow morning. They will assemble at the Lincoln Memorial to gather walnuts from the trees growing beside the reflecting pool. The nuts will be presented to Dan Beard, famous scout and naturalist, when he leads the annual scout pilgrimage to Mount Vernon October 15.

EUROPEAN LEADERS BACK LEAGUE POLICY

France, England and Italy Spokesmen Reply to Criticisms.

Geneva, Sept. 29 (U.P.).—France, England and Italy rushed to the defense of the League of Nations today after the world peace organization had been beset by critics of its sometimes timid policies, by threats of warfare in two continents in disregard of league obligations and by financial difficulties.

Lord Cecil, of England, the veteran, always courageous peace worker, led the defense of the league, delivering from the tribune one of the most eloquent appeals of his career and blaming the member states for "the league's inability to reach successful results in great international problems."

It was one of the frankest speeches made recently from the tribune, and Lord Cecil went to the heart of the trouble when he thundered out that the league should not be attacked or destroyed when the members rather than the league machinery are at fault.

Franco-German Situation.

He said if France and Germany—now further apart than ever—could reach an agreement on political questions, about 75 per cent of the world's unrest would be ended. If the covenant had been applied in the Far East, the league would not be in its present difficulty over the Chinese-Japanese fighting, he said.

"Are we going to disarm?" he asked. "We must answer yes or no or there will be a reversion to pre-war conditions infinitely worse than today."

Then Italy surprised many observers by coming to the aid of the league and announcing it would continue its support, whereas many persons believed the Fascist government would withdraw.

Herriot Also Speaks.

Edouard Herriot, French premier, spoke cautiously, vaguely mentioning the Hoover disarmament plan and saying that the best minds in the United States were working for means to reinforce the antiwar treaty.

"There is need for mutual consultation," he said, significantly touching on American Secretary Henry L. Stimson's declaration that the anti-war pact implies the necessity for consultation in time of danger. This guarded remark was believed to show the French desire to know how far the United States would go in "consultation."

Japanese Ruler's Bomb Assailant Draws Death

Tokyo (Friday), Sept. 30 (A.P.).—The Korean, Li Ho Sho, who attempted to bomb the carriage of Emperor Hirohito on January 8, was convicted today of attempting the life of the sovereign and sentenced to death by the Tokyo supreme court.

The Japanese government of Premier Inukai resigned over the bombing incident.

Chicagoan Discovered Slain in Abandoned Car

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Aaron "Iron" Barger, once a defendant in a mail robbery case, was found shot to death in an abandoned automobile early today. Police said Barger had evidently been tortured before his death. He had been shot nine times. He was under indictment for transporting stolen automobiles.

inches tall. Was last seen driving a Ford sedan. He lives at 1354 L street southeast. Wanted by the Detective Bureau for serious assault, may be murder."

A short time after this lookout was sent to the various precincts, a man believed to have been Morgan's assailant, was cornered in an alley near the L street address, but escaped.

Detectives of the homicide squad, detailed to watch the house in which Kaiser was supposed to live, surprised a man answering his description, walking through a areaway in the center of the block. The man fled through a maze of alleys upon sighting the policemen.

Suspect Escapes.

Several shots were fired during the chase, but the man escaped. An automobile, the license plates of which were listed to Kaiser, police said, was found parked at Thirteenth and K streets southeast.

Kaiser, police learned, was a discharged employe of the torpedo division of the navy yard. Several motives for the shooting were being investigated at an early hour this morning.

Besides his wife and two daughters, Morgan also has a son, Leonard F. Morgan.

added: "Rest of the crew were drowned. Rescue by our officers and crew was magnificent. Please notify State's steamship company, Portland."

The President Madison reached the wreck today after a 300-mile dash from mid-Pacific. The Oregon Maru, a Japanese freighter, was standing by after attempts at reaching the wreck or the island with small boats had been blocked by heavy seas.

The Nevada, 410-foot craft, owned by the State's Steamship Co., of Portland, Oreg., sailed from Portland September 16 for Oriental ports with a general cargo. Her S O S calls were first picked up early yesterday by the Oregon Maru.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Hamilton, Ontario, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The board of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada, declared in a report issued today that married persons may employ birth control providing these are justifiable "under all the particular circumstances and in the light of Christian conscience." The report was referred by the general council of the church, meeting here, to its sessional committee on evangelism and social service.

Havana, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—George S. Kent, American resident here, died in his home last night of heart failure. He was 52 years old. His widow and three sons survive.

Cherbourg, France, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Another member of the crew of the French submarine Persee, died in a hospital today of burns inflicted last Monday when there was an explosion in the engine compartment of the vessel. His death brought the total of fatalities to four.

Exeter, Eng., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Norman Forbes-Robertson, an actor and younger brother of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the widely known British actor, died today of injuries received when knocked down by an automobile near here.

Berlin, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Today's newspapers printed as a noteworthy fact that September was the first month of this year during which no political murders were reported. Last July there were 86. Under an emergency decree issued by the president some weeks ago the crime of political murder is a capital offense.

Paris, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, who has been confined to his hotel here for more than a week by an attack of appendicitis, said he was feeling much better today. He said he still suffered from abdominal pains but that an operation seemed to have been averted.

London, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Alderman Percy Walter Greenaway, who was given knighthood Monday as one of London's retiring sheriffs, was elected lord mayor of London today to succeed Sir Maurice Jenks.

4 SUSPECTS IN CUBAN ASSASSINATION HELD

Havana Police Reveal Plot to Blow Up Party at Rites for Senate Head.

Havana, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The office of the secretary of the interior, Dr. Octavio Zubizarreta, tonight announced the arrest of four men who were accused of the assassination of Dr. Clemente Vazquez Bello, the first to die in an outburst of political violence that ended the lives of four other political leaders this week.

The police previously had arrested Luis Arturo Belt, son of Jorge Belt, register of deeds of Havana, and it was understood that Belt gave information that led to the arrest of the others. Names were withheld, "pending the arrest of accomplices."

Meanwhile, Carlos Manuel de la Cruz, leader of the opposition to President Machado in the Cuban House of Representatives, asked for passports today as a sequel to the political unrest of Tuesday.

In that burst of gunfire Dr. Vazquez Bello, president of the Cuban Senate and leading candidate for president next year, and four leaders of the opposition were slain in rapid succession.

Police asserted today they had uncovered a huge dynamite bomb, capable of inflicting wholesale death, in Colon Cemetery near the spot where it was originally reported that Dr. Vazquez Bello would be buried.

Had he been buried in Colon Cemetery there would have been a large gathering of high government officials near the place where police said they found the bomb.

The Uruguayan Legation, where it was reported Opposition Leader de la Cruz had been granted asylum, sought passports for him. It was learned that he would be provided with traveling documents in time to leave for Europe early in October.

Two other oppositionists were understood to have obtained asylum in the Uruguayan Legation. These are Pedro Cue, attorney for the group, and an associate of his named Dolz.

management is by a subcommittee of the committee on rules.

The largest operator of restaurants on Federal property is a corporation—the Welfare & Recreational Association of Public Buildings & Grounds.

Nine in all, five cafeterias and four lunch counters are under its management.

The cafeterias are the Commerce, Interior, Internal Revenue, War Department and Mail. The lunch counters are at the General Accounting Office, the Civil Service Commission, the Treasury and the State Department.

This corporation, which is headed by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the Office of Public Buildings and Parks and executive officer of the Public Buildings Commission, also operates the tourist camp and concessions at municipal golf courses. The active administrative head is the secretary, Capt. Frank W. Hoover, who receives an annual salary of $7,500.

All of the eating places of this association are operated on a profit-making basis. The Federal Government is directly interested, as it receives one-half of the annual net surplus of operations. The last payment it received was $13,000. Officials of the association, however, term this Government profit a rent payment. No rent is charged the association for its restaurant and office space, all of which is on Federal property.

The Government is paid for heat, gas, light and telephone service. No water consumption charge is made of the association, as the Government is not charged for its water.

The nine restaurants of the welfare association feed more than 8,000 Federal workers daily, according to Capt. Hoover. To do this, 400 workers are in permanent employ, all employed by the association and not by the Government.

Association Pays Bill.

The only connection in which a Federal worker is employed in the restaurants is in the making of repairs to Federal property involved, sluch as plumbing or lighting. When this is done, however, the bill is met by the association.

According to Capt. Hoover and Col. Grant, the association makes no attempt to compete with private restaurants in prices. Its prices are practically on a par with those of outside restaurants.

The association was organized in 1927, its purposes to better administer the restaurants in Government buildings which were being operated under a loss by concessionaires or employes' associations. Projects have only been taken over on the requests of employes and officials in each department, Col. Grant asserted.

Audited by Comptroller.

The accounts of the association are audited by the office of Comptroller General McCarl. A tenth of the profits go to the employes' groups in the various departments interested. The rest of the surplus is used for upkeep of equipment and for equipping new establishments. The Commerce and the Internal Revenue cafeterias were equipped from the profits of the association at a cost of $60,000.

Supplies are purchased on contracts, most of which go to local dealers in meats, dairy products and other foodstuffs. Pies, cakes and hot breads are baked in the various cafeterias.

All of the association's projects are subject to a sanitary inspection by an officer from Col. Grant's office. This inspector also checks health conditions at other buildings under Col. Grant's supervision where eating places are located.

Cafeterias at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Navy Department, the Government Printing Office and the Bureau of Standards are operated along similar lines, being conducted by associations of employes.

Subscription of Employes.

At the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where 2,600 are fed at each luncheon, the cafeteria was originally equipped by subscription of the employes and replacements have been made through surplus funds.

A manager, W. W. Louk, is employed at a salary to take charge of the establishment. The Government's only hand in the administration is indirect. All of the employes are appointed through the employes group.

The Federal Government receives no payment for rent, heat, light or other privileges. Employes of the bureau are used in making repairs to the cafeterias' permanent equipment.

Officials regard the cafeteria as an absolute necessity with present working conditions, under which employes are not allowed to leave the premises during their working period.

Elected by Association.

Management of the Navy Cafeteria is like that of the Bureau of Engraving, save for the fact that the Government is paid for the privileges of heat and light. Management is delegated to officers elected by the employes' association, and Federal workers are not employed in any connection save to make repairs to equipment which is the property of the Government.

Along like lines are the cafeterias at the Government Printing Office and the Bureau of Standards. At neither of these is a payment made to the Government for heat or light.

At the printing office, three officers of the association, which also conducts a bowling alley and rest rooms in the building, receive a salary. The three salaries total $1,000 a year. Surplus funds are used in recreational activities in connection with the office's baseball team, orchestra, chorus and Christmas activities.

An allegation that the Printing Office Cafeteria sought business from persons outside was denied by J. T. Ford, president of the welfare association, whose official position is assistant superintendent of accounts.

Senior Lunch Club Unusual.

At the Bureau of Standards the person who performs the task of administering the cafeteria performs his task for the consideration of not having to pay for his lunch.

There, also, is a lunch, administered differently than any other discussed. It is the Senior Lunch Club, an organization to which members of the bureau are elected and to which they pay a regular sum for lunch privileges. This club is not connected with the cafeteria.

Two eating projects are operated as concessions. But to call them concessions would not be strictly true. They are the two cafeterias of the Postoffice Department and the Weather Bureau.

The Postoffice eating places, one at the city postoffice and the other in the department building, are administered privately on a contract let by the Postmaster General, according to Harold N. Graves, executive assistant.

Assured Certain Sum.

This contract assures the operator a certain sum and one-half of the surplus profits. The other half is used for upkeep and replacements. Original equipment was purchased in part through a subscription of employes. The two cafeterias are under the administration of the chief clerk of the Postoffice Department. The operator pays nothing for his concession or contract or for heat and lighting privileges He pays for gas used in cooking.

At the Weather Bureau, the term concession in describing the feeding arrangement is also misleading. There a woman brings in the food from the outside and serves it in a basement room. She pays nothing for this privilege. The room is equipped with a coffee urn and a gas stove with three burners

In tomorrow's article, further phases of the cafeteria situation will be discussed.

Italian Liner Delayed Two Days.

Genoa, Italy, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The new Italian liner Rex, delayed at Gibraltar for repairs to the dynamos, will be held up there for two days, it was announced today at the offices of the Italian Line. The trouble developed during a fast run from Villefranche to Gibraltar. She probably will proceed on her maiden voyage to New York tomorrow evening.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

One of the new coat dresses in coarse weave wool, buttoned up the back, and worn with a removable collar of gray astrakhan, which matches the beret. (Courtesy of Heim, Paris.)

THE jeweled clip has passed the danger line of being a novelty, and is now completely accepted as a piece of jewelry, one with the brooch, the necklace, rings, earrings. This is due, I am sure, to the fact that although it started as a novelty, it has been offered in such valuable pieces that it could not be sponsored and discarded when the whim for it had passed.

These jeweled clips have taken an even more prominent place than ever in the autumn mode, especially in evening wear. Here they are worn as an important part of the gown—indeed, the gown is actually designed around them at times, as when used to attach the new broader shoulder bands, which are drawn together with shirring, to each side of the bodice. A third matching clip fastens the point of the front decolletage.

• • • •

Beware the shades of gray! Only the softest and deepest and most muted grays are stylish, and are not to be confused either in beauty or becomingness with cruder grays, which appear in less expensive fabrics and leathers. The new grays are in the softest and deepest tones for daytime, with short-haired furs of the better kind, such as squirrel, astrakhan and lamb, and with fox furs for evening. In gowns, light grays in georgettes and crepes are of the soft, muted tones, almost entirely new in effect—and undeniably becoming and elegant.

• • • •

Some new evening gloves reach slightly above the elbows and flare, giving the effect of puffed sleeves. Insets of the same material as the evening gown with which they are worn are used for this puff, such as black velvet in a striking design on white gloves, to be worn with a black velvet evening gown.

• • • •

Last chance! Last chance! To get a good dragon. Who wants a dragon? Well, who doesn't? Why, dragons are useful and ornamental and romantic and, oh, 'most anything you can mention! You can trace this dragon right in his original size over to anything you wish to paint or embroider or stencil or anything. 'Nif you wanted a dragon design, all in the proper size and everything, whadda time you would have getting it, now wouldn't you?

So send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this design, and hurry, because this is the las-s-s-s-st time you can. Then watch for some specific ideas for making Christmas gifts which use this dragon for decoration.

• • • •

Button, button, who can button-me-up? That's the new blues song of lovely ladydom—now that the mode decrees coat dresses and coats and dresses and things that button straight up the back. Still, they are most awfully new and attractive, so look at the Heim coat dress in coarse weave wool that I sketched for you today, and see if you don't think the button chasing would be well worth it. The collar of this is another popular idea—removable, and in gray astrakhan, which matches the little beret.

• • • •

Which reminds me 'at my black astrakhan-trimmed coat, with the little muff of the fur, would do well with a beret of the astrakhan, too—and that I am just going to find that hunk that was left over and make me one—will tell you if it turns out all right, 'nif it does, how I did it.

Au revoir.

Culbertson on Bridge

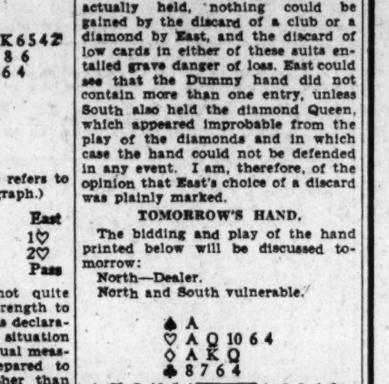
THE CHOICE OF A DISCARD.

THE question of which cards to discard is one that frequently puzzles players at the Bridge table. Frequently the defeat of the contract hangs upon as slender a thread as the choice of the proper discard, and sometimes it is difficult, indeed, to determine what card can be most easily parted with. At other times, however, the choice of a discard should be crystal clear to the defending players.

The hand shown below, upon which South had undertaken a contract of four spades, is an example of an unwise discard by East, which permitted the making of the contract.

North—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The bidding:
(Figure after bid in table refers to numbered explanatory paragraph.)

South	West	North	East
		Pass	1♡
Double (1)	Pass	2♠	2♡
4♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) South's Double does not quite measure up in honor strength to the requirements for this declaration, but the bidding situation requires the use of unusual measures and South is prepared to take a paying loss rather than permit his vulnerable opponents to make a game.

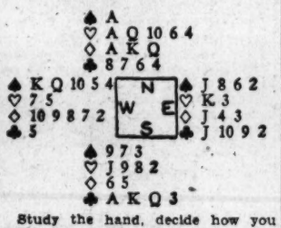
Robert N. Caldwell, of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., played the South hand. The Opening lead by West was the heart 9, which was won by East with the King, and the singleton spade was returned. This was won in the closed hand, and a second round of spades was won with the Ten in Dummy in order to lead a diamond toward the King. It seemed probable that East held the diamond Ace, in view of his Opening vulnerable bid and later Redbid. The Knave of diamonds was led, East played a small card, and South won with the King. South then led three rounds of trumps, and on the third round East discarded a club. South then led his singleton club, won with the Ace in Dummy, and a low club was returned, upon which East's King dropped, South trumping. South now led the heart Knave, and his contract was assured, as East and West could thus make only 2 hearts and 1 diamond trick.

In submitting this hand Mr. Caldwell asks whether there was any reason for East to suspect that any discard except a heart was fatal. The answer is assuredly "yes." South was marked with the heart Knave in view of the Opening lead of the heart 9 by West. Under no conditions could East hope to win more than 2 heart tricks. While South's Double of the Opening bid may have caused East to place him with more strength than he actually held, nothing could be gained by the discard of a club or a diamond by East, and the discard of low cards in either of these suits entailed grave danger of loss. East could see that the Dummy hand did not contain more than one entry, unless South also held the diamond Queen, which appeared improbable from the play of the diamonds and in which case the hand could not be defended in any event. I am, therefore, of the opinion that East's choice of a discard was plainly marked.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BATHS AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

S. G. writes: Will you write an article on baths? What baths should a person with high blood pressure take? What temperature and duration? How about a person with low blood pressure? What baths will induce sleep and which will increase the body's energy?

Baths are not of much help in the treatment of either high or low blood pressure. They have some value as emergency measures and that is all. If a person with high blood pressure is dizzy, is having nose bleed or hemorrhage from elsewhere, or is on the verge of apoplexy—if we can tell when that is—he can secure some temporary relief by a fairly short, soothing bath at around 90 degrees. If a person has fainted as the result of a temporary, rapid and considerable drop in blood pressure, to douse him with cold water is a quick relief procedure that has merit. A cold body bath or shower would be even more efficient, but it is not often necessary. These are to be classed as nothing more than emergency measures.

Blood pressure may be high because of emotional strain such as worry and excitement. The soothing, tepid bath already described is all right as a temporary expedient. But no form of bathing will permanently lower a blood pressure that is high as a result of thickening of the blood vessel wall. It is doubtful if it should be lowered even if it could. The opinion is growing that this type of blood pressure is there for a purpose. It is needed to make up for some departures from the normal in the body purposes, and if there were a drop harm would result.

The bath that causes sleep is the soothing, warm bath. As a rule, the temperature of this bath should be around 85 to 90. There are people who are excited, and in whom poor sleeping results from the warm bedtime bath, but they are exceptional.

To save a drunkard from delirium tremens, or an excited person from delirium of any sort, nothing is superior to the warm, tepid bath—one with a temperature of a little above what is called neutral—one that feels a little warm to the hand. Institutions that care for delirious patients are equipped with warm, continuous baths and warm sprays.

A bath that is hot enough to cause the skin to turn red will cause fever. In those diseases which are now being treated by throwing the patient into a fever some use is made of hot baths. However, for this purpose various electric heating machines are more efficient that hot water baths.

The cold bath at, say 50 to 60, is invigorating and stimulating. However, it should not be continued for more than five minutes and usually it is given for less. Nor is it used on people who are not able to get up a good reaction following its use.

President Consoles Widow Of Dortch, Naval Captain

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday expressed to Mrs. Lucy E. Dortch, of Coronado, Calif., widow of Capt. Isaac F. Dortch, appreciation for the latter's "loyal and efficient service" to the Navy.

The officer, a native of Gadsden, Ala., died June 4 in San Francisco while en route here from the Orient to take up new duties.

In a letter to Mrs. Dortch, the President said it had come to his attention that Destroyer Squadron 5, which had been commanded by Capt. Dortch, attained the highest merit in battle efficiency of any destroyer squadron for the years 1930-31 and 1931-32.

The Chief Executive added:

"It is my pleasure to express to you my appreciation of his loyal and efficient service. The results attained during the past two years indicate a high degree of leadership and cooperation, which has been evidenced throughout his entire service in the Navy.

"I sympathize with you in your bereavement and hope that the knowledge of the appreciation of his loyal and efficient service in the Navy will be of some consolation to you in the loss of your devoted husband."

Capt. Dortch was awarded the Navy Cross for his services during the World War. He was in command of the American destroyers during the disturbance in Shanghai early this year.

Conference Is Held By Federal Judges

10 Circuits Represented; Condition of Business Is Discussed.

(Associated Press.)

The condition of business in Federal courts throughout the country was considered by senior circuit judges who met yesterday with Chief Justice Hughes. The ten Federal circuits were represented.

Attorney General Mitchell and Solicitor General Thacher reported to the conference on the condition of business in Federal Courts as seen by the Government.

The conference yesterday took a recess to call at the White House and pay its respects to President Hoover.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF September 30 in your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:15 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 7:20 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:25 a. m. to 12:05 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:50 p. m.

September 30, according to astrological indications, promises to be, from the commercial viewpoint, an uneventful and a quiet day. The prevailing influences denote unexpected trips into the land of romance, where long-dreamed-of rewards await those who have courage and tenacity of purpose.

A child on this September 30 will be endowed with a robust constitution, a loving disposition and a desire, as well as a will, to succeed. These inherent gifts will serve it in good stead in its maturity, and its horoscope denotes a career of useful as well as profitable achievement.

You, if born on September 30, are rather weak in character, and your besetting difficulty is your unwillingness to say "no." Even though your reason tells you that things are foolish or wrong; even though your conscience is no "still, small voice," but a loud speaker; even though you know what is the right thing to do, you go ahead and commit acts of criticable nature, simply because you do not wish to offend others by a refusal. You "get yourself in Dutch" not by the gratification of your individual desires, but by yielding weakly and foolishly to the persuasions of others.

You are a pleasing companion, but a poor friend. Without strong conviction, without definite opinions, you always agree with the last person that speaks to you, and are afraid at all times of voicing an idea that may be contrary to the one that, at the moment, is being expounded. Your work is done consistently, and in a subordinate position where neither originality nor initiative are needed, you will be a steady and reliable worker.

WAGE ADJUSTMENTS ANNOUNCED BY FORD

Reductions, Expected to Be Temporary, Affect All of Employes.

Detroit, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The Ford Motor Co. today announced "pay adjustments" affecting all employes of the company from the highest executives down.

The statement of the company said the new minimum for common labor will be 50 cents an hour, but that the majority of the factory employes will receive 62½ cents an hour. The statement in full said:

"From the highest executive to the ordinary laborer, Ford employes will receive pay adjustments which it is hoped will be temporary, based on a reclassification of the types of work performed.

"For common labor, a 'hiring in' minimum of 50 cents an hour has been scheduled. The new minimum for semiskilled labor is 62½ cents an hour. Skilled labor receives its former minimum of 75 cents an hour, unchanged.

"The actual wages paid will range from the minimum figures upward.

"This leaves the Ford Motor Co. wage schedule the highest in the automobile industry.

"A comparatively small number of men will be affected by the lowest brackets, the majority receiving 62½ cents per hour and upward."

The Ford working day is eight hours. At the Dearborn factory most of the men are employed three or four days a week, and some work five days.

Henry Ford announced establishment of a minimum of $5 a day for his employes nearly 20 years ago.

Father of Auto Victim Files Suit for $10,000

Harry Lambros, father of Charles Lambros, who was killed in September, 1931, yesterday filed suit for $10,000 damages against Ralph Colella, 7512 Fourteenth street northwest, alleged driver of an automobile that struck Charles while he was riding a bicycle.

The suit states that the younger Lambros was hit at Thirteenth and Hemlock streets northwest, dying the next day. Attorneys E. Willard Hyde and James Sherier represented the father, who brought the suit as administrator of his son's estate.

50,000 Families Move Tomorrow

Transfer Firms and Utilities Swamped With Orders.

Transfer firms are swamped with orders and the telephone, gas and electric companies are deluged with requests for transfer of service lines, all of which business almost 50,000 families hope will be transacted to their satisfaction by tomorrow night.

Tomorow, October 1, is moving day in Washington and the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light Companies have submitted some interesting figures with reference to the annual moving pilgrimage.

The gas companies estimate the number of persons moving during any period by taking the number of "starts" received by the companies each year, which equals the number of "stops" indicating a transfer has been made, and adding 20 per cent to allow for homes in which gas transfers are not an element.

From September, 1931, to September, 1932, the Washington Gas Light Co. had 35,126 "starts," and the Georgetown firm had 5,300, making a total of 40,426. The 20 per cent addition thus makes a grand total of 48,511. The Washington Gas Light Co. has on record 4,949 "starts" for October, an increase of 799 over September and 1,703 over August.

More than 500 delegates of the International Beauty and Barber Supply Dealers Association attended the annual convention banquet last night at the Wardman Park Hotel.

The banquet was followed by dancing until midnight when a midnight supper was served to the delegates and guests.

The visitors were greeted yesterday at the White House by President Hoover. Mrs. John Wynkoop was hostess at a luncheon for ladies attending the convention, following the presidential greeting. The convention will adjourn today.

Hoover's Address To Spur Campaign

Des Moines Talk Next Week Signal for Full Stride in Drive.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The signal to set the Republican campaign into full stride with an intensity intended to grow until election day will be President Hoover's first campaign address next week.

Already completed is what the Republicans call "one of the most efficient and far-reaching campaign organizations in history." There are groups of young men, young women, real estate associations, traveling salesmen and labor groups—all ready to go into high gear in the quest of votes for the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

Another major address will be made by Alice Roosevelt Longworth, widow of the late Speaker of the House, at Indianapolis, on October 17. The "heavy work" of the campaign, however, rests with Secretary of War Patrick Hurley, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

20 Per Cent Increase in Freight Loadings Is Reported by Railroad; New York Mills Corporation Pay Rolls Are Quadrupled.

(Associated Press.)

Business developments yesterday included:

Chicago—A 20 per cent increase in number of freight cars loaded for the month until last Tuesday as compared with the corresponding period of August, was announced by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad. The increase amounted to 12,312 cars. The company said it would call 1,300 shopmen back to work October 12 for a period of at least eight days.

Utica, N. Y.—Pay rolls of the New York Mills Corporation, manufacturers of cotton goods, will be four times larger this month than they were in the summer, officials said. About 2,000 persons are employed and plants are working day and night.

Chicago—Business of the Addressograph-Multigraph Corporation the first 15 days of this month was 60 per cent greater than the same period in August, President Joseph E. Rogers said.

Chicago—The Fair, large department store, will spend 25 per cent more for advertising in October this year than it did in October last year, D. P. Kelly, president, said, because retail trade is definitely and decidedly on the upward trend.

Chicago—Daily Metal Trade says that steel operations are now estimated at 17 to 18 per cent of capacity, the highest level since last June.

New York—A five-day week plan will go into effect in the New York and Detroit offices of the General Motors Corporation, it was learned from the New York executive offices of the company. This plan has not been announced for the plants of the concern.

BISHOP FREEMAN SPEAKS AT CATHEDRAL CELEBRATION

gave the salutation address at the foundation stone service 25 years ago in which the Lord Bishop said:

"I shall never forget the scene at the laying of the foundation stone of Washington Cathedral, especially the dark clouds which hung over the service, until they mysteriously melted away and the sun shone out. Some one whispered to me, 'Nothing could have done that but Satterlee's prayers.' This will show what people 25 years ago thought of Bishop Satterlee.

"I had six years ago the great pleasure of again seeing the Cathedral and performing another ceremony in it, and need I but say that to the end of my life I shall take the deepest interest in the Cathedral, the foundation stone of which I had the honor to lay. May God bless you all at Washington! A. F. LONDON."

Greeting From Castle.

A greeting also came from the Undersecretary of State, William R. Castle, jr., a member of the Cathedral Chapter, who was unable to be present. In it, the Undersecretary wrote: "Twenty-five years ago was laid the foundation stone of the Cathedral-church of America, the church foreseen by George Washington. He had no picture in his mind of the superb building now taking form on Mount St Alban, but he also had no dream of the future greatness of the country which he helped to found. In the straggling village which for long years was the embryo City of Washington a larger edition of the Pohick Church would have been suitable. It would have been more important than were the first civil buildings, as befitted the place of religion in American life."

"It would be totally inappropriate today in the great, beautiful city that is built and building. If Christianity remains the guiding star of American life, as we believe it does, there must be in Washington today a symbol of the faith, towering above the city, rightfully dominating, but beautiful beyond all other symbols."

Gen. John A. Pershing, chairman of the Cathedral's national committee, also sent a greeting from France.

Assisting Bishop Freeman at the festival service of commemoration were the Very Rev. Dr. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington; the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of the cathedral; Canon Raymond L. Wolven, chaplain to Bishop Freeman; Canon Joseph Fletcher, cathedral librarian; Canon John W. Gummere and other members of the cathedral staff of clergy as well as the Rev. Albert Lucas, head master of St. Alban's, the National Cathedral School for Boys.

In the striking processional which preceded the service were members of the diocesan clergy, the cathedral chapter, cathedral clergy, while in line also was the Right Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, suffragan bishop of New York.

The processional was led by a sturdy crucifer in purple vestments bearing high the beautiful golden cross presented to Washington Cathedral by the Emperor of Abyssinia, followed by the cathedral choir of men and boys. The processional hymn was "Jerusalem the Golden," another reminder of the foundation stone sevice when the same processional hymn had been sung. The festival music was under the direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster of Washington Cathedral.

In the bidding prayer read by Bishop Freeman praise was given to God for "twenty-five years of service and growth on this holy hill" and another portion of the prayer commemorated the late Bishops Satterlee and Harding and other founders and benefactors of the cathedral.

In his sermon referring to Bishop Satterlee, Bishop Freeman declared: "Twenty-five years ago this day a great spiritual seer and visionary began a work on this hill the significance of which has been more fully realized as it has grown in beauty and power through a quarter century of time. To use the language of the late President McKinley, it was a 'new sowing for the Master and for man.'"

Pointing out that the cathedral project has continued to progress during the past 25 years, Bishop Freeman continued:

"Cast on lines altogether unique, broadly comprehensive of many human interests, impressive in its extent, with many agencies designed for the enrichment of mind and heart, this cathedral fabric, with its allied institutions, has come to occupy a place peculiarly its own in the life of church and state.

"Christianity stands again at a new crossroads," warned the bishop. "Its opportunity for serving mankind has never been greater. The compelling question is, is its channel, the church, prepared and ready to meet it?

"In the face of the seemingly insuperable difficulties that now hinder and halt our construction work, we dare to carry on. The very exigencies of this hour of trial, the emptiness of life without God, the poverty of riches, the uncertainty and fictitiousness of all human values, the interrupted and disrupted progress of our cherished enterprises, the dissipated hopes and the world-wide cry of disillusioned men and women, give to our task a new significance and a new meaning.

New Endeavor Urged.

"This anniversary," concluded the bishop, "will be little more than a period of happy reminiscence, of selfish felicitation, unless it moves us to freshened endeavor, deepened consecration and a more selfless service. It presents a challenge, such a challenge as we have never before faced. In a time of crisis this challenge has a new and deeper meaning and calls for more of a heroic, militant faith. We refuse to yield to that spirit so prevalent today that thinks only in terms of material value, that would buttress the institutions of the state, of society and industry, by securing to them the cunning, the wit and the wisdom of men who have no vision of God and of life's higher and holier meaning. We burnish our weapons to meet any attack upon the citadel of Christian faith and practice."

At Beauvoir, the mansion house of the National Cathedral School for Girls, in the close just east of the growing cathedral, a luncheon in honor of Bishop and Mrs. Freeman was given yesterday which was attended by leaders and coworkers in the cathedral enterprise.

After the luncheon brief addresses were given and George Wharton Pepper, former United States senator from Pennsylvania, acted as chairman.

CHAPIN CITES GAINS IN TRADE SITUATION

Cotton Manufacturers Hear Him Attribute Upturn to Hoover Policies.

Boston, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Roy D. Chapin, Secretary of Commerce, tonight told the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers there had been a change for the better in the business and industrial world during the last two months.

"We need but look around us in almost any direction to see positive evidence that an improvement has been under way," said Secretary Chapin. "There is no less reason for us to feel encouraged because the changes for the better we are witnessing are 'spotty' in their nature. The figures show that practically every one of these cheering 'spots' is growing a little larger each week."

Others who spoke before the day and evening sessions of the Cotton Manufacturers convention were Ernest N. Hood, treasurer of the Pequot Mills, of Salem, who was elected president of the association; Dr. Melvin T. Copeland, of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, and Victor M. Cutter, president of the United Fruit Co.

Had the United States been the only nation in the world affected by the depression, it would have been out of it long ago, Chapin said. "Even now," he added, "when the most critical diagnosticians admit that the worst symptoms have abated, we must not expect a sudden return to normal health any more than we could reasonably hope for such a miracle in the case of an individual."

Chapin credited the Government under the leadership of President Hoover with having brought about the improved conditions, saying it "has been deliberately induced by a program on the part of our Government."

Jewish New Year Begins Tonight

Hebrews of Washington Plan Observance of Rosh Hashana.

Observance of Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, will begin at sundown tonight, when Jews of Washington gather in synagogues and homes to uphold the most sacred traditions of their race.

The holiday will be followed by celebration of Shabbos Shubah, the Sabbath day of repentance, and Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement). This will be followed by observance of the Feast of the Tabernacles of Succath.

Services in the synagogues will be marked by special prayers for Jews in foreign countries, and pleas for furtherance of the Zionist movement. Among the leaders in the celebration are Rabbi J. T. Loeb, Rabbi Abram Simon and Dr. Solomon H. Metz.

Files Protest With South Trimble, House Clerk, Who Expects to Announce His Decision Today After Study of Brief.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Corporation yesterday moved to prevent publication of its loans by filing an objection with South Trimble, house clerk, against his recent decision to make available to the public the corporation's monthly reports to Congress.

The protest accompanied the August report which was submitted to Trimble yesterday. It took the form of a letter from Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the board, and a brief signed by Morton G. Bogue, general counsel of the corporation.

Trimble declined to make the communications and the corporation's report public pending advice of counsel. He said, however, that he hoped to reach a decision today. He said the brief was lengthy and would require study.

Under the publicity provision in the Garner-Wagner relief act, the corporation is required to file monthly reports of its activities with the President and both branches of Congress. When Congress is in recess the reports are filed with the Secretary of the Senate and the House Clerk. On August 17, Trimble ruled that it was the intent of Congress the reports should be made available for public inspection.

The Reconstruction Corporation and the administration opposed the inclusion of the provision in the relief act before its passage, but consented after various senators asserted in debate that the language of the provision would not authorize the publication. Acceptance of this view was made known at the White House.

Trimble, however, in making public the first report submitted under the relief act, covering the last ten days of July, handed down a brief in which he said he had no discretion other than to make the reports public.

Trimble's counsel, who advised him on the legal phases of the question, is his son, South Trimble, jr.

Mississippi Rites Held for Williams

Former Senator Is Buried Near Home in Simple Ceremony.

Benton, Miss., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Former Senator John Sharp Williams was buried today in a quiet little graveyard on the ancestral plantation with ceremonies in marked contrast to his dramatic life in Congress.

In her sad hour his widow displayed the strength that bore up as she went along with him through his busy career. Escorted by two sons, she followed the casket from the house to the cemetery, walking rigidly erect.

Flags throughout Mississippi flew at half-staff by proclamation of Gov. Sennett Conner.

Former Senator Williams died at midnight Tuesday after a long period of failing health. He retired from the Senate in 1923, after nearly 30 years in Congress, and came home to a life of quiet contentment.

J. B. FITZGERALD RITES.

Funeral services for James P. Fitzgerald, contractor, who died Wednesday at his home in Wheaton, Md., will be held today at his birthplace, Winooski, Vt. Mr. Fitzgerald was 54 years old and had been active in contraction and political circles in Montgomery County for many years.

Before moving to Wheaton, about five years ago, he resided at Brightwood. He formerly operated a garage on Blair road, at the District line, and owned considerable property in that section. He was a member of the Forest Glen Council, Knights of Columbus.

In addition to his widow, Mr. Fitzgerald is survived by a son, John Edward Fitzgerald, of Wheaton, and four brothers, William Fitzgerald, of Silver Spring, and Thomas, John and Charles Fitzgerald, all of Vermont.

DR. MARK F. FINLEY DEAD AT AGE OF 76

Masonic Leader Dies After Lengthy Illness; Rites Set Tomorrow.

Dr. Mark F. Finley, 76, of 1928 I street northwest, past president of the American Dental Association, and for many years prominent as a leader in Masonic circles here, died yesterday at Emergency Hospital after a long illness. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. at the Church of the Epiphany, followed by interment in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Dr. Finley, who was the oldest living member of the American Dental Association, practiced denistry here for more than 45 years. He had been treasurer of the District Dental Association for 35 years.

He was grand master of Masons in the District in 1923 and grand commander of the Knights Templar in 1927. He was past president of the Masonic Veterans Association and a member of the Almas Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. He was active in affairs of the Church of the Epiphany, was a charter member of the University Club and a director of the Federal-American Bank.

Born in Ypsilanti, Mich., Dr. Finley was graduated from the University of Michigan Dental College.

He is survived by two sons, Mark F., jr., and John T. Finley, and a brother, Col. John D. Finley, U. S. A., retired.

Malcolm McAdoo Dies in Baltimore

Younger Brother of Former Secretary of Treasury Ill Some Time.

Baltimore, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Malcolm Ross McAdoo, younger brother of William Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury and a candidate for the United States Senate in California, died suddenly today at the University Hospital of an acute kidney ailment.

Although he had been ill for some time, his condition had not been considered serious by members of his family and friends. He died at 11:30 a. m.

Mr. McAdoo was 67 years old and had made his home in Baltimore for the last year. He was a civil engineer and was engaged in designing a deep sea level ship canal across the State of Florida.

Arrangements were being made tonight by his wife, the former Miss Mildred Mason Trant, of Virginia, to take the body to Chicago for burial.

REPUTATION

A bank's reputation is not gained from the magnificence of its buildings nor from the elegance of its marble fixtures.

True reputation is gained only through public knowledge of the character and ability of its management and its high ideals of service to the community.

For more than forty-two years the Washington Loan and Trust Company has enjoyed a reputation for efficient management, sound banking principles and careful yet liberal policies.

To maintain this reputation every effort is made to give to all transactions, large or small, a sympathetic consideration and to extend the most liberal courtesies consistent with sound banking practice.

NOT TAXES, BUT ECONOMY.

Talk of new taxes when Congress meets in December is thoroughly discredited by Senator Smoot. Steps to bring the budget finally into balance, he says, will be taken in the other direction. Economy and not higher levies upon the depleted sources of revenue will be the watchword.

As chairman of the Senate committee on finance, Senator Smoot speaks with authority. Regardless of what may be the outcome of the election in November, there will be few changes in the membership of the session that will convene in December. Leaders on both the House and Senate sides realize how difficult it will be to squeeze more taxes out of current incomes and business profits. Some adjustments in tax levies might be made, but even these changes will probably be postponed if substantial economies can be effected.

Due to the persistent efforts of President Hoover and a few Senate leaders considerable economies were put into effect by the last session of Congress. The House stubbornly resisted any substantial reductions and passed bills that would have doubled the cost of government if they had not been opposed by the Senate or vetoed by President Hoover. Likewise the House trimmed the $150,000,000 economy bill offered by its own committee to a meager saving of $40,000,000. But the political influences which caused one revolt after another against economy measures last spring will not be so potent during the next session.

President Hoover has already started the economy ball rolling by an order for a reduction of $500,000,000 in the budget that is to be submitted to Congress. Leaders in the House will have a fresh party pledge to live up to or violate. The Democratic platform advocates a reduction of $1,000,000,000 in the Federal budget. The House will not be able to repeat its performance of this year without making a mockery of the platform to which its leaders adhere.

Several hundred millions of dollars can be trimmed from the allowances to veterans who suffered no disability in the war. This source of economy was untouched at the last session, even though a reduction in these extravagant expenditures for veterans was urged by the President and economy committees. Reorganization of Government departments, bureaus and commissions will make possible considerable saving. It will be necessary to suspend every function that is not essential to good government.

Every citizen realizes that government is costing far more than it should. Retrenchment is the only possible way of relieving the present staggering tax burdens. Senator Smoot's move against extravagance instead of toward higher taxes will be applauded everywhere.

BRITISH CABINET CHANGES.

Great Britain's political cauldron begins to boil once more with the resignation of Viscount Snowden, former Labor leader, and Sir Herbert Samuel and Sir Archibald Sinclair, both Liberals, from the national cabinet of Premier Ramsay MacDonald. Since the crisis which drove Britain off the gold standard a year ago politics have been submerged under the united determination of all party leaders to resuscitate British industry and restabilize British finance. Now the politicians are confident that the emergency has passed. Hence, they revert to strict party allegiance.

A break-up of the MacDonald cabinet has been expected for some time. There has never been harmony between the dominating Conservatives and the Liberals in the cabinet on the tariff policy. Liberal ministers have remained at their posts only to preserve the national character of the administration and thus aid the program of economic rehabilitation. The trade agreements negotiated at Ottawa provide the two Liberal ministers and the irreconcilable free trader from Ickornshaw an opportunity to revert to their partisan roles.

Premier MacDonald has struggled for several months to prevent the disintegration of his cabinet, because that event presages the end of his political career. With the free trade Liberals and Viscount Snowden out, the cabinet has almost lost its national character. Two Conservatives and a friendly Liberal take over the vacated seats, thus increasing the predominance of the Tories. Premier MacDonald realizes that he is able to remain at the head of the government only because he is willing to take dictation from Stanley Baldwin. Even so, it can not be supposed that the Conservative party, which has 467 seats in the House of Commons, will be content to continue under the leadership of Mr. MacDonald much longer.

The principal significance of the resignations yesterday seems to be that they pave the way for a return to strictly party government in London. These defections will not cause an election, and they will not change the actual control over the government exercised by the Conservative party. The Laborite and Liberal members of the cabinet have been gradually losing their influence in recent months, as was indicated by the sharp note sent to Germany in reply to that country's demand for equality in armaments. When the Conservatives feel certain that Britain is safely on the way to recovery, they may be expected to come out in the open with a demand for complete authority. When that happens Ramsay MacDonald will be a man without a portfolio as well as a man without a party.

HOME AND CHILDREN.

President Hoover's struggle with adversity during the last three years has overshadowed his more direct contributions to the welfare of children. In his address last night to the biennial conference under the auspices of the New York Herald Tribune Institute he recalled that he has used the influence of his office and given a great deal of time to projects to further child health, education and character building. By nature the President is a humanitarian. If his period in the White House had been one of tranquillity, it probably would have been noted for the social betterment projects he has fostered. His contributions in this field are not less important, however, merely because they are obscured by his more spectacular combat with the forces of depression.

Millions of women voters will probably be more interested in the results of the White House conference on the problems of children than in the tariff or farm relief. Others find the impetus given to home ownership by the Washington Conference on Housing and Home Ownership more important than disarmament or the theory of non-recognition for territory acquired by conquest. President Hoover's plan of Home Loan Banks which is just being organized to relieve home owners from the effects of hard times also brings him widespread recognition in circles devoted to human welfare.

There is ground for regret that the President has not been able to give more time to these projects. Yet he has devoted his full energy to a humanitarian project of far greater proportions. In a larger sense his entire term has been a struggle to protect the welfare of the home and safeguard the future of American children.

BUTLERIAN IGNORANCE.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, entered upon a new scholastic year by misinforming his students on economic and political issues. It is the policy of Dr. Butler to convince Columbia students at the beginning of each year that he is the fountain of all wisdom. But even freshmen who have had their eyes and ears open during the last few months will be skeptical after listening to the schoolmaster's lecture which Dr. Butler shouted at Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The president of Columbia is peeved because the presidential candidates will not accept his magic remedies for the depression. Neither of them, he complains, will discuss the major issues of the campaign. And what are those major issues? Dr. Butler's favorite trio of panaceas—cancellation of the war debts, reduction of the tariff, and readjustment of monetary systems!

Dr. Butler seems to be unaware of what is going on. Both President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt have expressed opposition to cancellation of the war debts. Gov. Roosevelt has demanded a reduction of the tariff, and President Hoover has declared that the tariff must be maintained to protect the American workingmen and farmers. As for the monetary problem, Dr. Butler completely ignores the fact that an international conference on this issue has been called and that the United States will be represented.

All of this wailing at Columbia is based on the false assumption that international trade has been throttled, thus exaggerating the depression in every land. Dr. Butler always starts out with that theory—even though it is fallacious so far as the United States is concerned. Department of Commerce figures shows that exports have kept about an even pace with domestic industrial production, in spite of the handicaps arising from depreciated currencies. Imports to this country have fallen off only about half as much as domestic production. Instead of being throttled, foreign commerce has fared much better than domestic business in this period of world-wide depression.

Imports from countries that are off the gold standard have enormously increased during recent months. Foreign manufacturers who pay from 50 to 75 per cent as much for their labor and raw materials as they did last year find it is easy to scale the American tariff wall and reap enormous profits at the expense of American labor. It is charitable to assume that Dr. Butler was ignorant of this fact when he demanded reduction of the tariff to relieve unemployment. But ignorance does not prevent him from posing as an expert in political affairs. Instead of attempting to teach, he should go to school himself.

DISTRICT VOTERS.

The Republican and Democratic committees of the District are to be congratulated on their work to persuade men and women who reside in Washington but have voting residences elsewhere to exercise the privilege of the ballot in the forthcoming elections.

In these days of fast and cheap transportation no great sacrifice is required of the majority of these voters in performing this duty of citizenship. The railroads have pledged their cooperation and are offering special rates. Many States permit absent voters to cast their ballots by mail. Detailed information has been gathered by the District Republican and Democratic committees and inquirers at either headquarters will be given every assistance.

Neither pseudo sophistication nor ignorant laziness may excuse an American from his duty to vote. Let the women do their part. They won enfranchisement after a long battle. They have won an increasingly important place in the industrial and business life of the Nation. They should assume their individual responsibility for conduct of the Government by voting.

HELPING THE LEAGUE.

Regardless of his reasons for the action, the American League might well extend to Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, a vote of thanks for the move which sent Outfielders Simmons and Haas and Infielder Dykes to the Chicago White Sox.

Baseball fans of the American League have long felt the need for "new faces" and changing lineups. But American League club owners, contrary to the policies of their National League rivals, have hesitated to trade with each other, lest they lose more than they gain.

As a result the strength of the league has been centered in three teams for the past three seasons. New York, Philadelphia and Washington have been the class of the circuit. Efforts of the second division teams have at times been actually pitiful.

Chicago, with outstanding players added to its present strength, will win more games. That will make a better race for the pennant. If other trades follow whereby Boston and St. Louis gain strength, every city in the league will rejoice. A better race means better attendance. Better attendance will allow club owners to further strengthen their teams. There will be the usual cry of "commercialism," but after all baseball is a business as well as a game. Winter is almost here. Let the trading be fast and furious.

Since Gov. Roosevelt took Senator Norris to his bosom and tossed bouquets to all the other wild men of the West, John Dewey and Norman Thomas are no doubt fearing that it will be their turn next.

Regardless of what happens in November Speaker Garner will have one record to his credit. He has never been known to keep quiet so long since he left the range.

A lad was bitten yesterday when he attempted to stop two dogs from fighting. Let that be a warning to the peacemakers in politics.

One peculiar thing about this wet-dry controversy—no one has ever thought of referring it to McCarl.

HOW ABOUT BONUS?

From the Buffalo Courier-Express.

When Woodrow Wilson was President he feared, and tried to safeguard the country against, a pension scandal after the World War which would be comparable in quality to the Civil War pension scandal, but vastly greater in degree. Warren Harding, as President, vetoed the first bonus bill. Calvin Coolidge vetoed the next bonus measure, but Congress passed the bill over his veto. Those three Presidents left the country in no doubt whatsoever as to their opinions of anything that savored of a pension racket. They acted as they did not because they thought less of the World War veterans, but because they thought more of the country which had put its largest trust in their hands. President Hoover has made his position on this question known to all with equal clearness. He has said, so plainly that none can fail to understand, that so far as his power goes the good of the country will not be put second to the good of any single group.

The last four Presidents, then, one a Democrat, the three others Republicans, have openly taken the position that the Government, although it must provide adequate relief for war-incurred disabilities and for the dependents of disabled men, must be constantly vigilant to avoid a pension racket. Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential candidate who received a popular vote of more than 15,000,000 four years ago, holds the same opinion.

In other words, Gov. Roosevelt, who so far in his campaign for the Presidency has expressed no opinion on the bonus, seems to stand aloof from the position which President Wilson and President Harding occupied and which President Hoover, former President Coolidge and former Gov. Smith occupy. To attempt to assume that Mr. Roosevelt stands here or stands there might be wholly unjustified. Nevertheless, it can not be denied that the public should know what is the governor's position. Until it knows, it can not intelligently make up its mind as between the two candidates on this most important question of whether relief shall be for disability or dependency only. Relief which, it fairly may be said, politics has inspired, now amounts to about $450,000,000 of the more than three-quarters of a billion dollars which the Government pays out annually in veteran relief, exclusive of Civil War pensions.

In his recent article on politics and pensions, Mr. Smith called on the candidates to leave the people in no doubt as to their position on the bonus. The people know where Mr. Hoover stands. They do not know where Mr. Roosevelt stands. The days pass. It is now the last week of September. To grant the immediate bonus demanded by the American Legion would cost the Government, according to the National Economy League, about $1,600,000,000 more than to pay the adjusted compensation certificates upon maturity in 1945. The question whether Mr. Roosevelt is for or against the bonus is plainly of large importance. It is a fair question. It is not merely Alfred E. Smith's question, it is the people's question. Nevertheless, it goes unanswered.

Why Change Doctors Now?

POST HASTE.

Senator Norris is so acclimated to attacks that blast him as radical and renegade that it probably will require several days for him to recover from the fulsome dose administered by Gov. Roosevelt.

If this whole Senate bunch of radical deserters will now have the common decency to change their misnomer to Progressive Democrats, all will be forgiven.

Has Speaker Garner's speaking tour struck the same kind of a snag as Huey Long's?

At last a definite and positive statement of position from Gov. Roosevelt. After Senator Norris had outlined his creed the Governor said: "I go along with you."

If the increases in wholesale and retail trade, car loadings and power consumption are partly seasonal they are also very seasonable for Republicans.

It's still thiseaway: If conditions continue to improve until November 8 will folks feel like scrapping tried policies that are restoring business to begin trying experimental theories some time next year?

"Blind support of party is no virtue," said Gov. Roosevelt. "You're telling me?" exclaims Senator Norris.

"Simmons, Haas and Dykes sold to Chisox by Connie Mack." Sounds as though we might expect to get a protest from Liberia.

Gov. Roosevelt's constant assurance that he is attacking party leaders, not the rank and file, is about as effective as Woodrow Wilson's repeated attempt during the war to separate rulers from their people.

"The very perfect gentle knight of Progressive ideals," Gov. Roosevelt called Senator Norris, but how does this agree with his discovery that he embodies the composite qualities of Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Roosevelt and Wilson?

Chairman Farley's only speech is to repeat that the Democrats will carry every State. He may be needing that fever serum.

Curiously, the head of the great Krupp munition works also supports Germany's armament demands.

Speaker Garner declared in New York he would remain mum on the bonus for the duration of the campaign. Maybe he can, but a certain presidential candidate will be smoked out. PAUL HUDSON.

HEBREW RADIO STATION.

The first Hebrew radio station in the world was recently inaugurated at Tel Aviv, according to the Christian Science Monitor. The opening program included a Hebrew prologue given by an actor belonging to Habimah, one of Palestine's theatrical companies. The new Hebrew broadcasting corporation announces that its programs will take cognizance of Arab art and that efforts will be made to induce prominent Arabs to speak at the microphone. A short-wave transmitter will be erected shortly in Palestine in order to permit the exchange of programs with Europe. Items will be broadcast from the news transmitter in Hebrew, English and Arabic, and readings from German literature will be given in the original.

A lot of the candidates tell us their minds are open. They must pardon our mistake. We thought it was just their mouths.

The Fact That Plants Need Water Is Proof Nature Provides Rain

By ROBERT QUILLEN

EVERY individual of delicate sensibilities is prey to occasional periods of mysterious melancholy.

The immediate cause may seem to be a nostalgic south wind, the odor of burning leaves, the strong pathos of spring, the sound of a distant horn, the lonely hush of twilight, or the unnatural quiet of a Sunday morning.

But there must be within us some unguessed hunger or unsatisfied capacity that makes it possible for these trifles to affect us so profoundly.

The feeling is not a mere loneliness. It is sadness and sorrow. It is an almost unbearable longing for something unknown and unattainable. It is heartache for which the earth affords no balm.

From childhood to old age we plan our lives to escape it.

Young people, finding escape only in the company of their kind, blame the quiet atmosphere of home and long for far adventures.

Husbands and wives, no longer able to forget themselves in the ecstasy of courtship, attribute their nameless longings to some deficiency in their mates and dream of finding other loves that will supply their needs.

Men and women still unmated and homeless in middle life think their hungerings caused by want of the blessings that marriage brings—the comradeship of a loyal partner, the love and trust of children.

To whatever cause they attribute the inexplicable melancholy that oppresses them, their effort to escape it is an effort to escape themselves.

They dread solitude. They find forgetfulness in crowds. They drug themselves with alcohol; they drive themselves hard at work and at play; they demand constant entertainment and excitement. At any cost they must avoid the quiet leisure that encourages meditation.

The cause of their discontent I do not profess to know.

But there are people in every community whose hearts are free of pain; who are often alone but never lonely; who feel no hopeless longings.

They believe in a Heavenly Father, and walk and talk with Him, and their reward is the peace of God which passeth understanding.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Bronx Cheers.

Chicago Tribune.

Senator George W. Norris, who clings to the name Republican and bolts the ticket, is chairman of the new National Progressive League. Senator Costigan, Democrat, of Colorado, is vice chairman. The purpose is to rally the liberals and radicals to Gov. Roosevelt. Mr. Norris and Mr. Costigan thus put themselves in position for three hearty Bronx cheers from the lunatic fringe.

Roosevelt's Bid for Progressives.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Doubtless every speech Gov. Roosevelt made in the West was calculated in some measure to appeal to the so-called Progressive vote, which is normally more Republican than Democratic. But it remained for him to disclose the importance of his bid for Progressive support on entering California. There he openly expressed his admiration for his distant relative, Teddy Roosevelt the elder. There also he threw a handsome bouquet into the waiting arms of Senator Hiram Johnson, a fighting Progressive.

In fact, Roosevelt's ideas and principles are closer to the Progressives of the West than to any other single element of the country. Vague though the term Progressive may be, it does have a general meaning to most men everywhere.

Fiction Note.

For the first time in its history the Republican campaign committee will sell its campaign textbooks, but it is difficult to believe the book will take rank with the best-selling fiction.

Veterans Face Opposition.

Kansas City Times.

One of the unfortunate developments in national affairs is the sharp conflict between sound and necessary economic policies and the demands of former soliders. The disposition of every American citizen is to be fair to all who participated in the country's wars and generous to those who suffered disabilities or otherwise have been made dependent. The disposition of the veterans, so far as it is expressed in collective action, is to insist on demands that would strain the Government's credit and retard recovery.

One-Sided Scrap.

Indianapolis Star.

The political bleachers are resounding with the familiar injunction: "Fight, G. O. P., fight!"

Gov. Roosevelt's Best Speech.

Detroit News.

The address which Gov. Roosevelt made to the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco is far and away the best speech he has made so far. It is the speech not of a politician, not of a candidate for office, but of a historian, a close student of economics, and a statesman. It is worthy of one who, in many years spent in the public service, has learned the lesson of service, and has not forgotten the ideals which a fine public servant should ever keep in mind.

Fever and Trance.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Maine election has stimulated the Republicans to feverish, almost frantic, activity in their desperate desire to prevent what happened in Maine in September from happening in the Nation in November. At the same time it has had a tendency to lull the Democrats into such a trance of confidence as may endanger the election of Roosevelt.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Footpaths Needed in Parks and Along Highways.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read letters in The Post about the need of paths for pedestrians in parks and on the public thoroughfares. The need is very great if it is true as they used to say that love of nature should be encouraged. Nature's influence is absorbed by and becomes a regular part of the human system, and does not go in at one ear and out at the other, as a sermon or a lecture is apt to do.

The old-fashioned poet who said the woods were God's first temples did well in thus calling attention to the best place for religious worship. I don't think in regard to young people there is any single thing which can develop God-fearing citizenship better than getting next to nature. Pleasant footways between the National Capital and the tomb of Washington would, without our noticing it, repay their cost a thousand times in better citizenship.

Of course the traffic officials will be quick to say that there are not enough pedestrians to make the construction of the paths advisable. But that is because in the development of motoring, pedestrianism has been neglected and discouraged.

I think if the paths were built at the time when highways are being repaired and new ones constructed, the cost would not be much. And in that case I believe the time would come when country tramps would be added to the popular outdoor activities of able-bodied men, women and children. JIP GODDARD.

Fallacy of Low Tariff Arguments Cited by Virginia Citizen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The arguments advanced by the Democratic party on the tariff have always been designed to appeal to nit-wits. That used to elect Cleveland was along this line:

"If we remove the tariff and reduce the price of wool from 40 to 20 cents a pound, woolen clothing would be reduced one-half, and suits that now cost $30 would then cost only $15!" The victims of this logic did not understand until later that our markets would be destroyed, that the reduction in price would necessarily be slight, and that they wouldn't have the price.

Gov. Roosevelt condemns the present tariff law, but he neglects to say that the Democrats helped to make it, and he dare not say he would advocate changing any of the rates. What does he say? He would assemble representatives of other nations and settle the tariff matter in such a way that all would benefit.

Which reminds us of the old farmer boasting of how industrious his four sons were. On days when the weather was too bad for them to work outside, they would gather in the barn, and make several dollars each trading among each other. DOC.

THE KISS WINS.

Because Americans, Englishmen, Germans, Dutchmen, Swedes, Lithuanians, Poles, Danes, Armenians, Serbians, Greeks, Estonians, Syrians, Letts, Icelanders, Norwegians and especially the Japanese think it is effeminate, many modern Frenchmen have abandoned the ancient and honorable Gallic custom of greeting friends with a resounding kiss on the cheek or jaw, according to Time.

So widespread has become the custom of shaking hands in France that the august Academie de Medecine was asked recently for an opinion. Weightily the academie considered then over the voluble opposition of a youthful minority delivered these decisions: (1) The country man's hands carry fewer germs than the city man's, but (2) more germs change carriers during a handclasp than during a perfunctory peck of the lips; hence (3) the handshake is more dangerous than the kiss.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE LITTLE COUNTRY HOSPITAL.

The little country hospital is hidden out of view
And people seldom notice it as pleasure they pursue,
But let an accident befall—which is the fate of men—
The proudest man is glad to see the small-town doctor then.
And in that little hospital which humble folk maintain He'll find that hearts are merciful and quick to comfort pain.

It isn't like the city place, with sections blocks apart,
Where every patient's listed as a number on a chart
And specialists for this and that convene to thumb him o'er
And ask a thousand questions of the ills he's had before.
For in the country hospital, which lacks all pomp and style,
The surgeon on his morning round has time to chat awhile.

And whether pain be in your groin,
your stomach or your toe,
The cause of it the doctor there assuredly will know.
He will not shunt you round the place for rays of that and this,
He'll diagnose your case himself and very seldom miss.
And whoso'er shall tread the hall
when you are free from pain
Will stop to speak a cheery word and wish you well again.

So, little country hospital, which humble folks support,
Which struggles for existence, since funds are always short,
I pay this simple tribute now to all your tender care
In lessening the hurt and pain which mortals have to bear,
And pray for God's rich blessing on the men and women brave
Who give their every ounce of strength another's life to save.

HER MOTHER TOLD HER

EVERY month it was the same story: Headaches and backaches. Jumpy nerves. Always tired out by mid-day.
She hated to talk about her trouble. She tried to hide it. But you can't hide things like that from a mother. So her mother told her—what every mother should tell her daughter:
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made for just such trying times. Taken regularly it ends fatigue and irritability. Makes life worth living . . . every week . . . every month. Won't you give it a chance to help you?

The Minister of Norway, Mr. Bachke, arrived in Washington last evening, having arrived in New York yesterday after spending a vacation in Norway.

Mrs. Eric Louw, wife of the South African Minister, will sail tomorrow for South Africa on the City of New York. She is going to visit her two sons, from whom she has been separated for more than a year, and hopes to be back in Washington in February or March. The City of New York goes direct to Cape Town, touching only at the Island of St. Helena. The voyage will take 23 days.

Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, entertained informally at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

The United States Ambassador to Turkey, Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, who is on a visit to this country, will return to his post at Istanbul to participate in the celebration commemorating the founding of the Republic of Turkey, October 29.

Senator Hattie W. Caraway, the first woman to be elected to the Senate of the United States, will be the honor guest and speaker at the first of a series of luncheons which have been arranged by the program committee of the Woman's National Democratic Club. Mrs. Caraway's subject is "My Campaign Experiences."

Representative John S. Wood, of Georgia, who came here recently from his home in Canton, has been staying at Wardman Park Hotel.

Fliers Entertained By Cuban Charge.

The Charge d'Affaires of Cuba, Senor Don Jose T. Baron, entertained informally at dinner last evening at the Mayflower for the three Cuban good-will fliers, Capt. Torres Menier, flight commander; Lieut. Rodolfo Herrera, and Lieut. Pablo Alonso, who are spending a few days in Washington. Today the fliers will be entertained at luncheon by officers at Bolling Field. They will leave Washington tomorrow, en route to Cuba.

The Military Attache of the Cuban Embassy, Capt. Enrique A. Prieto, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower in compliment to the fliers. In addition to the guests of honor, the company included a number of military aviators now in the Capital. Covers were laid for sixteen.

The Undersecretary of the Treasury, Mr. Arthur Ballantine, will fly to New York today. He will be guest of honor at a tea and reception to be given this afternoon by Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, wife of Representative Bacon, at Arlough, her estate in Old Westbury, Long Island. Representative and Mrs. Bacon will remain on Long Island until after the election, when they will come to the Capital to open their residence in F street.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Robert Morris Kennedy have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Morris Kennedy, to Mr. Richard White Miller. The ceremony will take place on Saturday, October 22 at noon at the residence of Admiral and Mrs. Kennedy, 2312 Tracy place. A reception will follow the ceremony.

Recent Brides

Underwood & Underwood.

(Left), Mrs. Louis Fleming Peak, whose marriage took place Wednesday. Mrs. Peak was formerly Miss Mildred Blaine Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Lynn Clarke. (Right), Mrs. Robert William Manning, who, before her marriage yesterday at noon, was Miss Caroline Sanderson, daughter of Lieut. Col. Charles B. Sanderson, U. S. M. C., and Mrs. Sanderson.

Mrs. Herbert O. Williams, wife of Brig. Gen. Williams, will arrive the latter part of the week to be the guest of Capt. and Mrs. Samuel A. Greenwell.

The United States Consul General to Frankfort-on-the-Main and Mrs. Will Leonard Lowrie are spending a few days in Washington at the Mayflower. They have been in the United States for three weeks and will return to Germany the early part of October.

Miss Junia Culbertson and Miss Jane Culbertson, daughters of the United States Ambassador to Chile and Mrs. William S. Culbertson will leave Washington October 10 for Bryn Mawr, Pa., where they will attend college. Mrs. Culbertson will spend October and November in Washington and has taken an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

Miss Anne St. Clair Smith Wed in Panama City.

The wedding of Miss Anne St. Clair Smith, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Arthur St. Clair Smith, of Panama City, and Lieut. Joseph Martin Pickett Wright, U. S. N., son of Capt. Henry Tutuiler Wright, U. S. N., and Mrs. Wright, took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of Judge and Mrs. James J. Lenihan, at Ancon, Canal Zone. The ceremony was performed by Chaplain Walter Weston Pierce, U. S. N., before an improvised altar decorated with cathedral candles in tall candelabra and madonna lilies.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin fashioned on princess lines, and a veil of tulle falling from a cap of rose point lace. She carried a sheaf of lotus flowers.

Mrs. Edward Blackburn Hempstead, wife of Lieut. Hempstead, U. S. A., who was matron of honor, wore a bouffant gown of deep gold-colored organdie, and carried an arm-bouquet of African daisies.

Lieut. Joseph Irwin Taylor, U. S. N., was best man, and the ushers were Lieut. Douglas Turner Day, U. S. N.; Lieut. William Henry Ashford, U. S. N.; Lieut. Philip Henry Ryan, U. S. N., and Lieut. Robert Ellington Dixon, U. S. N.

Following the ceremony the bride and bridegroom left the altar under an arch formed by the sabers of the groomsmen, and went to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held. The house was decorated with masses of pink radiance roses and ferns. Lieut. and Mrs. Wright left for a wedding trip and will come to Washington to make their home.

Among the guests at the wedding were the President of Panama and Senora de Alfaro, members of the president's cabinet, the President-elect and Senora de Arias, the United States Minister and Mrs. Roy Tasco Davis, and members of the Diplomatic Corps, as well as officials of the Army, Navy and Canal Zone government.

Maj. L. W. Hoyt, U. S. M. C., with his mother, Mrs. Emma E. Hoyt, came here from their home in Cleveland Heights, Ohio, a few days ago and have engaged an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

The marriage of Miss Emily Ecker, daughter of Mrs. John Beard Ecker, to Mr. Fontaine Cosby Bradley, son of Mrs. Thomas Bradley, will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock in All Souls' Episcopal Church, Cathedral avenue. A reception will be held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, 1237 Thirtieth street.

Mrs. Seneca G. Lewis has returned to Washington after spending several months in Canada. She also visited her mother, Mrs. Eugene McFall, in Ohio, and has taken a house for the winter in Kanawha street. Mrs. McFall will join Mrs. Lewis here for the winter.

Mrs. John H. Howard, of Washington, arrived in New York on the Ile de France and is staying at the Weylin.

Miss Elizabeth Edson will be given a shower this evening at the Endion Club by Miss Millicent Becker.

Miss Clara Lutz and Miss Gertrude Lutz are spending a few weeks with their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clark, at their home in Thirtieth street. Later they will move to their apartment at 2219 California street.

Miss Elizabeth Knowlton Dodge, of Augusta, Ga., who is the guest of her grandparents, Col. and Mrs. Harrison Dodge, will be one of the debutantes of the coming season. She will be presented to society about the middle of November.

Mrs. J. M. Schneider, who has been at the Royal Palace Royat, France, since August, with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Obenchain, will leave them for a visit to Switzerland and the Riviera and will rejoin them later at Nice. They will sail for home on the Saturnnia, sailing from Cannes October 16.

Miss Sanderson Wed To Robert W. Manning.

The wedding of Miss Caroline Sanderson, daughter of Lieut. Col. Charles B. Sanderson, U. S. M. C., and Mrs. Sanderson, and Mr. Robert William Manning, of Grosse Pointe Park, Mich., son of Mrs. Bart H. Manning, of Grosse Pointe, took place yesterday at noon in St. Matthew's Church, Chaplain Joseph T. Casey, U. S. N., officiating, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends.

The church was decorated with a profusion of white dahlias and gladioli mingled with fern and palms.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white bridal satin made with a cowl neckline, long fitted sleeves, and a long train of the satin. The only trimming on the gown was rose point lace on the sleeves, from the elbows to the cuffs, the lace having been on the bride's mother's wedding gown. The veil of tulle was edged with a narrow band of rose point lace, and was arranged simply with a face veil falling to the waist line. She carried a white satin prayer-book with a shower of white ribbons and lilies of the valley.

Carrying out the all-white color scheme of the wedding, the bride's attendants were also in white, the only note of color being their flowers. Their frocks were of white crepe, designed with slight trains, jackets with full elbow sleeves, and sashes crossed in the front and tied at the back.

They all wore white velvet turbans. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of orange-rust dahlias, and the other attendants carried dahlias in a lighter tone.

Miss Eunice Lee Evans was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Katharine Manning, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Mary Morton, Miss Margery Morton, of Warrenton, Va., and Miss Jane Frazer, of Detroit, all cousins of the bride; Miss Barbara Davis, of Coronado, Calif., and Mrs. Anthony Hyde, of Washington.

Mr. John William Foley, jr., of Trenton, Mich., was best man, and the ushers were Mr. John William Sanderson 2d, brother of the bride; Mr. John Rodger Dryden, Mr. William M. Walker and Mr. John P. Frazer, all of Detroit; Mr. Philip A. Joyce, of Windsor, Ontario, and Mr. Hugh Reilly, of Washington.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents for the bridal party and the immediate families. Later Mr. Manning and his bride left for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a yellow wool-crepe gown with brown accessories. They will make their home on St. Clair avenue, in Grosse Pointe Park.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John P. Frazer, Miss Jane Frazer, Mr. John P. Frazer, jr., of Detroit; Mrs. Henry S. Mitchell, of Minneapolis, and Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Sanderson, of Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.

Dr. and Mrs. Wade H. Atkinson, who are at Royat, France, will be joined there later by Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Jones, now touring in Germany, and will make a month's tour of Spain before returning to the States.

The Georgia State Society of Washington announces that the opening dance of the season will be held in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel on Tuesday evening, October 18. Delightful entertainment will be furnished during intermission. For those not caring to dance there will be bridge. All Georgians in the city and their friends are especially invited.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Merle Spillan have returned to their apartment at the Westchester after passing two weeks as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus Woodard at their summer home at Bluff Point, on Lake Keuka, N. Y. Dr. and Mrs. Spillan recently returned from a cruise from New York to Halifax and Bermuda.

Judge and Mrs. Charles S. Lobingier have returned from their tour in Europe where the judge went as a delegate from several institutions to the International Congress of Comparative Law at The Hague. Following the congress they toured the Netherlands, the Rhine Valley and Great Britain, making a trip through England and Scotland, and visiting the English cathedrals.

Consul Decides to Quit To Save Expense to U.S.

London, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—W. F. Doty, American consul at Newcastle, announced today he would retire December 31 in order to save the United States Government his salary and to permit younger men to get ahead. Ordinarily he would not retire until 1936, when he will be 65, but his voluntary action will save more than half his salary.

Doty was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., and educated at Princeton University. He once was a Presbyterian missionary in Alaska. He entered the consular service 30 years ago at Tahiti, in the South Seas, where he was a missionary. He has since served as consul in various European posts.

Three Capital Youths Pledged to Fraternities

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Sept. 29.—Three boys from the District of Columbia were among the 186 freshmen pledged to fraternities on the Washington and Lee campus. They are Robert Davidson, son of William K. Davidson, 4108 Ingomar street, Beta Theta Pi; John Porter, son of Mrs. W. B. Clarkson, 3120 Woodley road, Phi Gamma Delta; Frank Price, son of Dr. Daniel J. Price, 701 Whittier street northwest.

Others from surrounding towns are: Cherrydale, Earl Donaldson, son of R. W. Donaldson, 67 Ballston road, and Walter Thomas, son of Clegge Thomas, Lorcum lane. Donaldson pledged Phi Delta Theta and Thomas, Pi Kappa Alpha. Sydney Ulfelder, son of Dr. and Mrs. Sydney Ulfelder, Maplewood, McLean, Va., Alpha Chi Rho.

Fall Injures Woman At W. C. T. U. Session

Mrs. Caspar G. Dickson, wife of an official of the Library of Congress, was injured yesterday while attending a meeting of the Maryland State Women's Christian Temperance Union in Baltimore. She was taken to Montgomery County General Hospital at Handy Spring, Md., last night. An X-ray examination was to be made to determine whether her hip had been broken.

Mrs. Dickson had gone to the State meeting in the First M. E. Church of Baltimore, and in the course of the afternoon slipped and fell. She refused treatment at the time, but was returned to her home at Kensington, Md., by Mrs. Edgar W. Moore, also of Kensington.

POPE TO DENOUNCE MEXICAN SITUATION

totaling only 4,000 words and will be published in the Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, tomorrow evening.

Osservatore Romano recently printed an editorial on the Mexican situation, asserting that communism was at the bottom of "religious persecution" in Mexico.

The editorial accused Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, Mexico's revolutionary leader, of plotting in 1924 to raise a red army to replace the regular troops, and said the antichurch movement was carried to such an extreme in some Mexican states that "hymns to the devil" were sung in public meetings.

The basis of a religious agreement between the Catholic Church and the Mexican government was announced on June 22, 1929, thus:

1. The Mexican government will allow the Catholic Hierarchy to designate those priests who are to register in compliance with Mexican laws.

2. Religious instruction, while not permitted in the schools (which is specified in the constitution), will be permitted within the churches.

3. The right is reserved to Mexican Catholic prelates to apply for modification of the constitution at any time in the future, which is the same as granted all Mexican citizens.

When Gen. Calles, a pronounced anticlerical, became president of Mexico the twentieth century differences between the church and state came to an abrupt climax.

The Mexican Congress in 1926 gave the president powers to legislate by decree, and he drew up legislation to place into effect certain articles of the 1917 constitution, limiting the activity of the Catholic Church, recognizing marriage as a civil contract and forbidding religious instruction in public schools.

Architect Asks Bids For Cancer Hospital

Bids have been called by Arthur B. Heaton, the architect, on a two-story brick building, 100 by 40 feet in dimensions, to be erected as a cancer hospital by the Washington Home for Foundlings, it was learned yesterday.

The structure will be located on the Garfield Hospital property at Tenth street and Florida avenue northwest. Bids will be opened October 5.

Flora McGill Keefer On Chest Air Program

Flora McGill Keefer, Washington contralto, inaugurated the second annual Community Chest series over WMAL last night, appearing as the first guest artist on the new Album of Artists program from 7:45 to 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Keefer, who was introduced by Newbold Noyes, Community Chest campaign chairman, gave a request program of old time favorites.

Boys Club Will Mark Twelfth Anniversary

The Boys Club of Washington will celebrate its twelfth anniversary tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at the club house, 230 C street northwest. Boys between the ages of 8 and 18 have been invited to attend. C. M. Fyfe, director of the club, issued a special invitation to former members.

The physical director, Harry Child, former Washington baseball player, is planning a complete program of athletics for the coming year. Other activities will include selections by the Harmonica Band.

Registrations to Open At Southeast House

Registration for fall activities at Southeast House will open this week. Miss Marian Conover, director of the center, announced an enrollment of 173 boys and girls in the summer activities, and hopes for an even larger number this fall.

The activities include a nursery school, a mothers' club, sewing club, little girls' club, boys' club, mechanics work, Boy and Girl Scouts and Girl Reserves, little theater movement, art clubs, hygiene classes and a library club.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

SOME wonder has been expressed —or so Mr. Frank La Falce, of the Warner Brothers' publicity department, tells me—that George Arliss' engagement at the Metropolitan in "A Successful Calamity," has been definitely limited by the management to a single week. It is pointed out that Mr. Arliss is a star enjoying perhaps as wide a popularity in the National Capital as any actor on either stage or screen, or both. Why, then, if "Horse Feathers" and "Blessed Event," the first two releases of the Met's "Certified Entertainment Season," can run two weeks to satisfactory business, may not "A Successful Calamity" do the same?

The answer, said Mr. La Falce, is simple. The Metropolitan has so many Grade A pictures backed up that it can not spare the time! With a considerable hue and cry being raised from time to time about the paucity of good pictures, this falls upon the consciousness as a plea that is almost too good to be true. So the helpful Doctor La Falce pulls his documentary evidence!

Ready for immediate showing at the Met are such pictures as "The Phantom President," starring George M. Cohan, supported by Claudette Colbert and Jimmy Durante — the film that has caused Mr. Cohan to conclude that everybody in the motion picture industry is crazy, including himself for ever having had anything to do with it; "Life Begins," with Loretta Young and Eric Linden and Aline MacMahon; "Tiger Shark," starring Edward G. Robinson; Richard Barthelmess in "The Cabin in the Cotton," and an equal number nearing completion in the very near future.

If all of these should run for two weeks, or more, when, asks Mr. La Falce, would you ever get around to seeing those to come farther down on the list?

"I'll bite, and, for the matter of that, what difference would it make? Any picture is a first-run until you have seen it!

While the thought is fresh in mind, and for your easy reference and quick information, the complete list of film attractions for the week now current is as follows: RKO-Keith's, John Barrymore, with Billie Burke and Katherine Hepburn, in "A Bill of Divorcement;" Loew's Fox, Laurel & Hardy in "Pack Up Your Troubles," and Morton Downey, in person, headlining the vaudeville; Earle, Ann Dvorak and David Manners in "Crooner," and Will Mahoney headlining the vaudeville; Palace, Walter Huston and Lupe Velez in "Kongo;" Metropolitan, George Arliss in "A Successful Calamity;" Columbia, Jack Hoxie in "Gold;" Rialto, Irene Dunne and John Boles in "Back Street," second week.

There is a hazy recollection trying to fight its way through to a little clearer definition that "Kongo" appeared on the silent screen some years ago with Lon Chaney appearing in the role of Flint, now played by Walter Huston, and Mary Nolan in the part now assumed by the comparably blonde Virginia Bruce. Its title may have been "East of Suez"—and then again it may not. The story, however, strips down to the same skeleton.

"Kongo," incidentally, was co-authored by Kilbourn Gordon, whose chief claim to fame in the theater is that he was sagacious enough to produce "The Cat and the Canary," under the firm name of Kilbourn Gordon, Inc. Antedating that achievement by several years, however, was Kil's first adventure in the playhouse as a reviewer on the staff of this desk, followed, in course of time, by appearances in the cast of the old Columbia Players, when A. H. Van Buren and Dorothy Bernard were the stock idols of Washington. It is just barely possible that that goes back a bit before your time!

The advance sale of seats for the engagement of Eva Le Gallienne and her Civic Repertory Theater Company, headed by Joseph Schildkraut, in "Liliom" and "Camille," at the National Theater beginning Monday night, is reported to be unusually heavy, even when the enforced postponement of the season's inaugural by the cancellation of "Humpty Dumpty" is taken into full consideration. Neither of these plays has been seen here for so long that public curiosity is genuinely piqued.

Speaking of Mr. La Falce, as we were a while back, it seems that he was dramatic editor of the Newark, N. J., Ledger off there in 1927-28, when Gracie Rogers was just beginning to make an impression as a possible successor to the late Nora Bayes as a balladist and singer of hot tunes. A surreptitious examination of Miss "Rogers'" first press book reveals that Mr. La Falce went completely overboard for the young singer in his columns, not once but many times.

The catch is that when Gracie Rogers, with her name changed to Gracie Barrie, to avoid confusion with Ginger Rogers, opened at the Earle a week ago today Frank did not even recognize her as the girl for whom he had predicted such big things. Nevertheless, and even imagining his embarrassment, a second week for Miss Barrie at the Earle proves they are coming true.

And who should pop into the office yesterday afternoon, walking up from the station, but Barney McDevitt, the demon space grabber who divides his time—to all appearances—between sounding the tocsin for Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians and promotional devotion to Morton Downey, appearing in person as headliner of this week's vaudeville bill at Loew's Fox, beginning today.

In the course of the ensuing conversation, during which we both talked at once, on different topics but in the same language, it was not difficult to recall that it was seven years ago that Morton Downey last sang publicly in Washington, as soloist with Paul Whiteman when that ample bandman and his boys played their first afternoon concert engagement at the old Poli's, now the pretty greensward ferninst the Department of Commerce Building.

Mr. Downey at that time, just plucked from an upstate New York choir loft, received $125 as his weekly stipend and, when not singing, sat among the tooters holding a French horn in such a manner that his playing of it was made to seem imminent, although I believe that was an eventuality that never quite came off. Later he was promoted to $150 per week and allowed to hold a dummy saxophone—which is the finest kind of saxophone there is in many people's estimation!

Mr. Downey's pay check at the end of this week at the Fox will be in the sum of $4,500, or can't you handle them that high?

Among the favorite songs which Mr. Downey will include in his repertoire this week will be found "It Was So Beautiful," "Shantytown," "The Village Choir" and Nevin's "Rosary."

The important thing, though, is that Mr. Downey is being press-breakfasted at the Mayflower in the middle of the night this morning at 10:15! Why do they have these things just at the crack of dawn!

Ted Healy and all his stooges are booked at Loew's Fox the week of Oct. 14 . . . To be followed by Duke Ellington and His Cotton Club Orchestra . . . Tom Waring is back with Fred and the Pennsylvanians . . . Now in the Middle West, with the band increased from 18 to 22 playing members . . . Biggest hit they have ever been . . . Watch tomorrow's paper for announcements concerning the big boxing benefit show at the Auditorium Monday night . . . William A. Saxton, Baltimore city manager for Loew, has been dissipating the last days of a late vacation going to picture shows as guest of City Manager Carter Barron . . . Bekefi, the noted disciple of Terpsichore, today is holding the first of a series of monthly "open house" days at his studio, 2040 S street, with programs of dancing and music at 3:30 and and 8:30 p. m. . . . Carter Barron is entertaining the football teams of Georgetown University and Mount Saint Mary's College at a "College Night" performance at Loew's Fox tonight.

And outside of the dots before your eyes, how are you doing?

NAVY DUE TO PRESS BUILDING DEMANDS

Figures Show 1936 Strength Will Be Only Slightly More Than Japan's.

(Associated Press.)

Figures made public yesterday at the Navy Department show that present naval construction programs will place the United States 19,805 tons behind Great Britain and 5,192 tons ahead of Japan at the end of 1936.

At the present time, the statistics set forth, this country is 202,621 tons below Great Britain's strength and 72,821 above Japan.

What proposals the Navy will advance at the coming session of Congress have not been announced, but it was said in informed circles it probably would advocate a substantial building program spread out over a period of years.

At the last session, the Navy looked favorably upon the Vinson bill calling for an expenditure of $616,250,000 over a ten-year period. The measure, by Representative Vinson (Democrat), Georgia, chairman of the House naval committee, was pigeonholed without reaching a vote as a result of the general campaign for reduction in Federal outlay.

Appropriations for new naval construction plus major alterations in existing ships during the last few fiscal years were given by the Navy as follows: In 1930, $56,970,000; 1931, $67,365,000; 1932, $38,550,000, and in 1933, $32,063,000.

The statistical table compiled by the Navy set forth that at the end of 1936 the United States will have a total strength of 607,370 tons, provided ships now authorized or under construction are appropriated for and completed. Great Britain will have 627,875 and Japan 602,178. These are the three principal naval powers whose strength was prorated by the Washington treaty.

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

RIALTO

"BACK STREET," Universal picturization of the novel by Fannie Hurst, adapted to the screen by Gladys Lehman, featuring Irene Dunne and John Boles, with George Meeker, William Bakewell, Doris Lloyd, Walter Catlett, June Clyde, ZaSu Pitts and Robert McWade. Directed by John M. Stahl.

Having established itself as one of the most intelligently adapted, sanely produced and skillfully acted film romances of the season, this finely wrought narrative of a great love and its bitter sacrifices may confidently look forward to a continuance through a second week of the generous patronage of the first seven days of the Rialto's return to the land of the living after a long summer of darkness.

So much has been written of the superb assumption of the picturesque role of Ray Schmidt by Irene Dunne that nothing remains to be said that can hope to evade the charge of familiar repetition. Scarcely less effective is the performance contributed by John Boles in the character of Walter Saxel, the devoted, but detached, lover, who achieved a meager greatness largely through the unwavering loyalty of a woman whom he could not give his name or recognize in public.

In less adroit hands the screen version of the story might not always smooth out the rough spots in Fannie Hurst's vivid novel so unfailingly as it now does. The only point at which it fails in this regard is at the very end which, also, was the weakest passage in the book. Credit for the otherwise consistent excellence of "Back Street" does not belong wholly and exclusively to Miss Dunne and Mr. Boles. George Meeker, William Bakewell, Walter Catlett, June Clyde, ZaSu Pitts, Robert McWade and numerous others lend worthy talents to the creation of a believable mosaic of life bridging the not-so-gay 90's and the present.

A "Slim" Summerville comedy that is not without its moments, the Universal News, with Graham McNamee, and added short reels augment a program of distinguished merit.

Maj. Gen. Strong Quits Legion on Bonus Issue

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. F. S. Strong, retired, who commanded the Fortieth Division at Camp Kearney here during the World War, said today he had resigned from the American Legion as a result of the stand it took for payment of the bonus at its Portland convention.

He said the convention deserted "the high ideals upon which the American Legion was founded."

YANKEES WIN SECOND GAME, 5-2, AS GOMEZ STARS

Grimm Says Cubs Were Beaten by Better Pitcher Than Grove

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Yankee Stadium, New York, Sept. 29.

WITH two games of the series now beyond redemption, the Cubs may be said to have their backs to the wall. And when the series moves to band-box Wrigley Field, the Chicago outfielders will have their backs to the wall under orders.

The Yankees' strategy today was superb. With the Cubs still recovering from the shock of Gehrig's home run of Wednesday and two other extra-base hits, the Yanks confined their attack this afternoon to ten singles. How are you going to figure a team like that?

The Cubs' old college spirit that was flaming so high in the infield practice before the opening game is now slightly frayed at the edges. Not that the Cubs haven't got the heart. Mickey Walker had the heart.

Babe Ruth showed a rare burst of lethargy to stretch a legitimate three-base hit into a single in the seventh for his only safe blow of the game. The ball went on a line to the right field corner of the bleachers, a nice triple for Cuyler or Chapman, but not for Ruth.

Ruth's failure to forget his dignity and bend down after Stephenson's drive into right field gave the Cubs their second run of the game. The ball rolled by the Bambino with the speed of a rheumatic snail, but Ruth made no motion to unlimber himself in its direction.

Ruth and Gehrig are being fed to the Cubs in blocks, like the world series tickets. Only twice during the series thus far have they come to bat singly. Seven times Chicago pitching has been asked to meet this double threat in the same inning.

The Cubs have made four double plays in the series thus far, which is a good record on its own, but leaves the Chicago pitchers to explain how all those runners got on the bases.

With the Yankees leading, 5 to 2, and two out in the ninth, with no Cubs on base, Lou Gehrig attempted to argue a point with Umpire in Chief Klem, but Klem waved him back before he reached the plate, reasoning, probably, that no point was argumentative at that stage of the game.

Thus far the managerial strategy in this world's series wouldn't fill a hollow tooth. There has been only one stolen base, two pinch hitters, who were called out on strikes; two intentional walks that saw the following batters reach base, and nothing else that resembled inside baseball.

The ninth man in the Cubs' batting order today was about as useful as an ice chest in Greenland. Warneke struck out three times and Memsley, who pinch-hit for him, varied the monotony by being called out on strikes.

Crosetti's .000 batting average for the series lost no ground today when he went hitless in three appearances at the plate. Another error, however, gave him the series lead in that respect.

The Cubs presented two new faces today, Demaree, in center field, and Jurges, at shortstop, and succeeded in reducing the Yankees' winning margin from six runs yesterday to three runs today. That ought to give Manager Charley Grimm an idea.

Hurler Says He Had Case Of Nerves

Confident After Fanning Warneke and Herman in 2d.

Cubs Retain Spirit; Grimm Admits Yankees Powerful.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Vernon (Lefty) Gomes weighed himself carefully, found he had lost a previous 4 pounds in the process of standing the Cubs on their collective ears today, and admitted he was "mighty nervous" when he first stepped on the rubber.

"Sure I was nervous," said the slim Castillian as the club trainer massaged that valuable left wing of his. "Who wouldn't be? It was the first time I was ever out there in a world series.

"But it didn't last long. After a few minutes I got to liking it, and in the second inning I suddenly got all my stuff. That was when they got two on and only one out, and I bore down and struck out Warneke and Herman. When I did that I knew I didn't have anything to worry about. Seemed like the further I went the better I got.

"What did I throw? Oh, a fast ball and curves mostly. Guess I was lucky. They weren't swinging where I was pitching."

Grimm Lavish in Praise.

But Charley Grimm, manager of the beaten Cubs, had a different explanation than that. He was lavish in his praise of the youthful southpaw.

"You can talk about Lefty Grove, but that kid showed me more today than Grove did in the world series I faced him. He had as good a fast ball as Grove and a better curve. I'm satisfied. We met a great pitcher and were beaten. That's all there is to it."

The Cubs, strangely enough, did not seem particularly downcast at their second straight defeat. There was more noise in the Yankee boudoir, what with everyone from the Babe to the bat boy whooping it up, but the Chicago players gave the impression they considered themselves far from licked. Every member of the club had a slap on the back for Lon Warneke, the lanky Arkansan who had to be the loser when he encountered Gomez.

"I'm confident we'll do better at Wrigley Field, and so are all the boys," Grimm declared. "The lights and shadows bothered us here both days, but we know our own park and they'll find us a different outfit there. Charlie Root will work the next game and Pat Malone the fourth."

All Gomez, Says McCarthy.

Marse Joe McCarthy could see only one angle to today's tussle—Gomez.

"Give him all the credit. He pitched one of the sweetest games I ever saw in a world series. The others did their part, but Lefty made it easy. Everybody has been worrying about him but me. I knew what he would do to those Cubs. Now that they've looked at Ruffing and Gomez, I think I'll give them a taste of Pipgras next. After that, they ought to be about ready to wrap up."

Grimm admitted the Yankees had proved a little more powerful than he anticipated.

"We have a club or two in our league that can hit like they do. The Phillies are that way, dangerous every minute. But the difference is the Phils don't have a couple of pitchers like Ruffing and Gomez. I never saw so many fast balls in all my life."

Babe, the Bambino, was a little slower dressing than usual. Between each article of clothing he paused to admire a present from his teammates, given him just before the game as a memento of his tenth world series.

It was a silver humidor, inscribed with the names of all the Yankees, and surmounted by a silver baseball.

"That was nice of the boys," said the Babe

Action as New York Club Made It Two Straight in World Series

Lou Gehrig, Yankees' star first baseman, is hard to keep out of the series picture. Above, Gehrig is shown sliding safely over the plate for New York run in the third inning of yesterday's game. Dickey was purposely passed to fill the bases and Ben Chapman came through with a single scoring Ruth and Gehrig.

LONDOS WINS BEFORE 5,000 MAT FANS

McMillan Victim of 7th Airplane Spin; Dusek Beaten.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

RESISTING six of Jim Londos' airplane spins, while a mob of 5,000 cheered him on, Jim McMillan, one of the few college football players ever to make good, fell a victim to the seventh ring-shattering plunge and was counted out last night at Griffith Stadium after 58 minutes of a match Promoter Joe Turner was pleased to call "for the world's championship."

It was the best Londos match ever seen here, which takes in plenty of matches. There were times when it actually seemed that McMillan had forgotten himself and was about to lay the thickest Greek, and there were other times when Londos looked so good that he all but convinced the bitterest cynics in the house that his 2½-year winning streak was as honest as St. John the Baptist.

McMillan's flying tackle jammed last night. The ones he aimed at Londos, had they been produced for the edification of Bob Zupke back in 1923, would have caused the Illinois coach to kick McMillan off the team which he eventually captained.

Londos Tries to Tackle.

Londos, who knows about as much about football as Mahatma Ghandi, produced the only real flying tackle of the night, hurling his 202 pounds at the tummy of McMillan in great style about the middle of the match.

Londos was roughed up in unprecedented fashion by McMillan during the evening. Once both principals went through the ropes and began a little impromptu face slapping out on the infield. Another time Londos was impaled in the ropes, while McMillan sent his hard head into the royal stomach time after time.

The fans started to leave when Londos got his first airplane spin. But McMillan wiggled out from under, and they sat down again. Once more the mob stood up, ready to leave, when Londos gained his second airplane spin, but sat down again when Mac squirmed to the ropes. This happened seven times, which gave Landos another victory. McMillan a backache and the fans much healthful exercise.

George Vassell, a newcomer here, sprang an astounding upset in the semifinal round when he konked Rudy Dusek flush on the jaw and sent the tough one careening out into the infield. The bust on Dusek's filet mignon grinder came after 45 minutes of rough and ready tumbling. Although the whistle that stopped the match sounded just as Dusek hit the ground outside the ring, Vassell was given the decision.

Renato Gardini, the espostulating Eyetalian, dumped Berto Assiratti in 6 minutes with body slams; Dick Stahl outroughed Jack Russell in 13 minutes and Abe Coleman tossed Nino Darnaldi off in 9 minutes, all of them using body slams.

ROSENBLOOM WINS.

Montreal, Quebec, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Maxie Rosenbloom, generally recognized light-heavyweight champion, slapped out a decision over Lou Scozza, of Buffalo, in a ten-round overweight bout at the stadium tonight.

Jack Dempsey, who served as referee, also became the principal point of interest for 15,000 fans who braved near-freezing weather to contribute to the aid of the unemployed.

1932 Baseball Top-Heavy With Honesty, Says Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Honesty has become such an expensive luxury in the baseball business that it may be found advisable hereafter for the magnates to dispense with some of the more elaborate fixings by which the sincerity of the world series is guaranteed to the customers, and muddle along with a commoner and less expensive brand of honesty.

The world series receipts under the present arrangement do not leave the proprietors of the contending clubs much profit under the best of circumstances, and in some cases permit them nothing better than an even break, if that. In fact, there are some firms operating clubs in the two leagues at this time which might regard a world series as a misfortune rather than a boom and, if they had had the bad luck to win pennants this year, might have had to borrow money with which to give the party.

Under the present system of distribution of the world series receipts, Judge K. M. Landis receives 15 per cent of the total with which to pay his own salary of $65,000 a year and the operating expenses of his office. The players' share is 65 per cent of the remainder, and the two leagues receive portions of the money that is left before the owners of the contending clubs begin to participate in the revenues from their own production.

The players' participation ends with the receipts of the fourth world series game, but if the championship is decided in four games, as has happened twice in recent seasons and as may happen again this year, the share which the owners of the contending teams divide among themselves may not leave them any profit, or, at best, much less margin than the work and responsibility and the size of the turnover would justify.

There was a slight misunderstanding between the judge and some of the magnates a few years ago at the climax of which his honor was reported to have pulled out of his pocket a document that might have been his $65,000-a-year contract or warrant as czar of the baseball industry.

Landis Once Dared Magnates To Tear Up Contract.

Throwing the document, which, of course, might have been nothing more important than a jury summons or a chattel mortgage, on the table before the rebellious bullfrogs who had summoned a crane to be their king and had begun to tire of absolutism, the judge is alleged to have invited them to tear it up. The implication was that he was worth every dollar of his rather expensive cost as the personal guarantor of the integrity of the national game, which had acquired a somewhat shady reputation a few years before. If they should accept his invitation to cancel his contract, that would signify to the customers that they were tired of

It Was Something He Ate, Is Explanation of Ruth

By H. I. PHILLIPS.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Ruppert Zouaves can do it without Babe Ruth, if they have to, and today they had to.

The Babe was present but not voting. His million-dollar and internationally discussed stomach was in the game, but his heart was not.

The second chukker in the world series was a demonstration of how terrible the Colossus of Clout can be when he makes it a fixed purpose in life, and how good the Yanks can be with or without him.

The Bambino put an act composing the best features of Bert Lahr, the Four Marx Brothers and Ben Turpin. He behaved in the field like an elderly member of the Supreme Court in the Married Men's Sack Race.

And at bat he did the seemingly impossible trick of hitting a ball with two on and one out, and retiring the side. Babe did it in a manner never before accomplished outside of the annual baseball battle between the board of aldermen and the Brewery Workers' Nine at the Gowanus Rotarian picnic of 1907.

It happened in the fifth inning which, thanks to the Babe, had all the features of a traffic jam, the night before Christmas shopping rush, and the last Democratic convention.

Combs and Sewell were on bases with one out when Ruth came to bat, took a terrific swig and dribbled a ladies' and misses' nibilick shot half way to the pitcher's box. Combs and Sewell started with the crack of the bat in the general direction of home, and for the next few seconds the scene resembled a panic in a movie house fire.

The pitcher threw to the catcher who chased Combs between home and third and then took up the business of chasing Sewell rapidly in all directions. When order was restored and the traffic lights were repaired,

WOMEN GOLF STARS BOW IN UPSETS

Charlotte Glutting, of N. J., Victor Over Enid Wilson.

By BILL KING.

PEABODY, Mass., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A golfing tornado struck the women's national championship with terrific force today, sweeping away Enid Wilson, the British champion; Maureen Orcutt, one of the best of the Americans, and just missing the great Glenna Collett Vare, who has won five of the last ten titles.

The upheaval that ruined Miss Wilson's logical hopes of taking away the last of America's amateur crowns, was supplied by 22-year-old Charlotte Glutting, who has been playing the game only three years. This long-hitter from Short Hills, N. J., is having her first try at national play.

She matched the Briton's famous long drives, putted as well as she did and on the inward nine, chipped away Enid's ambitious plans to duplicate the grand slam made by Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd back in 1909, before that former champion left England for Philadelphia.

Miss Wilson Misses Approaches.

Miss Wilson was beaten by 1 up, a poor approach shot robbing her of a par 4 on the home hole that would have squared the match. Miss Glutting was 12 down at the turn, going out in 44 against Miss Wilson's 41, but she came back in 39, matching par for the most difficult half of the Salem Country Club's 6,301-yard course.

Maureen Orcutt, comedalist in the qualifying play, was beaten 2 and 1 by Ada Mackenzie, of Toronto, after holding the former Canadian champion even for 13 holes.

Mrs. Vare found herself three down to Peggy Wattles when that Buffalo girl matched the 38 par out, but Glenna overcame it by winning six of the next eight holes for a 2 and 1 victory, which put her in the semifinals against the Canadian veteran.

Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, was the only one of the four favorites to get an easy passage through the quarter finals. She stroked into a 3 and 2 decision over Rosalie Knapp, of Glen Head, N. Y., two down at the turn.

The semifinals matches set for tomorrow at 10 a. m. (Eastern standard time) pit Mrs. Vare against Miss Mackenzie and Miss Van Wie against Miss Glutting.

Playground Jr. Net Win to Georgetown

Raymond Team, Choice, Nosed Out at Finish to Bow, 3 to 2.

Georgetown Playgrounds tennis team won the junior team championship of the city yesterday at Chevy Chase Playgrounds, nosing out Raymond, the favorite, 3 to 2, in matches in a garrison finish.

The deciding match of the day was the stirring bout in which Hop Lomax and John O'Connor nosed out Maurice Rosenberg and Joe Herrad, 6—8, 6—4, 6—4, after being within a point of trailing, 2—4, in the third set.

Tom Saylor and George Lochte started Georgetown along its winning path when they defeated Sid Poretsky and Willy Wilson, 6—3, 6—2, in a doubles victory that evened up the count in matches 2-all.

Raymond held a 2-1 lead in matches Wednesday when darkness stopped the teams. This was a result of Poretsky's 6—0, 6—0 victory over Lochte in singles and Harrad's 4—6, 6—1, 7—5 win over Saylor. Lomax defeated Rosenberg, 6—0, 4—6, 6—4, in the other singles match Wednesday.

Woodmont Crown To Mrs. Goldsmith

Mrs. Jack Shulman was dethroned as women's golf champion at Woodmont Country Club yesterday, turning over her title to Mrs. Ralph Goldsmith by losing in the finals, 4 and 3. Mrs. Goldsmith flashed into winning stride from the outset and was ahead at the tenth hole, 4 up.

Mrs. S. W. Straus won second flight honors by defeating Mrs. Gilbert Hahn, 3 and 2.

FIRST INNING.

CUBS—Herman doubled down third-base line and held second as English hoisted to Combs. Cuyler was safe on Crosetti's fumble of his grounder, Herman taking third. Stephenson popped to Combs and Herman scored after the catch, Cuyler remaining on first. Demaree flied to Ruth. One run, one hit, one error, one left.

YANKEES—Combs and Sewell walked in rapid order. Ruth missed a slow curve for a third strike. Gehrig singled to right, scoring Combs and sending Sewell to second. Lazzeri fouled to Hartnett. Dickey singled off Grimm's glove, scoring Sewell. Chapman watched a third strike whizz by. Two runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

SECOND INNING.

CUBS—Grimm singled to center. Hartnett walked. Jurges advanced both runners on a sacrifice, Gomez to Gehrig. Warneke fanned. Herman took a third strike. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

YANKEES—Crosetti popped to Jurges. Gomez fanned. Combs flied to Cuyler. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING.

CUBS—English flied to Ruth. Cuyler grounded to Lazzeri. Stephenson doubled to right. Demaree singled to right and Stephenson brought home the tying run standing up when Ruth juggled the ball and then pegged poorly to the plate. No error was charged Ruth. Demaree was trapped off first while Grimm was at bat and was nipped, Gomez to Gehrig. One run, two hits, no errors, none left.

YANKEES—Sewell rolled to Herman. Ruth walked. Gehrig singled past Herman, who knocked down the ball and held Ruth at second. Both advanced on Lazzeri's roller to Jurges. Dickey was purposely passed, filling the bases. Chapman singled to right, scoring Ruth and Gehrig. Dickey stopped at second. Crosetti took a third strike. Two runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

FOURTH INNING.

CUBS—Grimm singled off Sewell's glove. Hartnett watched a third strike pass him. Jurges forced Grimm, Crosetti to Lazzeri. Warneke fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

YANKEES—Gomez grounded to Warneke. Combs singled through short. On the hit-and-run, Sewell singled to left, Combs stopping at third. Ruth bounded to Warneke and Combs was trapped between third and home. He was tagged out and then an unusual double play was completed when Hartnett and Jurges trapped Sewell between sec-

Dickey and Chapman Produce Important New York Hits.

Gehrig Leads Attack With Three Singles; 50,000 Crowd.

By ALAN GOULD.
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Successfully pursuing their policy of base hit economy and making the most of opportunities, the New York Yankees captured their second straight game from the Chicago Cubs today, 5 to 2, and moved rapidly toward their goal of a fourth world baseball championship.

In a rapid-fire game that was as swift and sparkling by comparison with the drab opener as the weather was brighter and snappier, Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, slim Spanish southpaw, subdued the National League champions while his youthful right-hand rival, Lonnie Warneke, failed in a gallant attempt to check the rush of the Yankees.

The Yankees collected nothing but singles today. The nearest they came to finding the outer ramparts was when Babe Ruth pumped a one-base blow off the right field bleachers. But they made their ten blows count, while also taking advantage of Warneke's early wildness.

Gehrig Again Leads Yanks At Bat.

Larruping Lou Gehrig, whose home run started the American League champions toward their opening victory, led this economical Yankee attack with three solid singles that made life hazardous for the Cubs' star second sacker, Billy Herman.

These blows figured in each of the three Yankee scoring drives, in the first, third and fifth innings, but the blow that proved the big heart-breaker for Warneke was a booming single to right field by Ben Chapman, with the bases full, in the third frame.

With two out in the third, Bill Dickey, slugging Yankee backstop, was purposely passed to fill the bases, on the theory that the fleet Chapman would be a less difficult individual to handle. Ben responded by smacking the first pitched ball over Herman's head, scoring Ruth and Gehrig with what proved to be the deciding runs.

The second successive victory for the Yankees, their tenth in a row over a stretch of three world championship battles, sent them on to Chicago tonight with an advantage that looked as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar. The American League champions left for the West, where the series will be resumed with the third game Saturday, confident they will add to baseball history with another clean sweep over National League rivals.

Yanks Hope to Cop Title in Chicago.

Two more victories will clinch the title and the big end of the money.

The Cubs, their two best pitching bets, Guy Bush and Warneke, beaten and their defense somewhat riddled, must make a great stand at home if they are to prolong the series beyond the fifth game. Three games are scheduled in Chicago. The way the Yankees looked today there will be no more occasion for baseball on their home grounds this year.

Gomez, fast and resourceful, was hit a bit briskly, but proved just as baffling as Red Ruffing when it came to checking the most threatening Cub gestures. The slim southpaw was touched for nine safe blows, including two doubles, and a triple by Kiki Cuyler, but he collected eight strike-

MAD PURSUIT CAPTURES FEATURE AT HAVRE DE GRACE

Choice Lasts To Score By Neck

Sweeping Light's Belated Challenge Barely Fails.

Winner Handicapped by Interference Early in Race.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 29.—Mad Pursuit, racing in the interests of Adolphe Pons, made it two victories for the meeting by defeating the field in the Trophy Purse, the outstanding race on the Harford Association's program here today.

It was no easy victory for the colt but came in the stretch while Johnny Gilbert was applying the whip vigorously to stall off a drive of Sweeping Light, from the Herbert Pulitzer barn. Third money went to the well-beaten Pencader.

The crowd of 1,000 made Mad Pursuit a luke warm favorite and he rewarded his backers with a $6 mutuel.

Interference Marks Race.

There was much early interference in the race with Mad Pursuit and Pencader suffering most. The former appeared to be much the best of the group as the race was run, but Sweeping Light would have won in a few more strides. This fellow was slow to find his speed today, but when straightened out in the stretch closed fast under the urging of Callahan.

Babee brought the day's longest price in the opening race for 2-year-olds. The mutuel was $41.70. Gala Time closed with a rush to take the place from Star Fairy.

Camp Boss scored his second victory of the meeting in the second race—a 6-furlong sprint. Bright Bird, a long shot, placed. Quickly, St. Nick and Keggy filled the money places in the third as the favorite players were given a shutout.

Black Patricia attempted to make it three victories in as many days, but Colossal carried off the purse. Black Patricia missed the muddy going and was second. Homework took the sixth and William T. repeated in the seventh.

EXCITEMENT AT FAIR.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BABEE, $41.70, $15.40, $8.30; GALA TIME, $5.10, $3.40; STAR FAIRY (entry), $4.20.

BABEE, displaying good speed, moved clear when leaving the back stretch, disposed of CORRYMEELA and held GALA TIME safe under mild urging. Latter, sluggish in the first half mile, swung to the outside and closed with a rush. STAR FAIRY, forced to race in pursuit of the leaders while on the outside, made a strong effort at the final furlong pole and held on well. WELL BUILT, outrun early, lost considerable ground when entering the home stretch, but closed fastest of all. FLUFFY LEE went forwardly and evenly throughout. CORRYMEELA weakened when entering the home stretch. ETERNAL MAID had no excuses. HIGH MIST stopped badly.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:50. Winner, F. Marachi's h. (5), by Campfire—Merry Princess. Trained by P. Reuter. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 1-5, 1:13 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAMP BOSS, $4.80, $3.50, $2.60; BRIGHT BIRD, $24.50, $9.90; LA SALLE, $3.20.

CAMP BOSS, taken under mild restraint when unable to take command, followed in near attendance of KNIGHT'S CAP and, moving into the lead when straightened into the home stretch, had enough left to stall off BRIGHT BIRD. Latter, a strong factor throughout, came willingly under punishment. LA SALLE, saving ground while kept under urging, finished stoutly on the outside during the stretch run. GAY PARTY finished with a tremendous rush when securing racing room between the leaders approaching the finish. PROMETHEUS was making up ground steadily in the final test. KNIGHT'S CAP had speed for five furlongs. JUDGE PRIMROSE tired.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Prospect. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:28. Winner, J. E. Widener's blk. f. (2), by Haste—Stephanie. Trained by H. McDaniel. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:46 3-5, 1:06 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HOMEWORK, $5.10, $3.10, $2.90; DRASTIC DELIGHT, $5.90, $4.70; VIMONT, $9.70.

HOMEWORK, sent into the thick of contention and racing on the inside of MUD, wore the latter down when entering the home stretch and came away steadily when straightened into the main stretch. DRASTIC DELIGHT, kept in the first flight, circled his field in the final half mile and was going gamely at the end. VIMONT, closer up than usual, weakened after a strong bid when midway of the final turn. MUD, sent into a brief lead, weakened when put to a drive.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:39½. Off at 5:40. Winner, W. R. Caskey, jr.'s br. g. (8), by Lucky Hour—Grace Cole. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:49, 1:14 3-5, 1:41 2-5, 1:33 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WILLIAM T., $3.70, $2.80, $2.40; MING SUN, $3.70, $2.70; TARNISH, $3.90.

WILLIAM T., in tight quarters while holding a forward position on the inside, was placed to punishment entering the home stretch and, securing clear passage, was up in the final fifty yards. MING SUN, rushed to the front when midway of the back stretch, stalled off keen contention from TARNISH, but could not withstand the winner. TARNISH, following close to pace, fought it out stoutly.

GAME UNDER ARCS TONIGHT

Westminster Team Guest Of G. W.

Visitors to Outweigh Colonials by Big Margin.

G. W. Plans Aerial Attack in Game at Stadium.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE star-spangled George Washington University Football Team, garbed as they are in their red, white and blue uniforms, make their bow to local football fans tonight at Griffith Stadium at 8 o'clock, when they meet Westminster College, of New Wilmington, Pa., in a game that will pry the lid off local college football.

Westminster brings to Washington tonight a team that has more suet than science. The visitors' line actually averages 190 pounds and includes one 230-pound tackle, "Babe" Dishong. This is nearly 11 pounds more per man than the Colonial front wall, but the Pennsylvanians are reputed to lack the skill and craftiness of those G. W. Trojans who labor up front while the ball-carriers step into the headlines.

Westminster Has Heavier Back Field.

Back Field Westminster also is heavier. Their average back-field weight is 176 to G. W.'s 169, but these meandering mathematics will do nothing to stop G. W. from winning by at least three touchdowns.

Rather than risk killing off his backs by sending them into the bone and gristle of the sturdy Westminster line, Coach Jimmy Pixlee promises another aerial attack tonight, if yesterday's extensive drill means anything. The same forward-passing combination which sunk Washington and Lee last week, Johnnie Fenlon, Finis Parrish, Capt. Wayne Chambers and Fred Mulvey, functioned more smoothly than ever yesterday as they went through their routine. Several new aerial plays were added to their kits yesterday, and may be unleashed tonight.

Bulwarks of the Westminster lineup are Scarbrough, hefty full back, who kicks, passes and carries the brunt of the ball carrying. Siljander, right end, is a 6-foot-3 youth who plays safety man on defense, and probably will have plenty of deep punts to run back tonight, with Otts Kriemelmeyer, G. W.'s Flying Dutchman, laying his suitcases against the ball.

The blue-coated G. W. band will lend a brassy presence to tonight's grid goings on. Seats range from 25 cents (in the bleachers) to $1, in the grand stand near the 50-yard line. There are many 50 cent seats in the grand stands near the end of the playing field. Electricians completed installing the lights late yesterday. Probably a white football will be used.

RESERVES.

Westminster—Turner (1), Andrews (2), Lausberg (3), Wilhelm (4), Bloker (8), Arrowsmith (9), LuBuono (10), Burry (11), Pratt (12), Brown (15), Young (20), Harper (21), Straw (22), Ketterer (25).

Westminster White Jerseys—Ketterer (25), Wilhelm (26), Hollander (27), Scarbrough (28), Hunneke (29), Rose (30), Turner (31), Staples (32), Sweeney (38), Brown (39), Siliander (40), Franklin (41), Burry (42), Dishong (43), Andrews (44), LuBuono (45), Arrowsmith (46), Bloker (47), Patt (48), Lausberg (no number).

George Washington—Pearce (16), McKinnis (40), Lass (26), Jones (27), Conn (28), Bovee (29), Steele (30), Geringer (31), Wray (32), Norton (33), Ricketts (34), Wilson (36), Tomaltis (37), Blanchship (39), Carter (42), Galloway (43), Eidt (52), Albert (53), Edwards (54), Trilling (55), Matia (56).

Referee—Bryan Morse (Clarkson). Umpire—Brooke Brewer (Maryland). Head linesman—Harry O'Meara (Gonzaga). Field judge—Orrell Mitchell (Loyola). Time of quarters—15 minutes.

A squad of 35 Catholic University gridmen will leave this afternoon for New York, where City College will be met tomorrow at Lewisohn Stadium.

The Metropolitan eleven is expected to outweigh C. U., but scouts who have watched the New Yorkers in action report them a slow team and a perfect foil for C. U.'s lightning-like attack. C. C. N. Y. boasts a squad of 90 and will not lack reserves.

Catholic U. will practice tomorrow at the scene of battle.

Maryland's eleven will outweigh an opponent for the first and only time this year at Charlottesville when Virginia is encountered. Vaul Rouzer, 216-pound tackle, and Al Farrell, 205-pound guard, are the lads who boost Terrapin weight figures.

Virginia coaches are undecided about their starting line-up. Ward Brewer, Ben Pinder, Tom Johnson, Bill Edgar, Gene Stevens and Milton Abramson are available for back field duty, although several are suffering from minor injuries. Head Coach Dawson may not choose his starting team until just before game time.

Opposes G. W.

ROBERT SCARBOUGH, star full back of the Westminster Team which meets George Washington at Griffith Stadium tonight.

Marshall to Sponsor Football Team Here

George Marshall, the laundryman-sportsman, has become associated with another local sporting venture several years after he relinquished his basket ball holdings.

Marshall will manage a professional football team this season, to be known as the Washington Senators. Among the players signed up to date are Snitz Snyder, former Maryland back; Vince Flaherty, former Marquette player; Paddy Byrne, former Gonzaga husky, and two former Mount St. Mary's players, Tom Brew and Frank Holland.

Few home games will be played.

out victims with a bewildering assortment of stuff.

This made a total of eighteen Cub strikeouts in two games. The Cubs of 1929 set the record for whiffing, with 50 victims in five games, so that the current Bruins are setting almost as dubious a pace at the plate.

Warneke went the route, getting better as the game sped along, but his early nervousness and over-anxiety in pitching to the big guns of the Yankee artillery proved his undoing, just as it had for Bush the day before.

Hitting the Headpin

CHARLEY PHILLIPS' pinspilling featured King's Palace victory over Lucky Strike in the National Capital League last night. Charley belted the bottles for a 134 game and 379 total. Paul Brill, with a 129 game and 357 set topped the losers in scoring.

Ey, with a 143 game, and 370 set, garnered the individual honors in the War Department loop at Arcadia. Adjutants' 565 game, and Frankies' 1,611 set were the best team scores turned in.

Helen Doyle's 109 game and Evelyn Riley's 303 three-game total bagged the laurels in the Inter-Sorority League at Columbia. Chi Sigma rolled a 491 game and 1,385 set to lead the field.

GOMEZ STAR AS YANKS WIN, 5-2

Cubs Held in Check by Young Hurler in Second Game.

able tonight as the series scene shifted to Chicago.

Again today, it was the Cubs who struck the first blow, with a run scored in the opening inning, but the lead lasted no longer than the Yankees turn at bat when two runs rattled off the New York bludgeons in the start of an attack that was to accumulate ten base hits off Warneke, who was suffered to go the route by Manager Grimm.

No Extra-Base Hits for Yankees.

The Yankees did not say it with home runs today. Each one of their hits was of no greater proportions than a single, but they were able to solve the Cubs' rookie in the clinches, with Gehrig's three timely wallops paving the road.

Today again, bases on balls took a dreadful toll from Cub pitching with the first three walks issued by Warneke being converted into the first three Yankee runs, a margin which would have sufficed in the light of the effective twirling that Lefty Gomez was to render. Three double plays by a fast working Chicago infield rescued Warneke from more serious difficulties, while Gomez was the beneficiary of none of these relieving twin killings.

Only Old Hoss Stephenson and Manager Grimm himself among the Cubs were able to solve the slants of Gomez for more than a single hit, each accounting for one of the two Cubs' runs, while every member of the Yankee cast, with the exception of Crosetti and Gomez at the extreme, nether end of the batting order, Combed Warneke for at least one safe blow.

Little Billy Herman, the hero of the Cubs' offensive yesterday, opened his second consecutive game with a safe hit by ramming a double down the third base line. He later scored an unearned run when Frank Crosetti, another world series novitiate, made a grammar school muff of Cuyler's easy hopper to permit Herman to go to third.

Speed proved the ultimate keynote to the Cubs' first run, however, for Stephenson lifted a short fly to Combs, a few paces back of second base, and Coach Charley O'Leary sent Herman flying home from third. He slid under Dickey to score ahead of Combs' throw.

Warneke suffered a serious lapse of control at the start of the battle to make an inauspicious world series debut by walking Combs' and then Sewell, his first Yankee foeman, to put New York in an attacking position at the very outset. Then in a flash of his National League form, be fed Babe Ruth a low inside pitch that the Babe struck at viciously for the third strike and the Chicago tension was relieved.

But there was Gehrig to reckon with. Pitcher and batter worked the count to three and two, the same situation that preceded Gehrig's game-breaking homer of yesterday and the fans waited with bated breath. The next pitch appealed to Gehrig and he rifled it on a line past Grimm for a single that scored Combs and Sewell for the runs that wiped out the Cubs' 1-0 lead.

The Cubs came back to threaten Gomez again in the second as Grimm led off with a single to center and Hartnett drew a walk. Grimm commanded Jurges to sacrifice, doubtful strategy, with the tying run already on second and the pitcher next at bat, but sacrifice he did and both runners advanced. Here Gomez took charge of the proceedings with a flourish, striking out the weak-hitting Warneke and slipping a third strike past Herman.

Cubs Knot Count at 2 All In Third.

The lower half of the Yankee batting order caused Warneke no pains in the second and the Cubs pushed over a run in the third to tie the score after two were out. Stephenson slammed a double past the lumbering Ruth in right and when Demaree dropped a single into right, Stevie romped home to deadlock the score at 2-2.

This Chicago rally expired when Demaree started to steal second before Gomez mounted the hill and he was an easy out on the pitcher's toss to Gehrig.

The prompt reply of the Yankees to the Cubs' opening offensive for the second time during this brief series seemed to take its toll after the third inning. The Cubs appeared to be a beaten if not a dispirited team. Gomez began to assert his mastery by striking out two in the fourth and one in the fifth and a wierd double play was all that prevented the Yankees from adding to their total in the fourth.

With two on base and one out, the Yankees gave an exhibition of base running that belonged across the river in the Brooklyn Club's goofiest days. Combs was on third and Sewell on first as a result of singles with one out when Ruth bounced a ball at Warneke. Combs started home for no reason, was chased back to the bag by Hartnett and tagged out, while Sewell who had also reached third in the congestion was an easy victim on a short throw to Jurges to complete the double play.

The Cubs threatened mildly in the fifth when Cuyler tripled to the right field corner with two out only to perish on base as Sewell made a scintillating stop and throw on Stephenson's grounder and the Yankees came back to bat to show the Cubs how the run scoring was done. Gehrig's third single into right, Lazzeri's infield out and Dickey's single into left accounted for the fifth and last Yankee run.

Gomez was in stride thereafter and though the Cubs put together singles by English and Cuyler with one out in the eighth, they could not score.

TROPHY TO EAKIN.

L. R. Eakin yesterday defeated Gen. H. P. McCain, 4 and 2, to win the Sheridan Trophy at Chevy Chase. First round matches in the match play handicap tournament for the President's Trophy were completed at Chevy Chase, and second round matches will be finished by Saturday.

Results:

R. P. Whitley defeated John W. Childress, 1 up; D. D. Thompson defeated P. P. Powell, 2 up; George Elliott defeated W. G. Brantley, jr., 3 and 3; Louis Mackall, jr., defeated Admiral C. B. McVay, 3 and 2; George Richards, jr., defeated F. W. Coleman, 3 and 2 on thirty-sixth hole; J. P. Lannan defeated D. D. McGrew, 1 up, nineteenth; F. P. Reeside, jr., defeated R. R. Emmet, 5 and 3; Henry Ravenel defeated Gen. C. B. Drake, 2 and 1.

SCHOOL GRID TEAMS IN 5 GAMES

Tech Lists Two Tilts; Central Is Host to Baltimoreans.

FIVE games, all of them bearing the earmarks of real struggles, are on today's scholastic football program. Western dedicates its new stadium just before the whistle sends it into action against St. Alban's at 3:30 o'clock in the feature contest.

Tech, with a pair of tough games on its hands, is anticipating victory in each. One team will stack up against National Training School's powerful and undefeated eleven on the latter's field, starting at 3:30 o'clock, and another will invade Alexandria for a tussle with Episcopal at the same hour.

Bert Coggins' big Central team plays host to Baltimore Poly in Wilson Stadium. Poly was flattened by Tech at Baltimore last week and local fans are eager to see how the Mount Pleasanters will fare against the Monumental City aggregation.

Eastern's team, which gave evidence of developing into a top-notcher in its game with Episcopal last week, plays its first game in its own backyard, meeting Alexandria High School. Coach Charles Guyon plans to use his second and third teams as much as possible in the game.

Emerson and Landon also will come to grips on the Mounment grounds this afternoon, although it will be only a practice scrimmage.

New Roosevelt High Out of Grid Series

Roosevelt was definitely declared out of the interhigh school football championship series yesterday at a meeting of the board of faculty advisers. The board recommended that Roosevelt's resignation from the series be accepted. The board of principals must now pass on the matter, but this is a mere formality.

The school loses financially by not playing in the series, as gate receipts for the year are pooled and divided among the five schools.

The faculty advisors also selected Ed Towers (Columbia), Paul Magoffin (Michigan), Untz Brewer (Maryland) and Harry O'Meara (Gonzaga) to officiate at all games this season.

GEORGETOWN A. C. PLAYS.

Georgetown A. C., junior champion of the Capital City League, will clash with the Barclay nine, of Baltimore, in the second game of their series for the South Atlantic championship. The game probably will be played on the Ellipse at 2 o'clock.

ond and third. No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

FIFTH INNING.

CUBS—Herman fanned. English was called out on strikes. Cuyler tripled to deep left. Stephenson grounded to Sewell. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

YANKEES—Gehrig opened with his third successive single, a drive past Herman. Lazzeri grounded to Herman, who fumbled but recovered in time to nip the runner at first. Gehrig reached second. Dickey singled to right, scoring Gehrig. Chapman fanned and Dickey was caught trying to steal on the third strike. One run, two hits, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING.

CUBS—Demaree filed to Chapman. Grimm rolled to Gehrig. Hartnett grounded to Crosetti. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

YANKEES—Demaree made a sensational running catch of Crosetti's drive to left center. Gomez fanned. Combs grounded to Herman. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SEVENTH INNING.

CUBS—Jurges hoisted to Ruth. Warneke took a third strike. Herman lifted a short fly to Combs. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

YANKEES—Sewell grounded to Herman. Ruth singled off the right-field wall. Gehrig's grounder was turned into a double play, Herman to Jurges to Grimm. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING.

CUBS—English singled to right. Cuyler flied to Combs. Stephenson bounced a single over Sewell's head. English stopping at second. On Demaree's roller, Stephenson was forced at second, Gomez to Crosetti, English taking third on the play. Grimm forced Demaree at second, Crosetti to Lazzeri. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

YANKEES—Lazzeri scratched a single past English, the ball taking a bad bounce. Dickey hit into another double play, Herman to Jurges to Grimm. Chapman fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

NINTH INNING.

CUBS—Hartnett lashed a long drive to left, but was out trying to stretch the blow into a double. Jurges popped to Crosetti, who made a nice catch in short left. Hemsley batted for Warneke and struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

1932 WORLD SERIES TOO HONEST—PEGLER

However, the baseball business has now acquired a habit of honesty, with reservations, of course, and by this time there doubtless are some magnates who regret that they did not seize the opportunity to tear up the contract—which might have been a chattel mortgage—and reduce the overhead cost of baseball's good name. It would have been a means of saving much money and these are times when it is possible to hire a reasonably honest man for the job of czar for $50 a week. In fact, I believe old Mr. George Getz, the Chicago amateur baboon fancier, would be glad to accept the job for nothing more than an engraved gold perpetual pass to all the ball yards.

The Arlington County Young Democratic Club perfected its organization at a meeting last night in Democratic headquarters with the election of Lyman M. Kelley as president. Other officers are Josephine Sterling, vice president; Janice Rice, secretary-treasurer, and Harold Dinges, chairman of the publicity committee.

President Kelley announced the appointment of the following committee chairmen: Jack E. Nevin, jr., constitution and by-laws; Mrs. H. Bruce Green, entertainment, and Lawrence Manning, membership.

Victim of Gun Accident Is Dead in Alexandria

Thomas W. Helms, jr., who was accidentally shot in the abdomen Sunday morning while cleaning a pistol, died yesterday in the Alexandria Hospital. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Helems, of 600 South Pitt street, Alexandria. An investigation of the case, made by Acting Coroner Dr. C. A. Amos yesterday, resulted in a verdict of accidental death.

MRS. C. W. HANGER RITES.

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles W. Hanger, 38, who died at her home, 249 Washington avenue, Lyon Park, Wednesday night, will be conducted from the home tonight at 7:30 o'clock by the Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church. Burial will be at Roanoke, Va., Sunday.

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary to Arlington Post, No. 139, of which Mrs. Hanger was a member and officer, will attend the services. Besides her husband she is survived by a son, Thomas Hanger.

Lee Boulevard Extension Work Is Refused by State

The Virginia State highway department refuses to extend the Lee boulevard from its present terminus in Lyon Park to Fort Myer, it was announced last night by members of the delegation of property owners who conferred with State Highway Commissioner H. G. Shirley on Wednesday.

A letter from Mr. Shirley to County Manager Roy S. Braden follows:

"Continuing our discussion of a temporary connection for the Lee boulevard, Route 711, from Station 107 northeast, wish to advise that the State highway department will agree to put down a temporary road for a distance equal to the distance from Station 107 to Washington avenue, with the understanding that the county will maintain and keep up this stretch of road after it is put in condition for traffic. That it in no way binds the State as an acceptance of the location, and that deeds for the same be given to the Government or the county if final location is determined.

"We must have an agreement, that the road can be used for a temporary connection until a permanent location is decided on, from the property holders, or if you can not get a deed for the property and will get an agreement from them giving the State a right to construct this temporary road as far through as Washington avenue and the county will agree to maintain it until the permanent location is settled, we are willing to proceed with the temporary construction from 107 to that point immediately."

Littlepage to Lead Republican Rally

Attorney Speaks Tonight at Arlington Meeting; E. C. Snyder on Program.

Thomas P. Littlepage, Washington attorney, will speak at a Republican rally at 8 o'clock tonight in the auditorium of the Patrick Henry Schoolhouse, Bingham road near Columbia pike.

Mr. Littlepage will analyze and reply to the speeches made by Gov. Roosevelt on his Western tour. He also will compare the Democratic and Republican platforms on the vital issues.

Other speakers will be Edgar C. Snyder, United States Marshal, and several Arlington County Republican leaders.

Music will be furnished by the Old Dominion Band. Choral singing will be lead by H. S. Omohundro.

Women and 2 Men Held In Passing Bogus Bills

Miss Evelyn Davis, arrested Sunday at Fredericksburg, Va., with Varilios Lillis, alias Bill Hillas, and Tom Mekalis, on a charge of passing counterfeit $10 bills at Accotink, Va., was held as a material witness in $1,000 bond, following a hearing yesterday before U. S. Commissioner John Barton Phillips in Alexandria.

The trio was given a preliminary hearing Monday, and the two men held for the Federal grand jury, while the case of Miss Davis was continued. It is understood that, in default of bond, all three will be held in the Alexandria Jail until the December term of the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia. The bond for the two men has been fixed at $10,000 each.

Alexandria Planning Group Is Reorganized

The Alexandria City Planning Commission has reorganized with the re-election of George E. Garrett as chairman and John U. Reardon as secretary, the other members being Nicholas J. Lawler, R. L. Kane and B. B. Ezrine, with Irving Root as engineer.

These members of the commission will serve until their successors are elected by the city council, although their terms expire October 1 by limitation. The city council at its last meeting adopted an ordinance to the effect that five members are to be elected by the council, instead of one by the council and four to be appointed by the mayor, as provided in the recently adopted planning ordinance.

Pringle Obsequies To Be Held Sunday

Body of Vice Admiral to Be Buried in Naval Cemetery at Annapolis.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 29.—The body of Vice Admiral Joel R. P. Pringle, of the Navy, en route to Annapolis from the West Coast, will be buried in the Naval Cemetery here Sunday afternoon. Admiral Pringle, who was taken ill aboard his flagship West Virginia while at sea, died Sunday soon after reaching San Diego.

Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the Naval Academy, today issued an order setting forth arrangements for the obsequies. Services will be held in the Academy Chapel at 2:30 o'clock. The regiment of midshipmen volunteered their services as escort, and three battalions have been detailed for that duty. The midshipmen choir also will sing at the chapel services. The escort will be under the command of Rear Admiral E. B. Larimer, and the Academy Band will head the cortege. At the cemetery a firing squad of midshipmen will fire volleys over the grave. Owing to Navy regulations regarding gun salutes on Sunday, customary minute guns will not be fired.

Admiral Pringle had a large number of friends in Annapolis. He served several tours of duty at the academy and his family lived here a number of years.

Farm Worker Is Freed In Shooting of Woman

Satisfied with the tale of having believed he was firing at a chicken thief, Montgomery County police yesterday released Curby Brent, colored, from custody. He was arrested after he had fired a shotgun at Bertha County, 29, an employe of the L. R. Sabine farm, where Brent also is employed.

Mr. Sabine said yesterday that the man had asked him if any members of the family were out before firing at a figure which he dimly saw in back of the house. The woman is in a serious condition at the Montgomery County General Hospital.

Alexandria Plans Boy Patrol.

A representative of the American Automobile Association will confer today in Alexandria with Police Capt. John S. Arnold, R. C. Bowton, superintendent of schools, and Urban S. Lambert, chairman of the school board, on reorganizing the schoolboy patrol in the Alexandria public schools. Ten boys are chosen for each school, and caps, badges and other necessary equipment are furnished by the automobile association.

JUDGE SMITH RAPS REPUBLICAN PARTY

Says G. O. P. Failed to Find Governmental Dishonesty During War.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Addressing a meeting of the Young Democrats Club of Alexandria Wednesday night, Judge Howard W. Smith, candidate to succeed himself as representative in Congress from the Eighth Virginia District, attacked by comparison the record of the Republican party, in control of the National Government for the last twelve years.

Judge Smith asserted that upon the coming into power of the Republican party on March 4, 1921, and for several years thereafter, the Republican-controlled Government had at one time as many as 52 separate and distinct investigation agencies for the purpose of uncovering dishonesty in the Government on the part of the Democrats during the Wilson administration, and that if the billions of dollars appropriated and expended by that administration during the World War, these agencies failed to find a single dishonest official, or prove that a single dollar had been wrongfully spent. He also called attention to the national scandals among high Republican officials since the Republicans took office in 1921. He concluded by expressing the belief that honest government could best be had by the election of the Democratic national ticket, and predicted an overwhelming majority in the November election.

Others who addressed the meeting were Councilman H. C. Davison, C. S. Taylor Burke, Lindsey Carne, Roger Sullivan, Mrs. Margaret P. Bailey, Mrs. Virginia Schwab Maddox, Frank Monroe, Mrs. Mae C. Bowman and Miss Ora Smith.

It was decided to have the victory ball of the club on Friday, November 4. Announcement was made that 2,000 Roosevelt pins have been ordered and will be ready for distribution within a few days. James Reece Duncan presided.

Fire in Hyattsville Destroys 32 Autos

Machen's Garage Is Razed; Loss of $15,000 Is Reported.

Machen's garage in Hyattsville and 32 automobiles in it were destroyed by fire of unknown origin early yesterday, causing a loss of about $15,000. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Among the burned cars were the county police department's truck and others in the place for repairs. The garage was the property of Sergt. H. G. Machen, of the county police force. He was away from Hyattsville on police duty and did not return until the fire was over.

It was with difficulty that firemen from Hyattsville and nearby towns prevented the blaze from spreading. A failure in the telephone alarm system delayed sounding of the fire siren for several minutes, but firemen were notified by telephone when the siren remained silent.

Man Held on Check Charge.

Harry Dennis, 645 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md., was arrested yesterday by Town Policeman Earl Thomas of Takoma Park after three local merchants had sworn out warrants alleging that he had passed worthless checks on them. He was released on $500 bond for his appearance next Thursday at County Police Court in Rockville, Md.

Stocks Seek Lower Ground As Commodities Lose Battle

Average Decline on List Is 2.1 Points; Turnover 1,336,430 Shares.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Soggy commodity markets provided too soft a footing for stocks today and prices relapsed after a feeble advance in the first half hour.

With trading largely professional—some brokers estimated 75 per cent of the transactions represented operations of floor traders—the day's movement suggested that the bull faction had become discouraged over absence of a larger following on the strength of recent advances and had decided to step aside pending developments.

The early rally carried several leaders up a point, but it lacked enthusiasm. Railway equipment issues provided a small flurry, based on prospects of larger orders through reconditioning of locomotives and cars, with and without Reconstruction Finance Corporation aid.

Steel equities, however, did little, and sagged with the general letdown in values. U. S. Steel was off around 2 net. Notably Allied and Du Pont showed larger losses. American Telephone, given monetary aid by gossip that the company's loss of connections had shown a sharp but seasonal contraction, also yielded 2 points.

Farm implement issues lost courage at the sight of lower wheat prices; Case dipped more than 3. Rails were quiet. Union Pacific rallied 2 and then slumped 3 net. Coppers eased on news of a lower foreign price. Sales reached 1,336,430 shares.

News from the business world was rather meager. Heads of the two large telegraph companies noted a gain in traffic, while President Donnelly of Northern Pacific commented encouragingly on recent freight movements on that road.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Thur.	Wed.
Advances	114	288
Declines	352	130
Stocks unchanged	114	112
Total issues traded	580	530

Stocks.

Commodities' slump discouraged stocks and the list sank 2.1 points. Market dealings again were professional. Wall street charged bulls with losing heart. The turnover was 1,336,530 shares.

Bonds.

The average loss on the selected list of 60 loans was two-tenths. High-grade issues gained. Trading was quiet, with rails and utilities dropping. Sales totaled $9,803,000.

Curb.

Prices drifted lower in another quiet session. The trading volume increased slightly to 160,000 shares. Aluminum dropped 5 points. Oils were steadier.

Wheat.

A slump in Winnipeg wheat prices to new low levels for the year caused Chicago grains to tumble. Corn was the lowest in years. September wheat sold at 51⅜ to 51¾ cents.

Cotton.

Prices broke more than $2 per bale, on Southern selling and liquidation. General losses were 44 to 47 points. December sold for 6.85. Liverpool declined also, blaming hedging.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Gilt-edged securities and cable and wireless issues were firm on the stock exchange due to further investment buying. Other sections drooped, especially speculative shares. Transatlantic stocks were irregular, and the market closed quiet.

Paris—Following Wall street lead, prices on the bourse finally improved. Rentes were uncertain, but French bank stocks were firm. International issues were sustained. The closing was well disposed.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse sagged throughout the session and closed without recovering their losses.

BONDS SINK LOWER DESPITE SOME GAINS

High Grade Issues Advance; Market Quiet With $9,803,000 Sales.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—While further gains were recorded in high-grade bonds today, listed securities, as a whole, gave a decidedly ragged performance.

It was a moderately quiet session, sales totaling $9,803,000, par value. The average for 60 corporate loans lost two-tenths of a point.

At the same time some of the rail and industrial specialties were dropping from 1 to 3 points, American Telephone debenture 5s advanced fractionally to a new high for the year along with Santa Fe general 4s, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Union Pacific first 4s and a number of others.

Weakness of Nickel Plate 6s unsettled the lower-priced carriers and losses of a point or more were suffered by some liens of Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and Southern. The Nickel Plate notes, due Saturday, lost 2¼ points due to uncertainty regarding the road's refunding plan.

The industrials were erratic Shell Union Oil 5s dropped 4½ points and other petroleum issues eased.

The Australians again were the center of interest in the foreign section, advancing to new 1932 tops with gains of around 2 points.

Most of the United States Government bonds firmed moderately after showing easier tendencies in earlier transactions.

Exchange Members Barred From Own Specialty Pools

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange today placed a ban upon pool operations by its members in the stocks in which they serve as specialists.

The new order announced by the governing committee of the exchange, stated that "no member acting as a specialist and no partner of such a member and no firm in which such a member is a general or special partner shall directly or indirectly be interested in a pool dealing or trading in the stock in which such a member is a specialist."

Richard H. Whitney, president of the exchange, indicated that such action was contemplated in a recent speech at St. Louis.

A specialist handles the actual purchase and sale of stocks on the trading floor.

R. F. C. BANK LOANS DOWN 60 PER CENT

Instructions Are Awaited on Proposed Advances to China for Wheat.

(Associated Press.)

Bank loans asked of the Reconstruction Corporation dropped almost 60 per cent from July 30 to September 3.

The corporation disclosed yesterday that during the five weeks ended July 30, 1,521 applications, totaling $346,000,000, were received from banks and other finanical institutions. During the next five weeks 1,222 applications, totaling $148,000,000, were received.

The average bank loan was said to have gone to a bank in a town of 3,000 people.

The corporation is awaiting a legal opinion on the proposed loan to China, which that nation would use to purchase 15,000,000 bushels of American wheat. It was stated that the board, which conferred at the White House last Sunday on the subject, is disposed to make the loan if it is found to be legal. An early opinion from the attorney is expected.

It also was said that whether the sale would depress the world's market must be considered. The law under which the loan would be made, it was said, appears on the surface to be clear enough to permit such a loan, but nothing can be done until research discloses the complete legal phase of the situation.

Much of the wheat that would be sold is held privately. All of it, it is understood here, is Northwestern hard wheat.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for September 27 were $3,871,862.23; expenditures, $4,803,316.74; balance, $870,527,874.14. Customs duties for 27 days of September, $22,048,794.

RESERVE BANKS CUT CREDITS $18,000,000

Total Advances Outstanding Reach $2,251,000,000; Bills Decrease.

(Associated Press.)

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended September 28, as reported by the Federal Reserve banks, was $2,251,000,000, a decrease of $18,000,000, compared with the preceding week and an increase of $759,000,000, compared with the corresponding week in 1931.

On September 28, total reserve bank credit amounted to $2,241,000,000, a decrease of $18,000,000 for the week. This decrease corresponds with a decrease of $37,000,000 in money in circulation and increases of $20,000,000 in monetary gold stock and $22,000,000 in Treasury currency adjusted, offset in part by increases of $58,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and $2,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, nonmember deposits, &c.

Holdings of discounted bills decreased $6,000,000 each at the Federal Reserve Banks of New York and Atlanta, and $19,000,000 at all Federal Reserve Banks. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market were practically unchanged, while holdings of United States Treasury notes decreased $5,000,000 and those of Treasury certificates and bills increased $7,000,000.

Copper Prices Easier.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Copper in the foreign market turned easier today with large producers reported willing to sell at 6.10 cents a pound and smaller independents at 6 to 6.05 cents. The previous price was 6.25 cents and domestic sellers continued to quote at that figure. Buying continues light here and abroad.

CURB MARKET SAGS IN QUIETER DEALING

Trading Volume Increases to 160,000 Shares; Oils Steady in Tone.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The curb market drifted lower in another quiet session today in which sales again reached a total of only 160,000 shares.

Aluminum Co. lurched down more than 5 points. Atlantic & Pacific lost 3 points on odd lot transactions.

Oils showed a somewhat steadier tone. Standard of Indiana was up a fraction. Humble broke 5 points. Since its last previous appearance on the tape shares generally have gone lower.

Utilities were quiet, except for Electric Bond & Share, which lost more than a point in early heavy turnover.

MORRIS BANK HEAD URGES LAWS SURVEY

Ballantine Is Speaker at Convention Here; Cites Federal Aid.

Addressing the annual convention of the Morris Plan Bankers Association Undersecretary of Treasury Ballantine said that the relief measures involving public credit put the Government into business "in a limited sense," but that "no agency other than the Federal Government could render the powerful help needed in this time."

Mr. Ballantine reviewed the various measures enacted to aid economic recovery. He continued:

"The success of that effort is being reflected today in increased bank reserves, larger bank deposits, the return of gold and currency, increased prices of commodities and securities, and, beginning in certain lines, an upturn in employment and business activity."

Ball Addresses Meeting.

Discussing legislation affecting industrial banking, J. Rodney Ball, Lawrence, Mass., president, Morris Plan Bankers Association, addressing the convention recommended appointment of a committee to accumulate and correlate facts on this subject and determine, subject to approval of the association, what legislation is necessary for the best interest of individual banks.

In his statistical report Mr. Ball stated that at the end of June there were 107 Morris Plan banks and companies in operation in more than 140 cities.

Savings deposits in these banks, he said, amounted to $80,300,000 and their loan volume reached $69,900,000 for the first half of the year.

Combined Capital.

While the majority of Morris Plan banks are independent entities, their combined capital as of June 31, was $17,838,000 and their combined surplus, $10,400,000. Total resources were $170,400,000.

At noon Mrs. Hoover greeted the wives of the bankers at the White House and at 12:30 o'clock they joined their husbands in greeting President Hoover.

A report on composite operation experience of all Morris Plan banks in the country was presented at last night's session by Ralph W. Pitman, president, Morris Plan Co. of Philadelphia, and chairman of the committee intrusted with the survey.

Other Committee Members.

Other members of the committee are Philip Woolcott, senior vice president, Morris Plan Bank of Virginia; Arthur Blumeyer, president, Industrial Savings Trust Co., St. Louis, and Glenn Turnbull, executive vice president, Industrial Morris Plan Bank of Detroit.

Other speakers were Mr. Blumeyer, who talked on "Have We Confidence in Industrial Banking," and Mr. Woolcott, whose subject was "The Value of Study and Coordination."

A dinner will follow the golf tournament of the bankers today at Burning Tree Club. The convention closes tomorrow evening with a banquet at the Shoreham Hotel.

WHEAT VALUES LOSE ON WINNIPEG SLUMP

All Grains Sink Lower as Canada's Prices Fall to New Lows.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Dragged down by a fall in Winnipeg prices, putting Canadian wheat below 50 cents the first time this season, all grain values here weakened today.

A collapse of the corn market carried every delivery of corn to bottom quotations unequaled in years. The drop in corn values was in the face of news that a delegation of Chicago grain men had called on President Hoover today regarding use of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds to facilitate grain exports, corn in particular.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¾ to 1 cent under yesterday's finish; corn, ¾ to 1¼ down; oats, ⅜ to ⅝ off, and provisions, unchanged to 17 cents lower.

Breaks in grain values became most active during the late transactions and, notwithstanding that, concentrated Eastern buying indicated a continuance of support the wheat market has witnessed for several days past. Efforts to bolster wheat prices, however, appeared to run into persistent hedging pressure, which more than nullified the effects of active buying. Canadian rural deliveries of wheat remained heavy, 3,937,000 bushels against 1,522,000 a year ago, with weather in the prairie provinces ideal for threshing operations and facilitating crop movement.

Export Trade Insufficient.

Export business of 1,000,000 bushels proved insufficient to uphold the Winnipeg wheat market, and it was unofficially estimated that Canada has 416,000,000 bushels available for shipment overseas, compared with 296,500,000 at this time last year.

Russian wheat shipments for the week were larger, and there were more favorable crop reports from the Southern Hemisphere. Domestic baking concerns made further big purchases of flour, but production of flour was still much below that of a year ago.

Exceptionally favorable weather and the heaviest rural selling of corn yet this month put a weight on prices of corn and oats. May oats sold at a new low for the season.

Provisions weakened with grains.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE MAHATMA'S EXAMPLE.

MAHATMA GANDHI gave the planet something new in modern leadership; a man willing to fight for a great cause even if he had to do it on an empty stomach. The mahatma brought the British government to its knees by his own idea of a Hollywood diet.

* * * * *

There is no other big figure in the world today who would look at all convincing in a fight for human rights, once you took away his knife, fork and spoon.

* * * *

The world is full of leaders and causes, but Gandhi seems to be the only one whose style isn't cramped when it becomes necessary to skip a few meals. No matter in which direction you turn today you hear men shouting their determination to fight to the last ditch for the peepul, but you can interrupt the best of them by ringing a dinner bell and saying that the soup is getting cold.

* * * *

The trouble with most crusaders is that they consider it an unspeakable sacrifice when they have to skip the fish course and pass the French pastry.

* * * *

Many an American public man has been thrown out of his stride as a fearless leader by the mere fact that the waiter forgot to bring him a larger spoon for his rice pudding.

* * * *

Gandhi stands out as the most sincere public figure in the world today. There isn't another leader who could look convincing running a high fever in a blanket and ordering from a menu that contained nothing but bicarbonate of soda.

* * * *

Take Mussolini. If he announced that he intended to go without food until Switzerland gave up the Alps, the best he would get out of it would be a lot of political cartoons on both sides of the Atlantic.

* * * *

Or take Von Hindenburg. If the Iron Man issued a bulletin that he had just completed plans to go to bed under a mango tree and inhale nothing but lime juice until the United States canceled its war debts, the outstanding result would be nothing more than a denunciation in some of the newspapers and another statement by Mr. Stimson.

* * * *

As a matter of fact, there isn't a public man on earth except the Mahatma who could threaten to go on a rigid diet without meeting with laughter and applause.

* * * *

Mahatma Gandhi is in a class by himself. When he threatens to do something he does it, even if it means making him uncomfortable. And he doesn't consider he is making the ultimate sacrifice for the peepul if he gives up a second helping of chicken. Strange people, these Indians!

THE COOLIDGE "CASEY JONES."

Come all investors, if you want to hear
A story about a brave engineer:
Calvin Coolidge was the trainman's name—
On a six-eight wheeler, boys, he found his fame.
The caller called Calvin at half-past four—
He kissed his wife at the station door,
Mounted to the cabin with his orders in his hand,
And tried to find the troubles in the railroad land.

Chorus.

Cautious Cal mounted to the cabin,
Cautious Cal with his orders in his hand,
Tried to find the troubles in the railroad land.

II.

Put in your water and shovel in your coal,
Put your head out the window, watch them drivers roll!
There's a mess of trouble and I gotta see
If the roads can stand it, between you and me;
He looked at his watch and his watch was slow,
He looked at the water and the water was low;
He turned to his fireman and earnestly he said,
"We gotta keep 'er goin' thru the red, red, red!"

Chorus.

Cautious Cal! Goin' thru the red,
Cautious Cal! But we'll all be dead.
Cautious Cal! Gotta cut expenses.
We're gonna find the trouble, but we'll all be dead.

* * * *

You go on with the rest of it, if you have the heart. The last two lines will have to be, obviously:

Go to bed, children, and unfrightened be,
'Cause you've got another daddy on the R. F. C.

Bandits Won't Free Prisoners.

Newchwang, Manchuria, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Chinese bandits who kidnaped Charles Corkran and Mrs. Panley, British subjects, more than two weeks ago, today refused an offer by Gen. Wang Tien-Chung of immunity for the release of the prisoners.

THE DOCTOR FLATLY REFUSED TO ALLOW THE DETECTIVE TO QUESTION DAVID TRUMAN CONCERNING THE MYSTERIOUS RADIO WARNING
HE HAS SUFFERED A SEVERE HEART ATTACK AND IS IN NO CONDITION TO BE INTERVIEWED. POSSIBLY TO-MORROW YOU MAY TALK WITH HIM !!
O. K., DOC, BUT OF COURSE WE WANTED TO GET THE LOW DOWN AS SOON AS POSSIBLE BECAUSE IT SOUNDS VERY MUCH LIKE BLACKMAIL!!
MEANWHILE UPSTAIRS DAVID TRUMAN HAD FINALLY FALLEN ASLEEP AND VIOLET PEARSON AND HER BROTHER, HARRY, NOW TRIED TO PERSUADE LOUISE TO GET SOME REST COME, LOUISE DEAR!
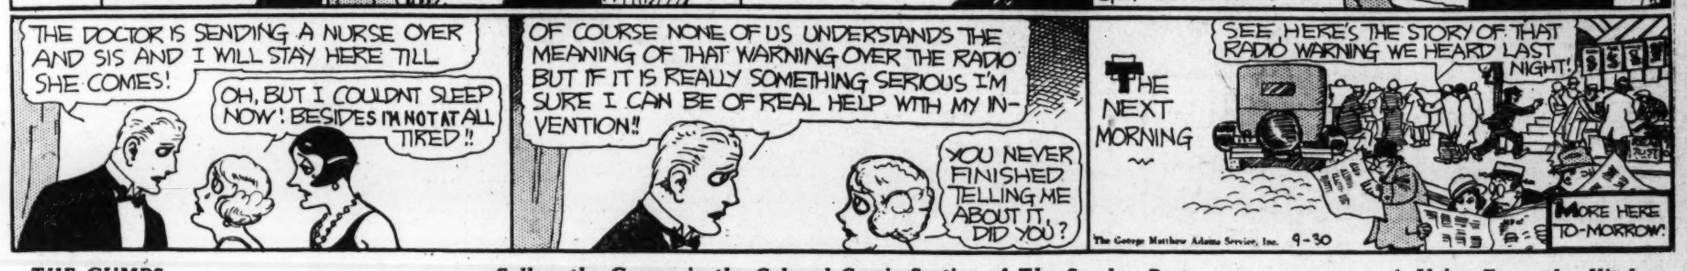
YES, YOU REALLY MUST, MISS TRUMAN, PLEASE!



THE DOCTOR IS SENDING A NURSE OVER AND SIS AND I WILL STAY HERE TILL SHE COMES!
OH, BUT I COULDNT SLEEP NOW! BESIDES I'M NOT AT ALL TIRED!!
OF COURSE NONE OF US UNDERSTANDS THE MEANING OF THAT WARNING OVER THE RADIO BUT IF IT IS REALLY SOMETHING SERIOUS I'M SURE I CAN BE OF REAL HELP WITH MY INVENTION!!
YOU NEVER FINISHED TELLING ME ABOUT IT, DID YOU?
THE NEXT MORNING
SEE, HERE'S THE STORY OF THAT RADIO WARNING WE HEARD LAST NIGHT!

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF LORA — TRYING TO RUN AWAY TO GET MARRIED TO THAT PEST, PRIGGY!
IT WAS TERRIBLY FOOLISH OF COURSE. SHE WAS SORT OF BORED WITH THINGS AS THEY WERE AND FELT THAT ANY KIND OF A CHANGE WOULD BE AN IMPROVEMENT.
I'M GLAD YOU ADMIT IT WAS FOOLISH. THAT'S THE WAY YOU LOOK AT THE CAMPAIGN — ANY KIND OF A CHANGE WOULD BE AN IMPROVEMENT.
WELL THAT IS BETTER THAN VOTING THE REPUBLICAN TICKET TIME AFTER TIME JUST BECAUSE YOUR GRANDFATHER DID.
WHAT ABOUT YOU? YOUR ANCESTORS HAVE BEEN DEMOCRATS SINCE THEY CAME OVER ON THE SANTA MARIA. I SUPPOSE THAT DOESN'T INFLUENCE YOU IN THE LEAST.
ABSOLUTELY NOT. IT IS ENTIRELY A MATTER OF PRINCIPLE WITH ME.
ALL RIGHT, NAME ME ONE PRINCIPLE OR IDEA THE DEMOCRATS CLAIM THAT THEY DIDN'T GET FROM THE REPUBLICANS.
I'LL NAME YOU A DOZEN IF YOU'LL MENTION HALF THAT MANY THE REPUBLICANS DIDN'T TAKE FROM THE DEMOCRATS.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

FIRE CHIEF WATSON and Gen. Glassford should be interested in the tiny two-way radio telephone transmitter especially designed for emergency use in their work. In fire fighting the new device is useful for communication between firemen in the interior of a burning structure and the officers directing operations outside.

This would also be faster than the old way of sending firemen into a burning building to warn their comrades to leave when walls show signs of crumbling or of floors caving in. Because they weigh only about 20 pounds, the little radio sets, which are manufactured by the RCA-Victor Co., can be strapped to a fireman's back without hampering his movements.

For police work the sets can easily be placed in patrol cars for use at the scene of riots. By this new means police reconnoitering a disorderly mob or a building harboring desperate criminals could maintain continuous contact with a central base of operations from which instructions could be issued to meet changing conditions.

MORTON DOWNEY will appear at the Fox Theater, beginning today. According to Carter Barron, Downey is the highest paid singer ever brought to the Fox. No broadcasts have been planned for him in Washington.

Not allowing the Fox to steal all the radio thunder, the Earle offers the picture "Crooner." The story, which depicts for the first time on the screen the making of a radio idol (guess who?), is really a sympathetic dramatic projection of these male dislikes—and female likes.

Whether one likes Vallee, Columbo and Crosby or just believes them an unnecessary evil, the fact remains that a crooner is now as much a part of American life as prohibition, although crooning may be legislated against later on.

As an added radio attraction at the Earle this week there are the "Radio Rubes," who will be heard over WRC Sunday night at 11:15 o'clock.

MARGUERITE CROMWELL is again doing very good work this season in the Wilkins Quarter-Hour (WRC, 6:45 p. m.).

Radio's largest stars, who together weigh 497 pounds, begin a new job tonight. Eddie East and Ralph Dumke, the erstwhile "Sisters of the Skillet," make their bows (Armour Hour, WJZ—9:30 p. m.)

Walter R. Okeson, of the committee of officials of the Eastern Intercollegiate Association, will explain "The Enforcement of Football Rules" (WJZ—10:15 p.m.).

"ARMIDA," an opera in five acts by Gluck, based on Tasso's "Jerusalem Delivered," will be presented by Cesare Sodero (WRC, 11:15 p. m.).

The work of the scientist in the laboratory can be applied to home sirup making and to the practice of canning farm and garden products (Dr. H. G. Knight, Agriculture Department, Farm and Home Hour, WRC, 12:30 p. m.).

Nancy Flake, a young lady from North Carolina, was attending a rehearsal of "Singin' Sam" the other night. He noticed that she was singing to herself along with him. He stopped and asked her if she would like to go on the air. She said in a pleasant Southern drawl, "Ah'd adore it." So right then and there, he gave her an audition. It proved satisfactory and he permitted Nancy to sing a number on his network program.

AS Rudy Vallee crooned the song over the radio last week, he called it "The Lar (Law) of Love."

Authoritative comment by eight of the country's leading coaches on the new football rules and their effect on the game with Dick Hanley present as guest speaker (WMAL, 9 p. m.)

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Office of the Supervising Architect, Washington, D. C., September 23rd, 1932.—Sealed bids in duplicate subject to the conditions contained herein, will be publicly opened in this office at 3 p. m. Friday, October 28th, 1932, for furnishing all labor and materials and for performing all work for the construction (except elevators and dumbwaiters) of the U. S. archives building at Washington, D. C. The prevailing rate of wages shall be paid to laborers and mechanics employed on the project as provided in the Act of March 3, 1931 (Public No. 798). Not exceeding 6 sets of drawings and specifications will be furnished to the prospective bidders upon application therefor, when such application is accompanied by a deposit of $100.00 for each set to insure its return. One set will be furnished builders' exchanges, chambers of commerce or other organizations who will guarantee to make them available for any sub-contractor or material firm interested, and to quantity surveyors, provided a deposit of $100.00 is made to assure its return. Checks offered as deposits must be made payable to the order of the Treasurer of the United States. Cash deposits will not be accepted. Each bid must be accompanied by a statement of facts in detail of the business and technical organization of the bidder available for the consummation of work, including financial resources and building experience, and no consideration will be given to a bid which is not accompanied by said statement. The right is reserved to reject any bid where an investigation or the evidence submitted by such bidder does not satisfy the contracting officer that such bidder is qualified to carry out properly the terms of the contract. In awarding a contract, consideration will not be given to bidders who have not constructed within the last six years at least one building comparable with the project for which the bid is submitted. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a performance bond of at least 50 per cent of the contract price. JAS. A. WETMORE, Acting Supervising Architect. 26,29,30

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

COL. THOMAS BLOOD, Irish adventurer, stole the crown and scepter of the King of England from under the guard's nose in the strong room of the Tower of London on the night of May 9, 1671. He beat off one guard at the gate, but the alarm was spread and Col. Blood soon was arrested and brought to trial. He was condemned to death, but the king pardoned him.

In many ways elephants can be trained to a much greater extent than any other animal. A dog, for instance, can be taught to guard a child from danger and protect it with almost human understanding. It can not, however, take a branch from a tree and fan the child or keep insects away, as can an elephant.

The elephant can be taught to do constructive work as no other animal can. Some elephants are taught to pile railroad ties, one layer at right angles to another. The English have used them as soldiers to go along behind an oxen-drawn cannon and steady it on uneven ground or sharp turns.

Yet these animals are downright dumb in some respects. Wild elephants can be herded into bamboo stockades and captured with comparatively little difficulty.

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. JOHN HIX.

PHONE RATE SLASH ORDER IS POSTPONED TEN DAYS BY P. U. C.

Action Taken on 'Suggestion' of Justice Gordon, Pending Study of Appeal.

At the "suggestion" of Justice Peyton Gordon, of District Supreme Court, the Public Utilities Commission last night made an eleventh-hour switch in its order to the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., decreeing a reduction in private telephone rates of 10 per cent.

The commission postponed for ten days the effective date of its rate order and for a month the associate order instructing the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. to credit 5 per cent interest to its depreciation reserve.

Justice Gordon took his action after he had listened for hours to arguments by attorneys for the phone company and rebutting arguments by William A. Roberts and Richmond B. Keech, acting as proponents of the rate reduction. Justice Gordon said he had been unable to wade through the voluminous testimony, in the form of cited cases, briefs and exhibits, and would be unable to do so before Monday.

Asks Postponement.

For that reason, he said, he asked the commission to postpone putting the rates into effect for ten days so that he could have the necessary time to go over the papers and reach a decision. Shortly after he communicated with the commission a formal order was prepared, postponing the reductions for ten days.

Counsel for the phone company, in appealing the rate decrease, declared it was confiscatory within the terms of the Constitution, in that it would net the company a rate less than that said by the Supreme Court to be just and proper.

Also, the attorneys claimed, if they obeyed the order and made the necessary changes in their schedules, it would necessitate bookkeeping changes that would bring the company into active conflict with the Interstate Commerce Commission. Counsel declared responsible officers of the company would be liable for a heavy fine and imprisonment if they obeyed the order and reduced the rates, as the penalties that could be imposed by the Interstate Commerce body would be severe.

Ordered Last Month.

The reduction was ordered last month. The telephone firm asked for a temporary injunction to forestall the reductions pending the settlement of valuation figures now pending, and the court hearing before Justice Gordon yesterday was on the temporary injunction requested by Attorneys George P. Hoover, R. A. Van Orsdel and Baxter Milne, acting for the phone company.

Mr. Hoover contended that the company had suffered a loss in business, which, together with a rate reduction would reduce revenues to the point where a return of slightly over 4 per cent would be netted. This, he said, would be confiscatory. Company officers challenged the jurisdiction of the commission in the face of the absence of a hearing to determine questions now pending.

Boy Reprimanded In School Missing

Parents Appeal to Post to Help in Locating Albert Silvester.

Because he was reprimanded for laughing in school, Albert Silvester, 12, disappeared from his home at 1408 North Capitol street, last Tuesday, and has not been seen since.

Last night the boy's parents appealed to The Post to aid in locating him. Albert, they said, left home as usual to attend classes at Langley Junior High School Tuesday morning. He failed to reach his classroom, it was learned, and when he did not return home, police were asked to search for him. When last seen Albert was wearing a green sweater, dark blue trousers, and black shoes. He wore no hat and had no money.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Silvester, said he was reprimanded for laughing in class not long ago, and it is believed he left home rather than return to school.

Dog, Kidnaped by Boy, 8 'King,' Mrs. Lamont's Prize

Child Gets Permission to Play With Pet and Then Disappears.

A boy yesterday kidnaped King, valuable police dog pet of Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, wife of the former Secretary of Commerce, while she shopped in a fashionable downtown establishment.

Late last night police had been unable to locate the boy, described by Mrs. Lamont as about 8 or 9 years old, who made friends with the dog and after receiving permission to play with it, disappeared with the pet.

Mrs. Lamont told The Post she first saw the boy when she entered the elevator of the store. The lad appeared to her to be familiar with the store and Mrs. Lamont said she assumed he was the child of an official or employe of the store.

The boy, who wore tortoise shell rim glasses and weighed about 60 pounds, asked Mrs. Lamont the name of the dog. A few minutes later he came into a lounge where Mrs. Lamont was resting and said he would like to play with the dog.

After receiving instructions as to how to handle the pet, the boy went out of the room with his playmate.

Later Mrs. Lamont looked for the boy and the dog but could find neither. The boy was not known about the store, it developed, and police were notified.

Mrs. Lamont, who lives at Wardman Park Hotel, said she acquired the dog about four years ago in Chicago.

THIS IS KING.

GRAND JURY IS TOLD OF WARDMAN DEALS

Aid to Attorney General in Milwaukee to Testify on Big Bond Issue.

Forrest A. Harness, special assistant United States Attorney General, arrived in Milwaukee yesterday to present to a Federal grand jury in that place evidence of alleged irregularities in the sale of the Wardman refinancing bond issue, based on eleven large properties here.

He is seeking an indictment of officials of Halsey, Stuart & Co., a national investment house, on a charge of misusing the mails. The bond issue aggregated $13,500,000, of which $11,000,000 of bonds were actually sold through the investment house.

The reason the indictment is being sought in Milwaukee is because a large number of the bonds were sold there. The bonds were sold through a syndicate which included A. B. Leach & Co., Wardman Construction Co., Wardman Real Properties, Roger Caldwell, of New York; William R. Compton Co., and Hambleton & Co.

With Mr. Harness in Milwaukee is E. J. Armbruster, accountant attached to the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice.

Taft Bridge Corrosion Studied.

C. R. White, District inspector of bridges, yesterday made an examination of the Taft Bridge to determine the extent of corrosive action on ornamental work after a 10-pound block had fallen into Rock Creek Park. The corrosion, which has previously caused trouble, does not affect the structural portion of the bridge.

WORKERS ASK HELP IN PAY CUTS FIGHT

Miss McNally Fears New Attempts to Slash Federal Wages.

Expressing fears that there will be a further onslaught on "the indefensibly low" Federal wage scale at the forthcoming short session of Congress, Miss Gertrude M. McNally, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Federal Employes, enjoined local union No. 2 last night to lend its support to the federation in vigorous opposition to all salary cut proposals.

Other objectives of the federation during the next session of Congress, Miss McNally said, will be to procure uniform annual and sick leave to replace unfair leave restrictions in the economy act; support of the Bingham resolution to repeal the married persons clause; restore authority to fill vacancies; repeal of the compulsory retirement provision contained in the economy act and to secure in lieu optional retirement after 30 years of service and restore travel pay and allowance.

"These changes are dictated by every consideration of fair play for the employes and of a better deal for the taxpayer's dollars," Miss McNally declared.

$25,000 Accident Damages Asked.

Harry A. Truscott, a contractor, of 3244 Walnut street northwest, yesterday was named defendant in a suit for $25,000 damages. The suit, filed in District Supreme Court, charged that a truck of Truscott's injured Robert T. Finlaw, 707 North Carolina avenue southeast, last October 2 at Eighth and East Capitol streets.

CRIME UNIT SHIFTS SEEN FORERUNNER OF CUT IN ACTIVITY

Gen. Glassford Expected to Assign Some of Men to Other Posts.

The recent transfer of Inspector O. T. Davis from command of the Crime Prevention Bureau and the shifting of three other members of the unit is the forerunner of a probable sharp curtailment of the scope of activity and number of men in that division.

Established last May as an innovation in police procedure here, the Crime Prevention Bureau was originally made up of about two score men, including the inspector, squadron officers and plain clothes men. It is by far the largest of its type in the Nation.

Gradual scaling down of the activity sphere of the unit and equal paring of manpower in assigning men to other duties is expected to be brought about by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police.

Gen. Glassford yesterday refused to amplify explanations he gave regarding the recent shake-up in the Crime Prevention Bureau. Pressed as to why he made public reasons underlying transfer of the three subordinates, but did not qualify his action with regard to Inspector Davis, the police head said:

"I am head of this department. I do not have to explain any personnel changes I wish to make."

Gen. Glassford also refused to comment on a question as to whether the transfer of Inspector Davis was a disciplinary measure or because of dissatisfaction with results achieved by the Crime Prevention Bureau.

Two Women and Man Plead Rum Innocence

Arrested in a raid on an alleged liquor place at Fourteenth and Irving streets northwest, two women and a man yesterday entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned in Police Court. On their demand that they be given jury trials the cases were set over for next week.

James E. Mortimer, 43, is charged with second offense possession, while Myrtle Mae Day, 26, and Eunice Carnell, 22, were charged with possession. All were booked on nuisance charges also.

Catholic Boys Honor Hoover.

President Hoover yesterday was given the Star pro Juventute with Wreath by the Rev. Kilian J. Hennrich, O. M. Cap, director general of the Catholic Boys Brigade of the United States, in appreciation of the recent White House conference on child health and protection.

Auto Victim Tells of Being Left for Dead

A story of being struck by an auto whose occupants started to take him to the hospital, but left him beside the road when they thought him dead was told yesterday by Michael Booker to Maryland State police, who found him on the roadside.

The Baltimorean said he was hit by the car on the Baltimore boulevard near Laurel early yesterday. Two men in the car took him into it and drove away. He was unable to speak or move, he said, but could hear clearly. The men decided he was dead, he stated, so they took him from the machine and laid him in some weeds beside a back road. He finally recovered his voice and summoned aid.

Booker was taken to a Baltimore hospital by Corpl. A. W. Plummer, where he was said to have two broken ribs and a fractured wrist. Persons near the scene furnished a description of a car seen near the spot. On this information Corpl. Plummer arrested William T. Horsey, of Elkridge, Md. Horsey was charged with assault with an auto and held in bond of $1,000 for a trial tomorrow.

WESTERN HIGH FIELD DEDICATION IS TODAY

Tablet Honoring His Father Will Be Presented to James B. Duncan.

Dedication exercises for the new athletic field at Western High School will be held at 2:15 p. m. today in the school auditorium.

James B. Duncan, a graduate of the class of 1925, will be presented with a bronze tablet honoring his father, who was graduated in the first Western High School class in 1893. The presentation will be made by Charles V. Imlay, president of the Parent-Teacher Association.

An inscription on the tablet reads: "This tablet was placed by the Western High School Home and School Association to the memory of S. Duncan, Bradley Class 1893, who by his devotion to his alma mater and his wholehearted and untiring efforts made a distinct contribution toward the achievement of the athletic field —1932."

Led by Dr. Elmer S. Newton, principal of the high school, the assembly, including members of the faculty, board of education and students, will march to the new field to place the tablet.

DIRECTORS OF HOME LOAN BANK FOR THIS REGION ANNOUNCED

E. C. Baltz Is Representative of District on Board of Institution.

The Home Loan Bank Board yesterday named E. C. Baltz, secretary of the Perpetual Building & Loan Association, to the board of directors of the fourth district of the new Federal financing agency.

T. H. Welsh, of the Hyattsville, Md., Building & Loan Association, and J. Newton Gordon, of Lynchburg, Va., were also named for the district board.

Public Interest Choices.

Dr. J. A. Chandler, president of William and Mary College, at Williamsburg, Va., with Ernest Woodruff, director of the advisory board of the Coca Cola Co., of Atlanta, were named members of the board, representing the public interest.

The fourth district, with a bank located in Winston-Salem, N. C., comprises Maryland, Virginia, the District of Columbia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama. The bank has a minimum capital of $10,000.

Other Directors.

Others named to the directorship of the district bank are:

P. W. Spencer, Rock Hill, S. C.; C. C. Duke, president, Provident Savings Bank, Baltimore; W. A. Patillo, Birmingham; Frank A. Chase, Dade County Securities Co., Miami, Fla.; J. F. Stevens, Greensboro, N. C., and Julian Price, president, Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co., Greensboro.

To date seven of the twelve regional bank boards of directors have been named. There are sixteen days left for the headquarters here to complete the organization of the others by October 15, when the banks will open.

Man Waives Hearing On Bad Check Charge

Waiving a preliminary hearing on a charge of passing a bad check for a $400 automobile, J. G. Landers yesterday was held for the grand jury when he was arraigned in Police Court.

Judge Ralph Given set his bond at $2,500. Landers is alleged to have given a dealer the check for the automobile which he drove away.

$15,000 Assault Damages Sought.

Ferdinand Lorenz, 3626 Georgia avenue northwest, yesterday brought suit against Earhart Schicht, of 902 Delafield place northwest, for $15,000 damages because of an alleged assault made upon him by Schicht in Maryland last June 23.

Nervous Thief Turns Tail as Victim Scowls

"G-g-give me all your m-money!"

Edward Speis, mansger of a filling station at Connecticut avenue and Yuma street northwest, looked up from his work last night to find himself confronted by a small man, nervously fumbling a revolver.

The little man repeated his somewhat unconvincing command. Speis said nothing—just stood and looked at the would-be bandit.

The gun in the stranger's hand wobbled in an unsteady and extremely unsafe fashion. The intruder opened his mouth, apparently to make a third demand for cash.

Speis, summoning one of his meanest looks, stared hard at the little man and roared:

"I won't!"

Whiz! The little man had vanished—gun and all. It takes a brave man to stand up in front of one of Speis' looks—especially one of his meanest ones.

RAGON SAYS G. O. P. BETRAYED FARMERS

Tariff Used as Foil, House Member Charges; Students Rally Tonight.

The protective tariff on agricultural commodities has been employed by the Republican party for the betrayal of the farmers, Representative Hartsill Ragon (Democrat), of Arkansas, member of the House ways and means committee, declared in a speech made last night at a meeting in the City Club Building under the auspices of the central Democratic committee of the District.

"Heretofore," Representative Ragon said, "the Republicans have pointed to the depression during the administration of Grover Cleveland. What will they point to now?"

The young progressive voters of the West are throwing their support behind Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Speaker John N. Garner, Miss Elizabeth Wheeler, secretary of the District Young Democrats Clubs and national vice president of the organization, said. Miss Wheeler is the daughter of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana.

A rally of members of the faculty, alumni and students of Georgetown University is to be held in the District committee headquarters at 8:30 o'clock tonight. John F. Costello, national committeeman, will open the meeting and turn the gavel over to Dr. Lewis C. Cassidy, professor of law at the university.

NEW YORK AVENUE WIDENING SOUGHT FOR BUS TERMINAL

Utilities Commission Holds Up Greyhound Grant; Hearing Today.

Although the order granting the Greyhound Bus Lines permission to establish a terminal at 1403-11 New York avenue northwest had already been drafted and scheduled to be issued yesterday, the Public Utilities Commission suddenly and without explanation proposed that New York avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets be widened 8 feet in a memorandum to the District Commissioners, meanwhile holding up the terminal grant.

As a consequence, the Commissioners at 10 a. m. today will hold a hearing on this proposal with representatives of the Greyhound Lines and property owners involved present. The commission suggested that the widening might be accomplished by moving the north curb line back.

Without stating what action it might take should the street widening proposal be disapproved, the commission stated that the Greyhound application would be granted "at once" if it were approved.

The E. Morrison Paper Co. yesterday filed a protest with the commission against the maintenance of a stand for coaches of the Robert L. May Virginia bus line in front of its establishment at 1009 Pennsylvania avenue. The protest was referred to the traffic coordinating committee for investigation.

Fete Plans Made By Citizens' Group

Conduit Road Association to Take Part in Parade on Halloween.

Members of the Conduit Road Citizens' Association at a meeting last night at the Community Church, Cathedral avenue and Conduit road, unanimously agreed to participate in the city-wide celebration of Halloween and plan to enter a float in the parade.

The group voted that no change be made in the zoning regulation regarding the construction of garages. The plan is to establish a ruling restricting the building of garages 50 feet back from the building line.

The association also voted to make a request to Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d to construct a municipal tennis court in the vicinity of the Community Church. Lucian Jordan presided.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Washington, Thursday, Sept. 29—8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Fair Friday and Saturday; warmer Saturday; gentle northwest or north winds Friday, becoming variable Friday night.

For Maryland and Virginia—Fair, slightly warmer in extreme west portions Friday; Saturday fair and warmer.

No reports have been received tonight from the vicinity of the tropical disturbance, but it is apparently central about midway between Jamaica and Swan Island, moving westward about 15 miles an hour.

The northern disturbance remains central over Hudson Strait, Nottingham Island, 29.06 inches, with a trough extending southeastward to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and thence southward to the vicinity of Bermuda, St. Georges, Bermuda, 29.84 inches. The disturbance from Alaska has moved eastward and it now has two centers, Coppermine, District of Mackenzie, 29.24 inches, and Le Pas, Manitoba, 29.58 inches. Pressure remains low over the Pacific States, Arizona and Mexico, Yuma, Ariz., 29.54 inches. Pressure is high from the Plains States and the southern Rocky Mountain region eastward to the Atlantic Coast, Kansas City, Mo., 30.24 inches, and Amarillo, Tex., 30.22 inches. Generally fair weather has prevailed except for rain in the southern Plateau and southern Rocky Mountain region and western and southern Texas, and showers in portions of the Lake region and along the south Atlantic coast. The temperature has fallen rather generally east of the Mississippi River and in New Mexico and western Texas, and it has risen in the northern Plains States, Minnesota and the western Canadian Provinces.

General forecast for the Atlantic States, the lower Lake region, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee—The indications are for generally fair weather during the next two days except for local showers in extreme southern Florida Friday and Saturday and for showers Saturday in Kentucky, Tennessee and the southern Appalachian region. The temperature will rise slowly in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the lower Lake region and the Appalachian region Friday and the weather will be warmer Saturday in the middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States, North Carolina, the upper Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region.
